Gettysburg Unearthed: John G. Sabol Jr.,2007-09-27 This book is the third in a series of anthropological studies which analyze ghosts and haunting phenomena in their cultural context A history of visitations to the Gettysburg landscape is linked to the presence or absence of anomalous sensory manifestations The preliminary analysis of the data suggests that the hauntings at Gettysburg may be a product of sociocultural factors in part related to the growth of heritage tourism rather than any ghostly manifestations by civil war soldiers Since this is a preliminary analysis a research design is proposed to further excavate the Gettysburg landscape This approach is based on the use of ethnographic context spatial symmetry cultural relativity and performance based investigative practices The author proposes that through this methodology a controlled excavation of the landscape can be made thus unearthing a more scientific analysis and evaluation of Gettysburg as a haunted cultural place

Archaeology, Narrative, and the Politics of the Past Julia A. King,2012-07-15 In this innovative work Julia King moves nimbly among a variety of sources and disciplinary approaches archaeological historical architectural literary and art historical to show how places take on and convey and maintain meanings Focusing on the beautiful Chesapeake Bay region of Maryland King looks at the ways in which various groups from patriots and politicians of the antebellum era to present day archaeologists and preservationists have transformed key landscapes into historical indeed sacred spaces The sites King examines include the region's vanishing tobacco farms St Mary's City established as Maryland's first capital by English settlers in the seventeenth century and Point Lookout the location of a prison for captured Confederate soldiers during the Civil War As the author explores the historical narratives associated with such places she uncovers some surprisingly durable myths as well as competing ones St Mary's City for example early on became the center of Maryland's founding narrative of religious tolerance a view commemorated in nineteenth century celebrations and reflected even today in local museum exhibits and preserved buildings And at Point Lookout one private group has established a Confederate Memorial Park dedicated to those who died at the prison thus nurturing the Lost Cause ideology that arose in the South in the late 1800s while nearby the custodians of a 1 000 acre state park avoid controversy by largely ignoring the area's Civil War history preferring instead to concentrate on recreation and tourism an unusually popular element of which has become the recounting of ghost stories As King shows the narratives that now constitute the public memory in southern Maryland tend to overlook the region's more vexing legacies particularly those involving slavery and race Noting how even her own discipline of historical archaeology has been complicit in perpetuating old narratives King calls for research particularly archaeological research that produces new stories and counter narratives that challenge old perceptions and interpretations and thus convey a more nuanced grasp of a complicated past
