with Dr. Kat

Scientific evidence can be confusing! It's easy to mistake weak evidence for strong evidence. Sometimes people share unreliable things on social media with good intentions, but sometimes they're exploiting the public's lack of understanding of different levels of evidence. We all encounter claims online, but all evidence is not created equal. So, how can you tell the quality? This infographic can help you find your way.

TIP Scientific evidence in the news

News reports and opinion pieces about scientific topics might cite a mix of different kinds of evidence. Be sure to examine what type is being presented & if it meets an expert's

Scan here

to watch Dr. Kat lead you through this chart

META-ANALYSIS

Statistical method that combines the results of multiple scientific studies

Example: Connection between intelligence test scores and education

SYSTEMATIC REVIEW

The gold standard for testing health claims. The reviewer does not include experiments but summarizes them. Researchers randomly assign participants to groups to make fair comparisons and test treatments & ways that evidence lies

Example: Does COVID-19 require masks

CLINICAL TRIAL

A study that compares a group of individuals with a specific condition to a group of people without that condition to find out what may have caused it

Example: A study used to determine a link between smoking and lung cancer

Don't forget: Correlation does NOT equal causation

CASE REPORT / CASE SERIES

A study on one person (report) or one group (series) of people with similar clinical characteristics. Because these studies don't make comparisons, they aren't as strong as the evidence in higher levels of the pyramid

Example: Reported flu cases reported with no comparison

OPINION PIECE

An editorial opinion presented without data. More prone to bias

META-ANALYSIS AND SYSTEMATIC REVIEW

RANDOMIZED TRIAL

COHORT STUDY

CASE-CONTROL STUDY

CROSS-SECTIONAL STUDY

CASE REPORT / CASE SERIES

EXPERT OPINION

INTERVIEW REVIEW

Synthesis of all data summarized in a meta-analysis. Offers interpretation and context

Example: Evidence synthesis, scores on biomarkers for COVID-19

COHORT STUDY

Often a large, long-term study that looks at what causes diseases in different groups (cohorts). It is not randomized

Example: Framingham Heart Study

CASE-CONTROL STUDY

A study that measures the health of a particular group of people at a particular point in time

Example: National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey

Shallow lakes are important for their amenity value and the ecosystem services that they support However many are located in areas of high population density and intensive farming activity As such they are subject to many stressors including eutrophication and climate change This book examines 40 years of data from Loch Leven a shallow lake in the lowlands of Scotland UK to gain a better understanding of the links between pollution climate change and ecological response at the landscape scale A wide range of topics is presented including long term changes in nutrient inputs internal phosphorus loading water quality algal concentrations and the biodiversity of macrophytes zooplankton benthic invertebrates fish and waterfowl The book provides evidence that attempts to improve ecosystem services at this site in the past have often resulted in unintended consequences for the lake and the local community It concludes that successful management actions in the future are likely to be those that incorporate lessons learned from previous decisions This book will be of great interest to freshwater ecologists working in the field and managers responsible for the protection and monitoring of natural areas It is also suitable as a supplementary text for courses in freshwater science and environmental management Air Force
