Transcultural Modernities Elisabeth Bekers, Sissy Helff, Daniela Merolla, 2009 The swelling flows of migration from Africa towards Europe have aroused interest not only in the socio political consequences of the migrants insistent appeals to fortress Europe but also in the artistic integration of African migrants into the cultural world of Europe While in recent years the creative output of Africans living in Europe has received attention from the media and in academia little critical consideration has been given to African migrants modes of narration and the manner in which these modes give expression to or are an expression of their creators transcultural realities Transcultural Modernities Narrating Africa in Europe responds to this need for reflection by examining the manner in which migrants compose and negotiate their Euro African affiliations in their narratives The book brings together scholars in the fields of literary and art criticism cultural studies and anthropology for an extensive interdisciplinary exchange on the specific modes of narration displayed in Euro African literatures the visual arts and cinema as well as offering ethnographic case studies The result is a wide range of reflections on how African artists writers and ordinary people living in Europe experience and explore their transcultural and or postcolonial environments and how their experiences and explorations in turn contribute to the construction of modern Euro African life worlds

Transnational Biographies Gabriele Rosenthal, 2022 Every day many people leave the place where they live and move to some other place where they settle permanently or stay for many years The contributions to this volume are based on the results of three empirical research projects which set out to investigate the situation of migrants in Jordan Brazil Germany and other European countries The articles focus on migrants at their place of arrival and ask questions such as How do they look back on their life histories and migration paths What dynamics and processes led up to their migration projects and how do they explain their motives The studies in this volume show that leaving and arriving are interrelated leaving one's home region is part of a long process partly planned and partly unplanned which is determined by complex collective familial and individual constellations and which has significant consequences for the action patterns and participation strategies of migrants in their arrival societies This book also shows which constellations enable some migrants to realize their goals in their present situation and which constraints or obstacles make it impossible for others to do so
