From Grammar to Science Victor H. Yngve, 1996-12-19 Although efforts have been under way for the past two centuries to treat language scientifically, linguists and others who work with language, speech or communication have not found an adequate scientific foundation in current linguistic theory. Many of the difficulties are caused by longstanding confusions between the logical domain of science and grammar and the physical domain of sound waves and the people who speak and understand. In this book, therefore, the last impediments of tradition, the ancient semiotic grammatical foundations of linguistics are set aside. We move into the physical domain where theories and hypotheses can be tested against observations of the physical reality. Here new foundations are laid that are fully consonant with modern science as practiced in physics, chemistry and biology. On these foundations is built a structure of testable, specific, dynamic causal laws of communicative behavior that provides support for treating previously recalcitrant context dependent semantic, pragmatic, interactive, rhetorical and literary phenomena. The central role of context in the foundations of the theory provides the insights of scientific lawfulness while still honoring the particularity of situations celebrated in the humanities. Being

Alive Tim Ingold, 2021-11-29 Anthropology is a disciplined inquiry into the conditions and potentials of human life. Generations of theorists, however, have expunged life from their accounts, treating it as the mere output of patterns, codes, structures or systems variously defined as genetic or cultural, natural or social. Building on his classic work The Perception of the Environment, Tim Ingold sets out to restore life to where it should belong, at the heart of anthropological concern. Being Alive ranges over such themes as the vitality of materials, what it means to make things, the perception and formation of the ground the mingling of earth and sky in the weather world the experiences of light sound and feeling the role of storytelling in the integration of knowledge and the potential of drawing to unite observation and description Our humanity Ingold argues does not come ready made but is continually fashioned in our movements along ways of life Starting from the idea of life as a process of wayfaring Ingold presents a radically new understanding of movement knowledge and description as dimensions not just of being in the world but of being alive to what is going on there This edition includes a new preface by the author
