

THE STORY

Biff, Betty, Byron, Bev and Baxter were all baseball players on the same team. At the close of the season they compared hitting totals to see how well each of them had done. None of them hit a home run. They hit 93, 90, 87, 85 and 70 singles. They hit 58, 50, 45, 40 and 35 doubles. They hit 27, 25, 20, 18 and 15 triples. Based on the clues, match the baseball players with the number of singles, doubles and triples they hit that baseball season.

THE CLUES

1. Between Bev and Baxter, one of them hit the most singles, one of them hit the most doubles and one of them hit the most triples, and between Biff and Betty, one of them hit the fewest singles, one of them hit the fewest doubles and one of them hit the fewest triples.
2. Biff and Baxter hit a combined total of 155 singles and, of course, Betty hit more singles than Byron.
3. Bev did not hit the most doubles, and Baxter did not hit the most triples.
4. Betty and Bev hit a combined total of 75 doubles and, of course, Biff hit more doubles than Byron.
5. Bev hit exactly two more triples than Betty and, of course, Byron hit more triples than Baxter.
