Genetic Criticism Dirk Van Hulle, 2022-02-24 In Genetic Criticism Dirk Van Hulle introduces the study of creative processes to an Anglophone audience As a method in the study of literary writing processes genetic criticism is also a reading strategy The idea behind this book is to introduce this strategy to a broader audience from interested readers and graduate students to early career researchers and literary critics In literary studies it is often obvious that a particular work somehow seems to hit a nerve but more challenging to pinpoint exactly why it works This book therefore starts from a clear basic assumption knowing how something was made can help us understand how and why it works This strategy is at the basis of many disciplines including art history By means of X ray technology or hyperspectral imaging it is possible to look at a painting as a multilayered object with not only spatial dimensions but also a temporal one This temporal dimension is the core of the reading strategy introduced in this book Note books marginalia manuscripts and typescripts even if one works with scans give a concrete dimension to literature which is a helpful reading strategy for many students On the one hand this involves concrete transferrable skills such as aspects of transcription and digital scholarly editing On the other hand it also involves more abstract theoretical issues relating to matters of authorship collaboration authority agency intention and intertextuality

The Book as Artefact, 2005-01-01 Books do not just contain texts books themselves are cultural artefacts which convey many meanings in their own right meanings which interact with the texts they contain Awareness of the many significances of books as cultural and textual objects reshapes the traditional disciplines of textual theory analytic bibliography codicology and palaeography while the advent of electronic books and digital methods for representing print books is introducing a new dimension to our understanding Seven essays in this volume ranging over medieval Portuguese and Swedish manuscripts eighteenth century Icelandic editions Australian playtexts Thackeray and Anita Brookner and Stefan George consider these questions from the broad perspective of textual scholarship Texts may exist on the borderland of word and not word or they may spring from borderlands of nation or culture or they may be considered from the margins of neighbouring disciplines So readers must set the texts within contexts to see the play of text against border Essays in this volume explore different texts against varying backgrounds Pound's Cantos Joyce's Ulysses Trollope's An Eye for an Eye Woolf's The Waves while essays by McGann and Lernout argue the dimensionality of text on the intersection of print and digital media Implicit in all these essays is the contention that textual scholarship must influence literary interpretation Two final essays focus directly on this in the cases of Melville's Moby Dick and Emily Dickinson's late fragments An extensive reviews section completes this volume

Shimmering in a Transformed Light Rosemary Lloyd, 2005 Although much has been written lately on the links between painting and writing little or no attention has been paid to those moments in literature when the narrative stops to allow for the description of those objects we associate with still life Rosemary Lloyd's book shows how fascinating this overlooked area is how rich in suggestions of class race and gender how much it indicates about human pleasures and about the experience of space and time Lloyd focuses on the last two centuries particularly at points marked by the irruption of images of contingency and rapid change into the fields of art for example the year of the Terror in French history the decade in which Haussman's politically driven transformation of Paris led Baudelaire to write his great modernist poem Le Cygne and on or about December 1910 the date to which Virginia Woolf attributes a revolution in the definition of literary character Lloyd's central concern lies with the ways in which the still life written or painted both evokes and attempts to deal with the sense of contingency While she makes frequent reference to paintings she focuses above all on written still lifes particularly those moments when novels pause to address the subject matter of still life a bowl of fruit a hat rack a desk cluttered with pens and papers in ways that invite contemplation of other and broader cultural domains She draws on literary and art works from Australia England France Germany Ireland Italy and the United States
