

Should Life Sustaining Medical Care be Rationed Based on Age

By 2040, people over 65 will account for 21% of the population and consume 45% of all health care expenditures.

- 1/3 of the annual Medicare costs are for the 5-6% of beneficiaries who die that year. (Is this a problem ...or is it just an expense to be expected?)
- 40 million Americans have no medical insurance and are at risk of being denied basic healthcare services. At the same time the government pays most of the healthcare costs of the elderly. The amount of $$ aid to the elderly is greater than to any other group and the elderly (as a group) have the highest disposable income. Fair?
- British vs. American system
- British system strives for basic medical care for all versus expensive technology for the few who might benefit. Results = nearly identical health status and life expectancy at 60% of the cost

Yes?

- Should medical care for the elderly who have lived their natural life expectancy consist only of pain relief rather than expensive services that serve only to forestall death?
- Is it both economically valid and morally acceptable to limit health care for the elderly?
- "Aging and death in old age are inevitable....But premature death, and bad schools, and blighted urban areas of great poverty are not inevitable"
- Current situation is a result of U.S. being an "...affluent, hyper-individualistic, technology driven society"

No?

- Medical decisions should not be based on whether or not an individual is "deserving" of care. Society doesn't have the right or capability of making that decision.
- "Slippery-slope" argument. Limiting high-tech care may lead to other limitations in care
- Couldn't other health care expenditures be questioned as well.
- (Public monies and health insurance monies for infertility treatments in an already overcrowded nation/world)

Rationing Health Care André den Exter, Martin Buijsen, M. A. J. M. Buijsen, 2012 Medical need is a factor in health care access decision making but merit considerations are becoming important too In the shortening of waiting time priority arrangements are considered and or introduced based on non medical criteria Simultaneously in terms of financing health status has become important due to payment arrangements limited insurance package options etc At the same time health status disparities due to socioeconomic inequalities seem to be increasing Under these circumstances confronted with increased health spending it is expected that rationing will become more eminent Due to this the emerging relevant questions are Who will be responsible for rationing the market governments bureaucrats physicians or others How does it function explicit or implicit What are relevant and acceptable selection criteria QUALYs DALYs health status sex age etc To what extent is current rationing just What can be done to make it more just

Growing Old in America

Beth

Hess,2020-03-02 Modern industrial societies are characterized by long term declines in fertility and steady increases in life expectancy Together these trends result in an aging population The United States is no exception since 1969 the median age has risen from 29 4 to a projected 36 4 in the year 2000 This fourth edition of the standard reader on the sociology of aging has been completely revised with 90 percent new material to reflect new information and new issues in this rapidly developing field Students and practicing professionals will find it a lively accessible overview Discrimination, Equality and Health Care Rationing Rachel Horton,2025-06-26 Available open access digitally under CC BY NC ND licence When deciding who to treat those engaged in priority setting and resource allocation in health care need to comply with their obligations under the Equality Act 2010 This book provides an in depth examination of how anti discrimination laws intersect with health care rationing in the UK It critiques how existing legal frameworks apply to resource allocation questioning whether and when utilitarian principles should be adjusted to incorporate anti discrimination norms The author offers detailed cases studies in the contexts of fertility treatment public health and intensive care highlighting practical implications and real world challenges This is a timely legal analysis providing crucial policy insights in the wake of recent global health crises
