Judaism and Story Jacob Neusner, 2003-09-26 In this close analysis of The Fathers According to Rabbi Nathan a sixth century commentary on the Mishnah tractate The Fathers Avot Jacob Neusner considers the way in which the story as a distinctive type of narrative entered the canonical writings of Judaism. The final installment in Neusner's cycle of analyses of the major texts of the Judaic canon Judaism and Story shows that stories about sages exist in far greater proportion in The Fathers According to Rabbi Nathan than in any of the other principal writings in the canon of Judaism of late antiquity. Neusner's detailed comparison of The Fathers and The Fathers According to Rabbi Nathan demonstrates the transmission and elaboration of these stories and shows how these processes incorporated the newer view of the sage as a supernatural figure and of the eschatological character of Judaic teleology. These distinctions as Neusner describes them mark a shift in Jewish orientation to world history. Judaism and Story documents a chapter of rabbinic tradition that explored the possibility of historical orientation by means of stories. As Neusner demonstrates this experiment with narrative went beyond argumentation focused on the explication of the Torah. The sage story moved in the direction of biography but without allowing biography to emerge. This development in Neusner's account parallels the movement from epistle to Gospel in early Christianity and thus has broad implications for the history of religions.

A History of the Bible as Literature David Norton, 1993

Rabbinic Narrative: A Documentary Perspective, Volume Three Jacob Neusner, 2021-11-22 Each Rabbinic document from the Mishnah through the Bavli defines itself by a unique combination of indicative traits of rhetoric, topic and particular logic that governs its coherent discourse. But narratives in the same canonical compilations do not conform to the documentary indicators that govern in these compilations respectively. They form an anomaly for the documentary reading of the Rabbinic canon of the formative age. To remove that anomaly this project classifies the types and forms of narratives and shows that particular documents exhibit distinctive preferences among those types. This detailed systematic classification of Rabbinic narrative supplies these facts concerning the classification of narratives and their regularities:

1. what are the types and forms of narrative in a given document?
2. how are these distinctive types and forms of narrative distributed across the canonical documents of the formative age, the first six centuries C.E.?

The answers for the documentary preferences are in Volumes One through Three for the Mishnah, Tosefta, the Tannaite Midrash compilations and Rabbah Midrash compilations respectively. Volume Four then sets forth the documentary history of each of the types of Rabbinic narrative including the authentic narrative, the ma'aseh and the mashal. How the traits of the several types of narratives shift as the respective types move from document to document is spelled out in complete detail. This project opens an entirely new road toward the documentary analysis of Rabbinic narrative. It fills out an important chapter in the documentary hypothesis of the Rabbinic canon in the formative age.

The Art of Reading Scripture Ellen F.

Davis, Richard B. Hays, 2003-10-02 The difficulty of interpreting the Bible is felt all over today Is the Bible still authoritative for the faith and practice of the church If so in what way What practices of reading offer the most appropriate approach to understanding Scripture The church's lack of clarity about these issues has hindered its witness and mission causing it to speak with an uncertain voice to the challenges of our time This important book is for a twenty first century church that seems to have lost the art of reading the Bible attentively and imaginatively The Art of Reading Scripture is written by a group of eminent scholars and teachers seeking to recover the church's rich heritage of biblical interpretation in a dramatically changed cultural environment Asking how best to read the Bible in a postmodern context the contributors together affirm up front Nine Theses that provide substantial guidance for the church The essays and sermons that follow both amplify and model the approach to Scripture outlined in the Nine Theses Lucidly conceived carefully written and shimmering with fresh insights The Art of Reading Scripture proposes a far reaching revolution in how the Bible is taught in theological seminaries and calls pastors and teachers in the church to rethink their practices of using the Bible Contributors Gary A Anderson Richard Bauckham Brian E Daley Ellen F Davis Richard B Hays James C Howell Robert W Jenson William Stacy Johnson L Gregory Jones Christine McSpadden R W L Moberly David C Steinmetz Marianne Meye Thompson
