Smith, 2013-02-01 Britain's maritime tradition is well documented The management of its marine and coastal environment is therefore of tantamount importance and offers lessons for other nations across the world The beginning of the new millennium marks a major long term turning point in the historical development of Britain's maritime interest discernible by continued diversification and intensification in the uses of the sea unprecedented and often adverse environmental impacts engendered by these uses and the beginning of a major effort to establish a comprehensive management system which can deal with both multiple uses and environmental impacts This collection featuring an impressive list of contributors covers themes including maritime history environmental issues public policy tourism technology and resources as well as open sea development and management It is a useful addition for those interested in geography the environment maritime studies and also engineering Devolution, Law Making and the Constitution Robert Hazell, Richard Rawlings, 2015-12-01 Law making is a primary function of government and how well the three devolved UK legislatures exercise this function will be a crucial test of the whole devolution project This book provides the first systematic study and authoritative data to start that assessment It represents the fruits of a four year collaboration between top constitutional lawyers from Scotland Wales and Northern Ireland and leading researchers in UCL's Constitution Unit The book opens with detailed studies of law making in the period 1999-2004 in the Scottish Parliament and the Assemblies in Wales and Northern Ireland and how they interact with Westminster Later contributions look at aspects of legislative partnership in the light of the UK's strongly asymmetric devolutionary development and also explain the unexpected impact of devolution on the courts Individual chapters focus on various constitutional aspects of law making examining the interplay of continuity and change in political legal and administrative practice and the competing pressures for convergence and divergence between the different parliaments and assemblies This book is essential reading for academics and students in law and in politics and for anyone interested in the constitutional and legal aspects of UK devolution not least the practitioners and policymakers in London Edinburgh Cardiff and Belfast Scotland's Road to Independence Alan W.
