Shout In The Street An Excursion Into Th:

A Shout in the Street, 1991-01-01 A remarkable meditation on the topography of the modern city A Shout in the Street offers a close and sensitive examination of four urban landscapes London Paris Leningrad and New York Peter Jukes pursues the essence of these international metropolises in an assemblage comprised of his own evocative essays excerpts from modern masters of the essay form such as Benjamin Barthes and Sontag and period photographs A Shout in the Street with a keenly cinematic eye searches out not just the glittering facades but the vitality of thoroughfares and neighborhoods A Shout in the Street Peter Jukes, 1990 The Art of Taking a Walk Anke Gleber, 2020-09-01 Anke Gleber examines one of the most intriguing and characteristic figures of European urban modernity the observing city stroller or flaneur In an age transformed by industrialism the flaneur drifted through city streets inspired and repelled by the surrounding scenes of splendor and squalor Gleber examines this often elusive figure in the particular contexts of Weimar Germany and the intellectual sphere of Walter Benjamin with whom the concept of flanerie is often associated She sketches the European influences that produced the German flaneur and establishes the figure as a pervasive presence in Weimar culture as well as a profound influence on modern perceptions of public space The book begins by exploring the theory of literary flanerie and the technological changes street lighting public transportation and the emergence of film that gave a new status to the activities of seeing and walking in the modern city Gleber then assesses the place of flanerie in works by Benjamin Siegfried Kracauer and other representatives of Weimar literature arts and theory She draws particular attention to the works of Franz Hessel a Berlin flaneur who argued that flanerie is a reading of the city that perceives passersby streets and fleeting impressions as the transitory signs of modernity Gleber also examines connections between flanerie and Weimar film and discusses female flanerie as a means of asserting female subjectivity in the public realm The book is a deeply original and searching reassessment of the complex intersections among modernity vision and public space The Aesthetics and Politics of the Crowd in American Literature Mary Esteve, 2003-02-27 Mary Esteve provides a study of crowd representations in American literature from the antebellum era to the early twentieth century As a central icon of political and cultural democracy the crowd occupies a prominent place in the American literary and cultural landscape Esteve examines a range of writing by Poe Hawthorne Lydia Maria Child Du Bois James and Stephen Crane among others These writers she argues distinguish between the aesthetics of immersion in a crowd and the mode of collectivity demanded of political liberal subjects In their representations of everyday crowds ranging from streams of urban pedestrians to swarms of train travellers from upper class parties to lower class revivalist meetings such authors seize on the political problems facing a mass liberal democracy problems such as the stipulations of citizenship nation formation mass immigration and the emergence of mass media Esteve examines both the aesthetic and political meanings of such urban crowd scenes Wanderlust Rebecca Solnit, 2001-06-01 A passionate thought provoking exploration of walking as a political and cultural activity from the author of

Orwell's Roses Drawing together many histories of anatomical evolution and city design of treadmills and labyrinths of walking clubs and sexual mores Rebecca Solnit creates a fascinating portrait of the range of possibilities presented by walking Arguing that the history of walking includes walking for pleasure as well as for political aesthetic and social meaning Solnit focuses on the walkers whose everyday and extreme acts have shaped our culture from philosophers to poets to mountaineers She profiles some of the most significant walkers in history and fiction from Wordsworth to Gary Snyder from Jane Austen's Elizabeth Bennet to Andre Breton's Nadja finding a profound relationship between walking and thinking and walking and culture Solnit argues for the necessity of preserving the time and space in which to walk in our ever more car dependent and accelerated world

Interpreting Environments Robert Mugerauer, 2014-10-14 In this pioneering book Robert Mugerauer seeks to make deconstruction and hermeneutics accessible to people in the environmental disciplines including architecture planning urban studies environmental studies and cultural geography Mugerauer demonstrates each methodology through a case study The first study uses the traditional approach to recover the meaning of Jung's and Wittgenstein's houses by analyzing their historical intentional contexts The second case study utilizes deconstruction to explore Egyptian French neoclassical and postmodern attempts to use pyramids to constitute a sense of lasting presence And the third case study employs hermeneutics to reveal how the American understanding of the natural landscape has evolved from religious to secular to ecological since the nineteenth century

Gods of the City Robert A. Orsi, 1999-07-22 Book Review

Town House Bernard L. Herman, 2012-12-01 In this abundantly illustrated volume Bernard Herman provides a history of urban dwellings and the people who built and lived in them in early America In the eighteenth century cities were constant objects of idealization often viewed as the outward manifestations of an organized civil society As the physical objects that composed the largest portion of urban settings town houses contained and signified different aspects of city life argues Herman Taking a material culture approach Herman examines urban domestic buildings from Charleston South Carolina to Portsmouth New Hampshire as well as those in English cities and towns to better understand why people built the houses they did and how their homes informed everyday city life Working with buildings and documentary sources as diverse as court cases and recipes Herman interprets town houses as lived experience Chapters consider an array of domestic spaces including the merchant family's house the servant's quarter and the widow's dower Herman demonstrates that city houses served as sites of power as well as complex and often conflicted artifacts mapping the everyday negotiations of social identity and the display of sociability

The Public Realm Lyn H. Lofland, 2017-07-12 This book is about the public realm defined as a particular kind of social territory that is found almost exclusively in large settlements This particular form of social psychological space comes into being whenever a piece of actual physical space is dominated by relationships between and among persons who are strangers to one another as often occurs in urban bars buses plazas parks coffee houses streets and so forth More specifically the book is about the social life that occurs in such social psychological spaces

the normative patterns and principles that shape it the relationships that characterize it the aesthetic and interactional pleasures that enliven it and the forces anti urbanism privatism post war planning and architecture that threaten it The data upon which the book s analysis is based are diverse direct observation interviews contemporary photographs historic etchings prints and photographs and historical maps histories of specific urban public spaces or spatial types and the relevant scholarly literature from sociology environmental psychology geography history anthropology and architecture and urban planning and design Its central argument is that while the existing body of accomplished work in the social sciences can be reinterpreted to make it relevant to an understanding of the public realm this quintessential feature of city life deserves much more u it deserves to be the object of direct scholarly interest in its own right Choice noted that The author s writing style is unusually accessible and the often fascinating narrative is generously supported by well chosen photos

The Cultural Construction of London's East End Paul Newland, 2008 Paul Newland s illuminating study explores the ways in which London s East End has been constituted in a wide variety of texts films novels poetry television shows newspapers and journals Newland argues that an idea or image of the East End which developed during the late nineteenth century continues to function in the twenty first century as an imaginative space in which continuing anxieties continue to be worked through concerning material progress and modernity rationality and irrationality ethnicity and Otherness class and its related systems of behaviour The Cultural Construction of London s East End offers detailed examinations of the ways in which the East End has been constructed in a range of texts including BBC Television s EastEnders Monica Ali s Brick Lane Walter Besant s All Sorts and Conditions of Men Thomas Burke s Limehouse Nights Peter Ackroyd s Hawksmoor films such as Piccadilly Sparrows Can t Sing The Long Good Friday From Hell The Elephant Man and Spider and in the work of Iain Sinclair
