Repositioning Race Sandra L. Barnes,Zandria F. Robinson,Earl Wright II,2014-04-10 In Repositioning Race leading African American sociologists assess the current state of race theory racial discrimination and research on race in order to chart a path toward a more engaged public scholarship They contemplate not only the paradoxes of Black freedom but also the paradoxes of equality and progress for the progeny of the civil rights generation in the wake of the election of the first African American US president Despite the proliferation of ideas about a postracial society the volume highlights the ways that racial discrimination persists in both the United States and the African Diaspora in the Global South allowing for unprecedented African American progress in the midst of continuing African American marginalization Race, Gender, and Citizenship in the African Diaspora Manoucheka Celeste,2016-07-01 Winner of the National Communication Association's 2018 Diamond Anniversary Book Award With the exception of slave narratives there are few stories of black international migration in U S news and popular culture This book is interested in stratified immigrant experiences diverse black experiences and the intersection of black and immigrant identities Citizenship as it is commonly understood today in the public sphere is a legal issue yet scholars have done much to move beyond this popular view and situate citizenship in the context of economic social and political positioning The book shows that citizenship in all of its forms is often rhetorically representationally and legally negated by blackness and considers the ways that blackness and representations of blackness impact one's ability to travel across national and social borders and become a citizen This book is a story of citizenship and the ways that race gender and class shape national belonging with Haiti Cuba and the United States as the primary sites of examination Routledge Handbook of Latin American Politics Peter Kingstone,Deborah J. Yashar,2013-03-05 Latin America has been one of the critical areas in the study of comparative politics The region's experiments with installing and deepening democracy and promoting alternative modes of economic development have generated intriguing and enduring empirical puzzles. In turn, Latin America's challenges continue to spawn original and vital work on central questions in comparative politics about the origins of democracy about the relationship between state and society about the nature of citizenship about the balance between state and market. The richness and diversity of the study of Latin American politics makes it hard to stay abreast of the developments in the many sub literatures of the field. The Routledge Handbook of Latin American Politics offers an intellectually rigorous overview of the state of the field and a thoughtful guide to the direction of future scholarship. Kingstone and Yashar bring together the leading figures in the study of Latin America to present extensive empirical coverage, new original research and a cutting edge examination of the central areas of inquiry in the region.

Racial Politics in Post-Revolutionary Cuba Mark Q. Sawyer, 2005-11-28. This book analyzes the triumphs and failures of the Castro regime in the area of race relations. It places the Cuban revolution in a comparative and international framework and challenges arguments that the regime eliminated racial inequality or that it was profoundly racist. Through interviews, historical materials and survey research, it provides a balanced view. The book maintains that Cuba has not been a racial democracy as some have argued. However, it also argues that Cuba has done more than any other society to eliminate racial inequality. The contemporary outlook of the book demonstrates how much of Cuban racial ideology was unchanged by the revolution. Thus, the current implementation of market reforms and in particular tourism has exacerbated racial inequalities. Finally, it holds that despite these shortcomings, the regime remains popular among blacks because they perceive their alternatives of the US and the Miami Exile community to be far worse. The New Politics Of Race Howard

Winant, 2004-08-13. The New Politics of Race brings together Winant's new and previously published essays to form a comprehensive picture of the origins and nature of the complex racial politics that engulf us today. Gender, Race and Religion Martin Bulmer, John Solomos, 2014-01-02. Gender, Race and Religion brings together a selection of original papers published in Ethnic and Racial Studies that address the intersections between gender, race and religion in our contemporary environment. Chapters address both theoretical and empirical aspects of this phenomenon and although written from the perspective of quite different national social and political situations, they are linked by a common concern to analyze the interface between gender and other situated social relationships from both a conceptual and a policy angle. These are issues that have been the subject of intense scholarly research and analysis in recent years as well as forming part of public debates about the significance of gender, race and religion as sites of identity formation and mobilization in our changing global environment. The substantive chapters bring together insights from both theoretical reflection and empirical research in order to investigate particular facets of these questions. Gender, Race and Religion addresses issues that are at the heart of contemporary scholarly debates in the field of race and ethnic studies and engages with important questions in policy and public debates. This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies. The SAGE

Handbook of Race and Ethnic Studies Patricia Hill Collins, John Solomos, 2010-05-17 The SAGE Handbook of Race and Ethnic Studies is one of the best handbooks outlining the latest thinking on race and ethnic studies published in recent years. The breadth of themes and the depth of discussion are ambitious, offering the reader an A-Z guide of contemporary thinking on race and ethnicity, a valuable resource for scholars and activists alike. Runnymede Bulletin What is the state of race and ethnic studies today? How has the field emerged? What are the core concepts, debates, and issues? This panoramic critical survey of the field supplies researchers and students with a vital resource. It is a rigorous, focused examination of the central questions in the field today. The text examines: The roots of the field of race and ethnic studies; The distinction between race and ethnicity; Methodological issues facing researchers; Intersections between race and ethnicity and questions of sexuality, gender, nation, and social transformation; The challenge of multiculturalism; Race, ethnicity, and globalization; Race and the family; Race and education; Race and religion. Planned and edited by a distinguished team of Anglo-American scholars, the Handbook pools an impressive range of international, world-class expertise and insight. It provides a landmark work in the field which will be the measure of debate and research for years to come. Harmonizing Latina Visions and Voices Amarilyn Estrella, Melissa Maldonado-Salcedo, 2024-03-25 Harmonizing Latina Visions and Voices: Cultural Explorations of Entornos discursively challenges the erasures, stigma, and silences imposed on women by functioning as a harmonizing choir, a collection of voices to testify on mujerismo, its vision, and its promise for our future. This collection puts on the record a pathway toward liberation that pushes back against white supremacist projects unleashed by academia, our families' official narratives of the State, and immigration. This book does not seek to equate the experiences of all Latinas or envision a one-size-fits-all response. We harmonize these diverse voices, understanding that these stories, poems, and essays are invoking different spaces, times, and experiences. We offer them as an intergenerational intellectual and spiritual dialogue. As a practice, this work centers and contextualizes how women's resistance is articulated and expressed. The stories reflected in the chapters that follow are often matricentric, transnational, and queer. Some recurring themes center on the policing policies and legislations that govern Latina's bodies and the entornos (social, environmental worlds) in which they move, are detained, or embodied.

Racism Albert J. Wheeler, 2000 Of all mankind's vices, racism is one of the most pervasive and stubborn. Success in overcoming racism has been achieved from time to time, but victories have been limited thus far because mankind has focused on personal economic gain or power grabs, ignoring generosity of the soul. This bibliography brings together the literature, providing access by subject groupings as well as author and subject indexes. Contents: Racial Attitudes; Racism and Poverty; Hate Groups; Racial Justice; Racism and Politics; Race Discrimination; Racial Identity; Racism Around the World.

Black Power in the Caribbean Kate Quinn, 2014-01-20 Black Power studies have been dominated by the North American story, but after decades of scholarly neglect, the growth of New Black Power Studies has revitalized the field. and a call for greater attention to international and transnational dimensions of the movement Black Power in the Caribbean masterfully answers this call This volume brings together a host of renowned scholars who offer new analyses of the Black Power demonstrations in Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago as well as of the little studied cases of Guyana Barbados Antigua Bermuda the Dutch Caribbean and the U S Virgin Islands The essays in this collection highlight the unique origins and causes of Black Power mobilization in the Caribbean its relationship to Black Power in the United States and the local and global aspects of the movement ultimately situating the historical roots and modern legacies of Caribbean Black Power in a wider international context

Our Caribbean Kin Alai Reyes-Santos, 2015-06-15 Beset by the forces of European colonialism US imperialism and neoliberalism the people of the Antilles have had good reasons to band together politically and economically yet not all Dominicans Haitians and Puerto Ricans have heeded the calls for collective action So what has determined whether Antillean solidarity movements fail or succeed In this comprehensive new study Alai Reyes Santos argues that the crucial factor has been the extent to which Dominicans Haitians and Puerto Ricans imagine each other as kin Our Caribbean Kin considers three key moments in the region's history the nineteenth century when the antillanismo movement sought to throw off the yoke of colonial occupation the 1930s at the height of the region's struggles with US imperialism and the past thirty years as neoliberal economic and social policies have encroached upon the islands At each moment the book demonstrates specific tropes of brotherhood marriage and lineage have been mobilized to construct political kinship among Antilleans while racist and xenophobic discourses have made it difficult for them to imagine themselves as part of one big family Recognizing the wide array of contexts in which Antilleans learn to affirm or deny kinship Reyes Santos draws from a vast archive of media including everything from canonical novels to political tracts historical newspapers to online forums sociological texts to local jokes Along the way she uncovers the conflicts secrets and internal hierarchies that characterize kin relations among Antilleans but she also discovers how they have used notions of kinship to create cohesion across differences

Dominican Republic's "colorblind" politics Wanda Rosario, 2005 Decentering Epistemologies and Challenging Privilege Sophie Bourgault, Maggie FitzGerald, Fiona Robinson, 2024 Care ethics first emerged as an attempt to decenter ethics feminist scholars like Carol Gilligan argued that women's moral experiences were not reflected in the dominant masculinist approaches to ethics which were centered on a rational disembodied atomistic moral subject Care ethics challenged this model by positing ethics as relational contextualized embodied and realized through practices rather than principles Over the past decades many care ethics scholars have sought to further this project by considering care politically and epistemologically in relation to various intersecting hierarchies of power and knowledge This book advances this project by discussing the ways care ethics contributes to the decentering of dominant epistemologies and to the challenging of privilege and by considering how to decenter care ethics itself via an encounter with non Western philosophical traditions and alternative epistemologies Written by scholars from different countries disciplines and intellectual traditions the volume offers original care ethics contributions on epistemic injustice privileged irresponsibility ecofeminism settler colonialism social movements such as BLM and various racialized and gendered inequities tied to care work
