available introduction to the stratification canon Forced Labor Brian C. Robertson, 2002 The last thing parents should do is try to balance work and family A revolutionary shift of time and attention from home to the workplace has left the family on the ropes Researcher Brian Robertson shows how a potent combination of ideology government policy and corporate coercion has driven parents from home and how they can find their way back Confronting the overwhelming evidence that children suffer when their mothers leave them for the workplace Mr Robertson asks why it has nevertheless become the norm for mothers to work The power of feminism seems the obvious answer but until the 1960s the womens movement zealously fought against mothers being forced to abandon their homes for wages The real answer Mr Robertson reveals is the transformation of the way we think about work itself What we once undertook to support our families we now pursue as a means of self fulfillment Along with this new view of work have come coercive new policies in business and government always labeled family friendly that have deliberately stacked the deck against one income families While Democrats embrace the feminist mania for working mothers Republicans will not threaten the corporate grip on parental priorities Mr Robertson responds with an outline of sane family policy designed to help mothers and fathers prevail against the anti family current Forced Labor is the first book to challenge the idea of balancing work and family Work belongs in the service of the family And nothing less than our childrens happiness and security is at stake First published in hardcover as Theres No Place Like Work Forced Labor has been revised and updated with a new preface by the author Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1996 Inequality in the United States John Brueggemann, 2020-11-25 For courses in Inequality Social Stratification and Social Problems A thoughtful compilation of readings on inequality in the United States The main objective of this text is to introduce students to the subject of social stratification as it has developed in sociology The central focus is on domestic inequality in the United States with some attention to the broader international context The primary goal of the text is to offer an understanding of the history and context of debates about inequality and a secondary goal is to give some indication as to what issues are likely to arise in the future AEI Studies [on] Contemporary Economic Problems, 1977
