Screening The City

Tony Fitzmaurice, Mark Shiel

Screening The City:

Screening the City Tony Fitzmaurice, Mark Shiel, 2003 In this provocative collection of essays a diverse selection of films are examined in terms of the relationship between cinema and the changing urban experience in Europe and the United States since the early 20th century

Screening Love and War in Troy: Fall of a City Antony Augoustakis, Monica S. Cyrino, 2022-01-13 This is the first volume of essays published on the television series Troy Fall of a City BBC One and Netflix 2018 Covering a wide range of engaging topics such as gender race and politics international scholars in the fields of classics history and film studies discuss how the story of Troy has been recreated on screen to suit the expectations of modern audiences The series is commended for the thought provoking way it handles important issues arising from the Trojan War narrative that continue to impact our society today With discussions centered on epic narrative cast and character as well as tragic resonances the contributors tackle gender roles by exploring the innovative ways in which mythological female figures such as Helen Aphrodite and the Amazons are depicted in the series An examination is also made into the concept of the hero and how the series challenges conventional representations of masculinity We encounter a significant investigation of race focusing on the controversial casting of Achilles Patroclus Zeus and other series characters with Black actors Several essays deal with the moral and ethical complexities surrounding warfare power and politics The significance of costume and production design are also explored throughout the volume

Shutdown of the River Water System at the Savannah River Site, City of Aiken, SC, 1996 Inheriting the City Philip Kasinitz, John H. Mollenkopf, Mary C. Waters, Jennifer Holdaway, 2009-12-11 The United States is an immigrant nation nowhere is the truth of this statement more evident than in its major cities Immigrants and their children comprise nearly three fifths of New York City s population and even more of Miami and Los Angeles But the United States is also a nation with entrenched racial divisions that are being complicated by the arrival of newcomers While immigrant parents may often fear that their children will disappear into American mainstream society leaving behind their ethnic ties many experts fear that they won't evolve instead into a permanent unassimilated and underemployed underclass Inheriting the City confronts these fears with evidence reporting the results of a major study examining the social cultural political and economic lives of today's second generation in metropolitan New York and showing how they fare relative to their first generation parents and native stock counterparts Focused on New York but providing lessons for metropolitan areas across the country Inheriting the City is a comprehensive analysis of how mass immigration is transforming life in America's largest metropolitan area The authors studied the young adult offspring of West Indian Chinese Dominican South American and Russian Jewish immigrants and compared them to blacks whites and Puerto Ricans with native born parents They find that today's second generation is generally faring better than their parents with Chinese and Russian Jewish young adults achieving the greatest education and economic advancement beyond their first generation parents and even beyond their native white peers Every second generation group is doing at least marginally and in many cases significantly better than natives of the same racial group across several domains of life Economically each second generation group earns as much or more than its native born comparison group especially African Americans and Puerto Ricans who experience the most persistent disadvantage Inheriting the City shows the children of immigrants can often take advantage of policies and programs that were designed for native born minorities in the wake of the civil rights era Indeed the ability to choose elements from both immigrant and native born cultures has produced the authors argue a second generation advantage that catalyzes both upward mobility and an evolution of mainstream American culture Inheriting the City leads the chorus of recent research indicating that we need not fear an immigrant underclass Although racial discrimination and economic exclusion persist to varying degrees across all the groups studied this absorbing book shows that the new generation is also beginning to ease the intransigence of U S racial categories Adapting elements from their parents cultures as well as from their native born peers the children of immigrants are not only transforming the American city but also what it means to be American

Mare Island Naval Shipyard Disposal and Reuse, City of Valley, Solano County, 1998 Negotiating the Mediated City Zlatan Krajina, 2013-11-26 This book is an interdisciplinary empirical investigation of how people interact with public screens in their daily lives In more and more surprising locations screens of various kinds appear within the sightlines of passers by in contemporary cities Outdoor advertisers target audiences which are increasingly mobile public art uses screens to interrogate urban change while postmodern architecture finds electronic imagery a suitable tool of expression Traditionally urban sociology research has assumed that people seek to filter urban stimuli but recent accounts of public screens suggest producers design and position display interfaces site specifically so as to engage with those moving past This study offers insight both into the dynamics of actual encounters and into the long term process of how people learn to live with repeated invitations to consume media in public spaces The book includes four cases street advertising underground transport advertising and installation art in London UK and media facade architecture in Zadar Croatia Krajina shows that maintaining familiarity with everyday surroundings in media cities that change beyond citizens control is a temporary achievement and a recursive struggle Finalist for the Jane Jacobs Urban Communication Foundation book award 2014 Jersey City, Hudson River Waterfront Transportation Corridor Improvements, Hudson-Bergen Light Rail Transit System (HBLRTS), Hudson County, Bergen County, 1996 Annual Report of the Heads of the Departments of the City of South Bend, Indiana South Bend (Ind.), 1923 The Inner City Environment and the Role of the Environmental Protection Agency, Hearings Before the Subcommittee on the Environment..., 92-2, February 4; April 7; May 8, 1972 United States.
