Neal E. Miller Neal Elgar Miller,1971 Conflict, Displacements, Learned Drives and Theory Neal E. Miller,2008-07-01 Continues Learning motivation and their physiological mechanisms Neal E Miller New Brunswick Aldine Transaction 2007 Learning, Motivation, and Their Physiological Mechanisms Neal E. Miller, Neal E Miller's pioneering work in experimental psychology has earned him worldwide respect This second in a two volume collection of his work brings together forty three of Miller's most important and representative essays on learning motivation and their physiological mechanisms They were selected on the basis of their current relevance and their historical significance at the time they were published In order to emphasize the main themes essays on a given topic have been grouped together Learning Motivation and Their Physiological Mechanisms begins when the author first discovered the thrill of designing and executing experiments to get clear cut answers concerning the behavior of children and of rats The first study was one of the earliest ones on the behavioral effects of the recently synthesized male hormone testosterone The second was one of the earliest studies demonstrating the value of using a variety of behavioral techniques to investigate the motivational effects of a physiological intervention The next studies investigated the satisfying and rewarding effects of food or water in the stomach versus in the mouth and the thirst inducing and reducing effects of hyper and hypotonic solutions respectively injected into the brain The last study describes a technique devised for extending the analysis of the mechanism of hunger to the effects of humoral factors in the blood The study is completed with an examination of trial and error learning that was motivated by direct electrical stimulation of the brain and rewarded by the termination of such stimulation Other studies show that the stimulation via such electrodes not only elicits eating but also has the principal motivational characteristics of normal hunger The conclusion deals with a series of experiments that overthrows strong traditional beliefs by proving that glandular and visceral responses mediated by the autonomic nervous system are subject to instrumental learning which can be made quite specific Neal E Miller 1909 2002 was a professor of psychology at Yale University and professor and head of a laboratory of Physiological Psychology at the Rockefeller University He is a past president of the American Psychological Association an elected honorary fellow of the British Psychological Society and chairman of the National Research Council Committee on Brain Sciences He is co author of four books and author of many articles Health Psychology George C. Stone,1987-05-18 In 1976 a small group of psychologists urged that more research be done on aspects of health and health care outside the domain of mental health Today health psychology is one of the fastest growing divisions of the American Psychological Association journals and textbooks in increasing numbers are another signal of rapid growth in this field Neal E. Miller: Selected papers on conflict, displacement, learned drives and theory Neal Elgar Miller,1971 Conflict, Displacement, Learned Drives and Theory Neal E. Miller,2017-08-02 Neal E Miller's pioneering work in experimental psychology has earned him worldwide respect This first of a two volume collection of his work brings together twenty one of Miller's most important and representative essays on conflict, displacement, learned drives, and theory. They were selected for both their current relevance and their historical significance. The theoretical and experimental analysis of conflict behavior in Part I grew out of an interest in applying the laws of learning that Pavlov discovered in the laboratory to certain phenomena that Freud discovered in the clinic. This led naturally to a similar analysis of displacement in Part II and also to the studies of fear as a learnable drive in Part III. In contrast with the ease of establishing learned fear on the basis of pain, the studies in Part IV show that it is much more difficult and perhaps impossible to establish learned appetitive drives on the basis of hunger or thirst. In the first experiments on drugs, Part V attempted to test the applicability of some of the principles discovered by Pavlov in experiments on classical conditioning to the trial and error learning situation studied by Thorndike and now frequently called operant conditioning. Later studies of drugs are closely related to the work on fear and conflict and hence are grouped nearby. The first of the theoretical chapters in Part VI summarizes the work on conflict behavior as well as many of my other theoretical ideas including a cybernetic analysis of behavior. Another chapter is the result of an assignment to represent behavioral sciences from physiology through anthropology.
