movement that is both shaped by globalization processes but also a major contributor to the globalization of religion. Until recently, social scientific approaches to Christianity have often been informed by a rather selective understanding of Christianity, stressing its ascetic components premised on a body spirit dualism and seeing its importance mainly as a harbinger of secular modernity. Hence, where Christianity was studied outside the West, it has usually been peripheral and viewed as an alien intrusion undermining local cosmologies. However, rather than a religious rejection of the world, Pentecostalism accommodates to the world and modernity. It transcends locality by promulgating a universal imaginary of the world while at the same time incorporating itself successfully into the socio-cultural contexts of any new cultures it encounters. The fundamental fluidity of the transnational Pentecostal network is conducive for its flexibility to react on the enormous upheavals and changes in a globalized world and to accommodate to them in constructive ways. Thus, Pentecostalism can be regarded as a paradigmatic case of a globalized religion; it has the ability to adapt itself to local conditions while maintaining and preserving its distinct religious features at the same time. This study focuses on the different theoretical attempts made to explain the massive global expansion of Pentecostalism.

The Pragmatics of Defining Religion Platvoet, Arie Molendijk, 2018-11-13. This volume promotes a pragmatic, anti-essentialist and anti-hegemonic approach to the problem of the definition of religion. It argues that definitions of religion are context-bound strategies for pursuing a variety of purposes, extra-academic as well as academic. Religions being immensely varied, complex and multi-functional phenomena, they need to be studied by several academic disciplines from many different perspectives. It is therefore legitimate and useful that many definitions of religions are developed. The volume has contributions from scholars in Philosophy of Religion, the Comparative Study of Religions, Anthropology of Religion, Sociology of Religion and Psychology of Religion. It has chapters on the polemics of defining religion in modern contexts the history of the concept of religion and the methodology of its definition it includes several definition proposals

Mapping the Academic Debate Johannes Duschka, Christoph Kleine, Monika Wohlrab-Sahr, Florian Zemmin, 2024-12-16 This volume maps the international academic debate on secularity It places seminal contributions from within Western academia alongside less well known texts from various parts of the world in several cases this is the first time that they have been translated into English The volume demonstrates that the academic debate on secularity was and is a global debate with contributions from many regions The collected texts relate to each other either directly or indirectly by referring to similar arguments whether reinforcing or criticising them and thus create a discourse When speaking of global secularity we therefore do not insinuate a uniform world secularity resulting from the alleged global diffusion of Western norms ideas and concepts It is rather a web of relations that is constituted via various different references These references are not evenly distributed the development in the West is often the point of reference to which positions from other regions relate to which they connect or from which they distance themselves But the references are not completely unidirectional We also present texts from Europe that underline the multidirectionality of the process even early on Thereby the volume offers the reader the material with which to trace these global exchanges and references
