Education's Abiding Moral Dilemma Sheldon Rothblatt, 2007-05-14 The conflict between access and quality in education has been front page news for decades Policies regarding the role of elite universities the organisation of secondary education admissions criteria courses of study high stakes testing and fiscal and programme accountability have changed with uncommon frequency resulting in confusion and uncertainty Yet it is the argument of this book that the tension between access to education and the preservation of quality is another chapter in the much longer history of merit selection in England Scotland and America and should be seen in its proper contexts The underlying cause of the difficulties however is the dilemma created by two competing conceptions of virtue one determined by merit judged competitively and the other more vaguely but emotionally supported by a broader view of worth Merit is consistent with liberal democracy but worth is the special province of social democracy None of the distinctions is easily categorised by political party or ideology They are the result of opposite moral impulses inherent in plural democratic societies undergoing the strains of internal and global competition

Teacher Education for the Changing Demographics of Schooling Lani Florian, Nataša Pantić, 2017-04-09 The book takes as its premise the argument that diverse learner groups are a fact of demographic change that should be considered foundational in the preparation of teachers rather than be problematized as a challenge It promotes the idea of teacher education for inclusive education based on a consideration of what it means to educate all children together Divided into four parts the book considers key issues for teacher education teacher agency teacher education for diversity and a research agenda for the future In today's world the demographic profile of students in schools is more complex than ever before and the increasing cultural linguistic and developmental diversity of today's classrooms along with the pressure to achieve high academic standards for everybody has significant implications for how classroom teachers should be prepared to meet these demands This book advances a new understanding of inclusive education that addresses the limitations inherent in current approaches that problematize differences between learner groups by promoting a view of difference as an aspect of human individuality It considers the implications of the research evidence underpinning teacher education for diversity and makes suggestions for future research in the field

Educational Authorities and the Schools Helene Årlestig, Olof Johansson, 2020-05-28 This book describes and analyses the organisation functions and development of national educational authorities and agencies and the influence they have on local schools in 20 countries around the world It examines the governing chain in the respective countries from both a theoretical and descriptive perspective It does so against the background of the stability and rigour of the governing chains having been challenged with some researchers considering the chain to be broken However the view that comes to the fore in this book is that the chain is still present and contains both vertical implementation structures and intervening spaces for policy interpretation How schools become successful is important for the individual students as well as the local community and the national state A vast quantity of research has looked at what happens in schools and classrooms At the same time national governance and politics as well as local prerequisites are known to exert influence on schools and their results to a high degree Societal priorities problems and traditions provide variety in how governance is executed This book provides an international overview of the similarities and differences between educational agencies and how their work influences schools

An Atlantic Crossing? Martin Lawn, 2008-05-12 This book focuses on the International Examinations Inquiry IEI an international well funded scientific project that operated in the 1930s attracting key world figures in educational research and which undertook significant exchanges of data Originally involving the USA Scotland England France Germany and Switzerland the IEI grew to include Norway Sweden and Finland Funded by Carnegie money these researchers included major comparative educationalists New Education Fellowship academics statisticians and educational psychologists They met at a significant time in the emergence of international scientific work in educational research between the USA and Europe they were a midway stage between earlier individual contacts by well travelled researchers usually towards North America and the development of joint research projects sustained over time The focus of the IEI was on methods of examining pupils for the coming expansion of secondary education but their key problems were to do with establishing standardized methods of measurement international scholarly communication and comparative understandings of national diversity The IEI researchers acted to support national achievements and strategies within the borders of the nation and internationally to exchange methods and results In retrospect they appear to be visible in their knowledge communities and national education histories but invisible in their internationalism
