Regional Integration The West European Experience:

Regional Integration William Wallace, Professor of International Relations William Wallace, 1994 The European Union is the oldest and most highly developed example of institutionalized regional integration Since its establishment in the early 1950s the EU has moved from the shallow integration of dismantling trade barriers to the deep integration of accepting common policies on agriculture environment transport and working conditions common rules on competition mergers and financial transfers and common laws in the domestic courts of member states The EU experience is a successful example of integrating national economies but how far should those promoting regional integration in the Western Hemisphere and the Pacific look to the EU as a model Can regional and global integration proceed harmoniously Or will tensions between regional and global priorities unavoidably arise This book part of the Integrating National Economies series examines the evolution of West European integration over the past forty years William Wallace analyzes the historical circumstances under which the institutions of integration developed and the internal tensions and contradictions created by the deepening of integration and repeated enlargements He explains that in recent years deep integration has presented a challenge to national identity forcing policymakers to confront issues of sovereignty political commitment and regional balance Wallace concludes that the European experience provides a number of important cautionary lessons for those promoting regional integration in the Western Hemisphere and the Asia Pacific region However it does not offer a model that these areas can easily follow Wallace emphasizes that the experience of West European economic integration during the cold war years will do little to reconcile global and regional integration in the post cold war world the political and security concerns are no longer the same He contends that the international community must develop rules for the new global order without searching for historical parallels as those creating the institutions of regional integration in Western Europe did in their time A volume of Brookings Integrating National Economies Series The EU's Experience in Integration Lisheng Dong, Günter Heiduk, 2007 The thirteen ASEAN 3 countries are inching forward toward closer economic cooperation Can the European Union serve as a model for this Asian interregional integration process Although there are common cultural threads running through all ASEAN 3 countries these countries have not so far envisaged themselves forming a political and supra national legal community similar to the EU Nevertheless the EU as innovator and forerunner offers Asia an unparalleled road map to further regional integration Where are the boundaries of the European Model What form will Asian economic cooperation take Asian and European scholars discussed these and other pressing questions on the invitation of the EU China European Studies Centres Programme ESCP at a conference entitled The EU's Experience in Integration A Model for ASEAN 3 held in Shanghai in January 2006 Their findings are presented in this collection of fifteen papers on politics economics and history of the two regions Integrating Europe Jeffrey Stacey, 2010-04-15 Using the European Union as a laboratory for testing this book seeks to explain how and why institutional change takes place European Union and

Deegan-Krause, 2013-09-13 Is European party politics hovering above society Why do voters pick one party over others Is it a question of class Of religion Of attitudes about taxes or immigration or global warming Or is it something else entirely The Structure of Political Competition in Western Europe takes a detailed look at the ways in which Western Europe's party systems are anchored in social and ideological structures The book's first section focuses on the role of social structures particularly education class and religion and analyzes the complex interplay among these factors The second section addresses the ways that the sociological structures such as class and religion interact with voters' values The third section examines the way that these structures and values shape the space of political competition among parties The conclusion integrates the findings of the empirical articles putting them into broader comparative perspective discussing whether relatively predictable structures have been overwhelmed by media driven spectacles political personalities and focus on short term economic performance This volume will appeal to scholars and graduate students in Europe and those from North America Asia and other regions who study European politics political parties cleavages and political behaviour This book was published as a special issue of West European Politics A Handbook on the ECOWAS Treaty and Financial Institutions

Maiyaki, 2012-09-14 The inspiration to write on the ECOWAS Treaty and the role of financial institutions derived from the apparent and unabated efforts of the various governments in the West African subregion to find solutions to the inexplicable sufferings and underdevelopment of the region and its people in the face of abundant but untapped human and natural resources The strategy of integration has been employed by other jurisdictions some of them more developed as an option in addressing the forgoing challenges So many years after the establishment of ECOWAS the dream is far from being attained Given the critical financial engagements inherent in the ECOWAS integration strategy it is considered desirable that the treaty is rationalized to accommodate a wider role for financial institutions within the control of a supra national framework

Cosmopolitan Government in Europe Owen Parker, 2013-04-26 The invocation of the market has been omnipresent in media discussions of crisis Europe On the one hand the market is presented as that to which EU member states must collectively respond It is the very purpose of a post national government and that which dictates individual and collective identities The expansion of market is that which guarantees and constitutes peace in Europe On the other hand the market is that which government must seek to tame It is the servant of government and ought not be permitted to undermine collective identities and solidarities associated with the juridical imaginary of social contract and sovereign nation state It is from this perspective the expansion of the social institutions of nation state into the post national arena that will constitute a lasting peace in Europe Cosmopolitan Government in Europe uses a Foucauldian lens to consider the ethics of the scholarly and institutional discourses associated with these apparently divergent market and legal cosmopolitan visions of Europe It reflects on attempts to reconcile or move beyond these discourses particularly through the invocation of more pluralist modes of governance but claims that such moves have been largely unsuccessful in both practice and theory It argues that the very ambiguity in the relationship between the ideal subjects that these market and legal visions promote respectively post national entrepreneur and citizen is that which permits a space for resistance and politics Thus the book argues for a pragmatic politics which is cognizant of the violent potential inherent in any cosmopolitan attempt to govern Europe while recognising the contemporary dangers associated with the dominance of a market cosmopolitan Europe This work is an important and timely intervention in contemporary debates about democratic Europe and its shortcomings and will be of great interest to scholars of international political theory European studies and international political economy

New Regionalism and the European Union Alex Warleigh-Lack, Nick Robinson, Ben Rosamond, 2011-06-01 The debates on regionalism have been polarized between European Union EU scholars and non EU scholars with the assumption being that regionalism within the EU and other regions of the world are quite distinct with little to be learnt from dialogue with each other This book challenges such assumptions and calls for a genuine debate between scholars of regionalism This book demonstrates that more can and needs to be learned about regional integration all over the world through comparison and reflection on specific regional trends Beginning with a theoretically driven introduction leading experts in the field are brought together to offer a series of case studies on regional integration within Latin America Africa Asia North America and Europe In Part III the authors investigate the links between the EU and selected other regional organisations and processes exploring the dynamics through which these interregional relations are developing and the implications they have for the study of contemporary regionalism regionalisation both inside and beyond the continent of Europe The conclusions set out a challenging research agenda for comparative studies in the field Addressing one of the under explored aspects of EU studies the EU s coexistence with other pan continental regional organisations in the European continent this book will be of interest to students and scholars of regionalism IPE European Studies and international politics African Regional Organizations

Domenico Mazzeo,1984 Essays examine security political financial and economic organizations in Africa and discuss the problems and prospects of each group
