Social Support Networks James K.

Whittaker, James Garbarino, This book offers for the first time a clear conception of what social support networks are why they are important how they are identified and sustained where they fit in an overall framework of human services and their limits and potential in selected fields of practice Individual chapters explore child adolescent and family services daycare and early childhood development divorced and stepfamilies schools delinquency prevention and treatment mental health service to the elderly development disabilities healthcare and health promotion and drug treatment The use of social support networks extended family friends neighbors and other informal helpers is an idea whose time has come in the human services field At a time when spiraling costs and popular sentiment weigh against any major expansion of services it is apparent that a service strategy based primarily on the notion of professional helping delivered on a case by case basis usually in a one to one relationship has serious limitations Professional response to this major work has been uniformly positive The editors have assembled a book of considerable importance brilliant in both scholarship and construction will appeal to a broad readership Gerald Euster University of South Carolina offers a much needed balance to the focus on individual and internal dynamics which has characterized social work education for several decades Eleanor Reardon Tolson University of Chicago Social Support Networks is a valuable contribution a unique original and authoritative book an exciting timely and definitely practice oriented book with a strong theoretical and research base Anthony N Maluccio University of Connecticut James K Whittaker is professor of social work at the University of Washington A former childcare worker therapist and administrator in residential childcare he has been a consultant to governmental and voluntary children s agencies throughout the United States James Garbarino is Elizabeth Lee Vincent Professor of Human Development in the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University He was president of the Erikson Institute for Advanced Study in Child Development Chicago Illinois from 1985 to 1994 He is the co author of Troubled Youth Troubled Families also available from AldineTransaction Relational Social Work Fabio Folgheraiter, 2004 In this innovative book Fabio Folgheraiter presents a systematic introduction to networking and reflexive practice in social work The text explores how the interested parties in social care can acquire a shared power in care planning and decision making and that when this networking occurs the efficacy of caring initiatives increases Encyclopedia of Canadian Social Work Francis J. Yoder, J.M.L. Jonker, R.A.B. Leaper, 2012-12-06 The historic Binnenhof seat of the Dutch government in The Hague provided the setting January 1985 for a conference in which participants from eleven countries met to consider the theme Support networks in a caring community research and policy fact and fiction At the outset conference leadership provided by Professors J M L

Jonker The Netherlands and R A B Leaper United Kingdom urged the conferees not to allow their enthusiasm for informal support networks to combine with the pervasive awareness of the failures of welfare states into a simplistic stance of advocacy with a consequent appeal to politicians to direct state funds accordingly Legitimate criticisms of the responses of welfare states to the needs of citizens were to be seen as the context for discussion not the substance of conference deliberations More specifically if it is now apparent to many people that governmental assistance of individuals with social needs can lead to an undesirable dependency on the part of increasingly passive citizens that awareness does not lend logical support to an ideological position that governmental expenditures are pernicious per se to be replaced as rapidly as possible by a return to reliance on self family friends and associations that are developed voluntarily and financed by those who are sufficiently interested

Child Mental Health Practice from the Ecological Perspective Richard L. Munger, 1991 The ecological perspective is a contextual approach which works at the interface between families and the broader ecology or ecosystem of the child the approach is not new but has not been widely adopted due to the lack of illustrative material available for practitioners Through an approach more descriptive and explanatory than empirical the author shows the clinician or other child care professional why the child's environment is crucial and provides techniques to draw people in the child's environment into the healing process

Figley, 2014-06-17 First published in 1983 This is Volume 1 of two in a collection of on stress and the family The books view the family as both producing and reacting to stress and attempt to identify the sources of stress from either inside or outside the family microsystem Further the volumes distinguish between sudden unpredictable and overwhelming catastrophic stress and the more normal gradual and cumulative life stressors encountered over the life span Moreover the series brings into focus several rich perspectives which effectively integrate the hundreds of generalizations about the functional and dysfunctional methods family members use to cope with stress

Neighborhood Networks for Humane Mental Health Care Arthur J. Naparstek, David E. Biegel, Herzl R. Spiro, 2012-12-06 It is hard to think of a more timely and topical major contribution than Drs Naparstek Biegel Spiro and collaborators have provided in this volume Their penetrating comprehensive study and field tests give us mapping toward the goal of reifying the concept of community as applied to human services. The book will prove invaluable to those at the policy level: legislators, planners, and administrators. It will serve as an essential reference for community workers, professional providers, natural helpers, and citizens as a whole. A salient ideal of New Federalism placing governance as close to the people as practicable seems a prophetic match with the model of Neighborhood Empowerment. As the authors point out, conventional wisdom has seemed to offer government regulation, control, and program evaluation as a panacea package for improving human services. This work suggests a radically different approach: specifically, a shift to greater instrumental involvement of the richly variegated mosaic of American neighborhoods combined with a system of excellent high technology service agencies. Certainly genuine efforts have been made before toward a true linkage of the community with human services. The Great Society programs with their emphasis on citizen involvement and maximum feasible participation established the foundation for legitimate citizen-consumer linkage with the program process. Yet in so many instances the results fell far short of expectations.
