Religions of Modernity Stef Aupers, Dick Houtman, 2010. Religions of Modernity challenges the social scientific orthodoxy that once unleashed the modern forces of individualism, science and technology inevitably erode the sacred and evoke the profane. The book's chapters, some by established scholars, others by junior researchers, document instead in rich empirical detail how modernity relocates the sacred to the deeper layers of the self and the domain of digital technology. Rather than destroying the sacred, the cultural logic of modernization spawns its own religious meanings, unacknowledged spiritualities and magical enchantments. The editors argue in the introductory chapter that the classical theoretical accounts of modernity by Max Weber, Emile Durkheim and others already hinted at the future emergence of these religions of modernity.

Order and Agency in Modernity Kwang-ki Kim, 2012-02-01. In this unique analysis of three prominent theorists of modern sociology, theory is understood as implicitly but importantly reflecting especially modern problems of individual and social life. From the grand theoretical systems of Talcott Parsons to the unique symbolic interactionism of Erving Goffman and the radically mundane ethnomethodology of Harold Garfinkel, a wide variety of noted sociological theories have addressed central issues of sociology against the backdrop of modern society. When this modern backdrop is brought into the foreground of analysis, sociological theories assume new depth and breadth and new historical significance. The author outlines features of the modern experience, drawing upon neglected cultural theorists of modernity and then shows how these features of modernity are reflected and incorporated in the scholarship of Parsons, Goffman and Garfinkel. The result is an original and eclectic analysis that illuminates previously overlooked dimensions to modern sociological theory and suggests new possibilities for meaningful and rewarding comparisons between theoretical traditions.

Believers: Faith in Human Nature Melvin Konner, 2019-09-10. An anthropologist examines the nature of religiosity and how it shapes and benefits humankind. Believers is a scientist's answer to attacks on faith by some well-meaning scientists and philosophers. It is a firm rebuke of the Four Horsemen: Richard Dawkins, Daniel Dennett, Sam Harris and Christopher Hitchens, known for writing about religion as something irrational and ultimately harmful. Anthropologist Melvin Konner, who was raised as an Orthodox Jew but has lived his adult life without such faith, explores the psychology, development, brain, science, evolution and even genetics of the varied religious impulses we experience as a species. Conceding that faith is not for everyone, he views religious people with a sympathetic eye. His own upbringing, his apprenticeship in the trance dance religion of the African Bushmen and his friends' and explorations in Christian, Buddhist, Hindu, Muslim and other faiths have all shaped his perspective. Faith has always manifested itself in different ways: some revelatory and comforting, some kind and good some ecumenical and cosmopolitan some bigoted coercive and violent But the future Konner argues will both produce more nonbelievers and incline the religious among us holding their own by having larger families to increasingly reject prejudice and aggression A colorful weave of personal stories of religious and irreligious encounters as well as new scientific research Believers shows us that religion does much good as well as undoubted harm and that for at least a large minority of humanity the belief in things unseen neither can nor should go away

Faith and History - A Comparison of Christian and Modern Views of History Reinhold Niebuhr, 2013-04-18 The theme of this volume was first presented as the Lyman Beecher Lectures On Preaching at the Yale Divinity School in 1945 Some of the same lectures were given by arrangement under the Warrack Lectureship On Preaching at the Universities of Glasgow and Aberdeen in Scotland in the winter of 1947 Some of the chapters were used as the basis of lectures given under the Olaf Petri Foundation of the University of Uppsala in Sweden I sought to develop various portions of a general theme in these various lectureships In this volume I have drawn these lectures into a more comprehensive study of the total problem of the relation of the Christian faith to modern conceptions of history While the total work therefore bares little resemblance to the lectures it does contain consideration of the specific problems which were dealt with in the lectures I shall not seek to identify this material by chapters as I subjected the whole to reorganization Two of these lectureships usually deal with the art of preaching though not a few of the actual lectures have been concerned with the preacher s message Since I had no special competence in the art of homiletics I thought it wise to devote the lectures to a definition of the apologetic task of the Christian pulpit in the unique spiritual climate of our day Since several of the Beecher lecturers in the past half century sought to accommodate the Christian message to the prevailing evolutionary optimism of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries I thought it might be particularly appropriate to consider the spiritual situation in a period in which this evolutionary optimism is in the process of decay This volume is written on the basis of the faith that the Gospel of Christ is true for men of every age and that Jesus Christ is the same yesterday today and forever It is nevertheless the task of the pulpit to relate the ageless Gospel to the special problems of each age In doing so however there is always a temptation to capitulate to the characteristic prejudices of an age

Religion and Global Culture Jennifer I. M. Reid, 2003-01-01 Religion and Global Culture draws together the work of a group of historians of religion who are concerned with situating the contemporary study of religion within the cultural complexity of the modern world The writing of each of the volume s contributors relates to the work of leading historian of religion Charles H Long who has identified religious meanings in the contacts and exchanges of the colonial and postcolonial periods Together with Long these scholars explore religious practices in a variety of globalized contexts chapters consider such varied subjects as the rituals of African immigrant communities in the United States the making of Mohawk sweet grass and black ash baskets the religious experience of prisoners in the Nazi holding camp of Westerbork and the regional repercussions of contemporary multi national business By locating religion in the conflicted and cooperative relationships of the colonial and postcolonial periods Religion and Global Culture calls on scholars of religion to reconfigure their interpretive stances from the perspective of the material structures of the modern globalized world

The Primitive Mind and Modern Man John Alan Cohan, 2010-12-30 This book is in the field of trans cultural psychology and is intended for college courses in anthropology and psychology and general readership the book focuses on intriguing facts about primitive cultures around the world and provides insights into living traditions and different world views a principal theme of the book is that we can gain a better understanding of ourselves by a detour to other cultures the book shows how modern ways of thinking are parallel to those of primitive cultures and engages readers to become more aware of who they are As shown throughout the book there is not after all a very wide gulf between primitive and modern cultures the book covers many topics including animism shamanism totemism hunting and cultivation rituals altered states of consciousness envy and the evil eye how people deal with conflicts potlatches cargo cults how people satisfy the need for social approval culture bound syndromes folk medicine treatment of women raising of children nomadic peoples treatment of the dead and other topics

Religion and Ecological Crisis Md. Abu Sayem, 2022-09-02 Religion and Ecological Crisis delves into the complex relationship between religions and ecology presenting Christian and Islamic perspectives on ecological issues through the work of John Boswell Cobb and Seyyed Hossein Nasr It examines how faith traditions of the world see and respond to our current unprecedented climate change issues This is the first comparative study of Cobb and Nasr's eco religious understanding and explores how their prescriptions can contribute alternatively to techno scientific initiatives in environmental sustainability Taking Cobb's economism and Nasr's scientism as the key concepts for surveying the roots of the ecological crisis the book offers interdisciplinary and interreligious insights into the debates about ecological equilibrium motivational awareness in human mind and about entanglements between religion and the environment This will be an insightful resource for policy makers faith leaders and for academics working in Environmental Studies and Religious Studies
