Dreams in French Literature Tom Conner, 2023-10-16 The nine essays in this volume deal with several well known French authors through the ages for example Descartes Voltaire Mme de Sta l Nerval Verlaine and explore the problematic relationship between dreams and literature Generally speaking contributors are interested in the production of literary meaning How does various dream material ranging from the traditional dream to visions and hallucinations and day dreams come to be And how is the dream image transformed into discourse What exactly is the relationship between dream and narrative Each essay focuses on a different author and different period ranging from the Middle Ages to the late nineteenth century but also takes a unique critical and theoretical approach What the contributors have in common though is an analytical sensemaking strategy that characterizes the interpretation of dreams through the ages from ancients such as Artemidorus and Cicero to modern thinkers such as Freud Most of the texts studied here from the Chanson de Roland to Chateaubriand's Memoires d'outre tombe lend themselves to this type of approach because they promote narrative unity So too do Voltaire Mme de Staël Nerval and Verlaine Many if not most texts however in the end turn out to be not quite so tightly knit as one may have supposed at first and in the case of Agrippa d'Aubigné and Descartes the reader is in for several surprises when the normal course of events leading from dream to text from signifier to signified is interrupted and subverted

Dreams and Dreaming in the Roman Empire Juliette Harrisson, 2013-07-04 The history and literature of the Roman Empire is full of reports of dream prophecies dream ghosts and dream gods This volume offers a fresh approach to the study of ancient dreams by asking not what the ancients dreamed or how they experienced dreaming but why the Romans considered dreams to be important and worthy of recording Dream reports from historical and imaginative literature from the high point of the Roman Empire the first two centuries AD are analysed as objects of cultural memory records of events of cultural significance that contribute to the formation of a group's cultural identity The book also introduces the term cultural imagination as a tool for thinking about ancient myth and religion and avoiding the question of belief which arises mainly from creed based religions The book's conclusion compares dream reports in the Classical world with modern attitudes towards dreams and dreaming identifying distinctive features of both the world of the Romans and our own culture

The Chinese Dreamscape, 300 BCE - 800 CE Robert Ford Campany, 2022-03-07 Dreaming is a near universal human experience but there is no consensus on why we dream or what dreams should be taken to mean In this book Robert Ford Campany investigates what people in late classical and early medieval China thought of dreams He maps a common dreamscape an array of ideas about what dreams are and what responses they should provoke that underlies texts of diverse persuasions and genres over several centuries These writings include manuals of dream interpretation scriptural instructions essays treatises poems recovered manuscripts histories and anecdotes of successful dream based predictions In these many sources we find culturally distinctive answers to questions peoples the world over have asked for millennia What happens when we dream Do dreams foretell future events If so how might their imagistic code be unlocked to yield predictions Could dreams enable direct communication between the living and the dead or between humans and nonhuman animals The Chinese Dreamscape 300 BCE 800 CE sheds light on how people in a distant age negotiated these mysteries and brings Chinese notions of dreaming into conversation with studies of dreams in other cultures ancient and contemporary Taking stock of how Chinese people wrestled with and celebrated the strangeness of dreams Campany asks us to reflect on how we might reconsider our own notions of dreaming

Howard Milne,2007-12-01 In the opening chapter of the Confession the divines of Westminster included a clause that implied that there would no longer be any special immediate revelation from God Means by which God had once communicated the divine will such as dreams visions and the miraculous gifts of the Spirit were said to be no longer available However many of the authors of the WCF accepted that prophecy continued in their time and a number of them apparently believed that disclosure of God's will through dreams, visions, and angelic communication remained possible. How is the cessationist clause of WCF 1.1 to be read in the light of these claims? This book reconciles this paradox in a detailed study of the writings of the authors of the Westminster Confession of Faith.
