Modernization And Marine Fisheries Policy:

Modernization and Marine Fisheries Policy John R. Maiolo, Michael K. Orbach, 1982 Management of Marine Fisheries in Canada L. S. Parsons, National Research Council Canada, Canada. Department of Fisheries and Oceans, 1993 This report describes and evaluates the impact of the major changes in the management of Canada's marine fisheries in recent decades. The report covers the historical and jurisdictional context, biological and economic aspects, objectives of fisheries management, techniques of resources management in general and those used for specific species, managing the common property through allocation of access, limited entry, licensing and individual quotas, the international dimension, the social dimension, habitat management, fisheries enforcement and fisheries management in the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Norway, Iceland and the European Community Canadian Marine Fisheries in a Changing and Uncertain World Bradley De Young, Canada. Department of Fisheries and Oceans, Canadian Global Change Program, National Research Council Canada, 1999 NRC Monograph Publishing Program P ii Marine Fisheries Economics and Development in India S. M. Ali, 1996 A case study of Orissa, India Fisheries Review, 1987 Introduction to the Practice of Fishery Science, Revised Edition William F. Royce, 1996-01-11 Revised and updated Royce's Introduction to the Practice of Fishery Science is a classic text. With a new chapter on aquaculture, this book provides the background for a first course in fishery science. Intentionally focused on the practical and professional requirements of careers in the management and maintenance of fisheries, this text will be useful to students as well as to established professionals United States Fisheries Systems and Social Science Michael K. Orbach, Valerie R. Harper, 1979 Economics of Fisheries Development Rowena M. Lawson, 2013-11-07 Following the introduction of the 200 mile extended economic zone (EEZ), many developing countries suddenly found they had large fish resources which, wisely managed and exploited, could generate wealth and income of immense benefit. However, one constraint to this was that many countries, for historic reasons, lacked the expertise to manage fisheries on this scale. Despite the need for information, few economists and especially development economists teaching in universities and colleges were able to incorporate fisheries economics into their courses owing to the lack of readily accessible material. As a result, many rising economists were failing to recognize the global importance of fishers as an economic resource capable of generating substantial wealth and income to many countries. Economics of Fisheries Development provides an accessible exploration of this area of economics, introducing development economists to some of the problems of developing fisheries in areas of the world where fisheries now present great growth prospects. The case studies used throughout the book are nearly entirely drawn from developing countries Guidelines for the Routine Collection of Capture Fishery Data Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1999-01-01 These guidelines aim to help those who design routine data collection programmes focusing on the relationship between typical questions asked by policy makers and managers and the data required for providing reliable answers. Fisheries policy and management objectives particularly under the precautionary approach need to be based upon analyses of reliable data Data are needed to make rational decisions evaluate the fisheries performance in relation to management activities and fulfil regional requirements These objectives are achieved using fishery performance indicators Indicators are used to measure the state of the resource the performance of fishing controls economic efficiency socio economic performance and social continuity The primary factor in choosing what data to collect is the link between the necessary operational biological economic and socio cultural indicators and their associated variables The way in which different data variables are collected needs to be tailored to the structure of the fishery The strategy will be strongly influenced by the budget and personnel available and the degree to which fishers and others co operate The programme must identify which variables should be collected through complete enumeration and which can be sampled Collection methods are influenced by the variable itself the strategy collection point and the skill of the enumerator Once collected fishery data must be stored securely but made easily available for analysis which is achieved through a computer based data management system following the basic data processing principles The implementation of a data collection programme should follow a normal project cycle developing a new legal and institutional framework as appropriate Abstract Aquatic Sciences and Fisheries Abstracts ,1984-07
