Afflitto, Paul Jesilow, 2009-03-06 The last three decades of the twentieth century brought relentless waves of death squads political kidnappings and other traumas to the people of Guatemala Many people fled the country to escape the violence Yet at the same moment a popular movement for justice brought together unlikely bands of behind the scenes heroes blurring ethnic geographic and even class lines The Quiet Revolutionaries is drawn from interviews conducted by Frank Afflitto in the early 1990s with more than eighty survivors of the state sanctioned violence Gathered under frequently life threatening circumstances the observations and recollections of these inspiring men and women form a unique perspective on collective efforts to produce change in politics law and public consciousness Examined from a variety of perspectives from sociological to historical their stories form a rich ethnography While it is still too soon to tell whether stable long term democracy will prevail in Guatemala the successes of these fascinating individuals provide a unique understanding of revolutionary resistance      Guatemala Institute of Medicine, National Academy of Engineering, National Academy of Sciences, Committee on Human Rights, 2003-06-29 Two members of the Committee on Human Rights CHR NAS member Mary Jane West Eberhard and NAS NAE member Morton Panish undertook a mission to Guatemala to observe the trial of two high level Guatemalan military officials who were charged with ordering the murder of Guatemalan anthropologist Myrna Mack She was stabbed to death in 1990 two days after a report for which she was principal researcher Assistance and Control Policies Toward Internally Displaced

Populations in Guatemala was published by the Georgetown University Press Ms Mack had been doing research on and writing about the unjust treatment of the internally displaced people in Guatemala Thirteen years after Ms Mack's murder after the case had gone through dozens of courts and countless delays a general and colonel in the Guatemalan military intelligence apparatus were brought to trial and one was convicted This marked the first time in Guatemalan history that a high level military official had been brought to justice for atrocities he committed during Guatemala's 30 year civil war This report summarizes the one month trial proceedings

Criminalizing Atrocity Mark S. Berlin, 2020-03-25 Why do countries adopt criminal legislation making it possible to prosecute government and military officials for human rights violations Over the past thirty years dozens of countries have prosecuted their own or other states officials for past atrocities In Criminalizing Atrocity Mark Berlin tells the story of the global spread of national criminal laws against atrocity crimes genocide war crimes and crimes against humanity laws that have helped pave the way for this remarkable trend toward greater accountability He traces the early 20th century origins of national atrocity laws to a group of influential European criminal law scholars and explains the global patterns by which these laws have since spread Berlin shows that understanding why countries criminalize atrocities requires understanding how they do so In many cases criminalization has not been the result of concerted government initiative but of inconspicuous choices made by technocratic legal experts who have been delegated authority to draft large scale reforms to countries national criminal codes Drawing on research in comparative law and norm diffusion Berlin explains how such reform projects prompt technocratic drafters to select legal ideas like atrocity laws that have been endorsed by their professional communities and deemed by drafters to be important features of a modern criminal code To test this argument Berlin draws on original quantitative and qualitative data including in depth case studies of Guatemala Poland Colombia and the Maldives and a new comprehensive dataset tracking the global spread of atrocity laws since World War II The book's findings highlight the importance of professional communities in the modern renaissance of atrocity justice and the domestication of international legal norms
