Palmetto-leaves Harriet Beecher Stowe, 1873 In 1867 the author of Uncle Tom's Cabin settled in a small cottage in Mandarin Florida overlooking the St Johns River She had promised her Boston publisher another novel but was so taken with northeast Florida that she produced instead this book a series of sketches of the land and the people which she submitted in 1872 Palmetto-leaves Harriet Beecher Stowe, 1973 Palmetto-Leaves Harriet Beecher Stowe, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1873 edition Excerpt JHE little wharf at Mandarin is a tiny abutment into the great blue sea of the St John's waters five miles in width The opposite shores gleam out blue in the vanishing distance and the small wharf is built so far out that one feels there as in a boat at sea Here trundled down on the truck along a descending tram way come the goods which at this point await shipment on some of the many steamboats which ply back and forth upon the river and here are landed by almost every steamer goods and chattels for the many families which are hidden in the shadows of the forests that clothe the river's shore In sight are scarce a dozen houses all told but far back for a radius of ten or fifteen miles are scattered farmhouses whence come tributes of produce to this point Hundreds of barrels of oranges boxes of tomatoes and early vegetables grapes peaches and pomegranates here pause on their way to the Jacksonville market One morning as the Professor and I were enjoying our morning stroll on the little wharf an unusual sight met our eye a bale of cotton long and large pressed hard and solid as iron and done up and sewed in a wholly workmanlike manner that excited our surprise It was the first time since we had been in Mandarin a space of some four or five years that we had ever seen a bale of cotton on that wharf Yet the whole soil of East Florida is especially adapted not only to the raising of cotton but of the peculiar long staple cotton which commands the very highest market price But for two or three years past the annual ravages of the cotton worm had been so discouraging that the culture of cotton had been abandoned in despair Whence then had come that most artistic bale of cotton so well pressed so Palmetto-Leaves (Annotated) Harriet Beecher Stowe, 2016-03-29 Palmetto Leaves is a memoir and travel guide written by Harriet Beecher Stowe about her winters in the town of Mandarin Florida published in 1873 Already famous for having written Uncle Tom's

Cabin 1852 Stowe came to Florida after the U S Civil War 1861 1865 She purchased a plantation near Jacksonville as a place for her son to recover from the injuries he had received as a Union soldier and to make a new start in life After visiting him she became so enamored with the region she purchased a cottage and orange grove for herself and wintered there until 1884 even though the plantation failed within its first year Parts of Palmetto Leaves appeared in a newspaper published by Stowe's brother as a series of letters and essays about life in northeast Florida Forest Leaves ,1887 South Carolina Facts and Symbols Bill McAuliffe,2003 Presents information about the state of South Carolina its nickname motto and emblems

Flora and Fauna of the Civil War Kelby Ouchley, 2010-11-01 During the Civil War humans impacted plants and animals on an unprecedented scale as soldiers on both sides waged the most environmentally destructive war ever on American soil Refugees and armies alike tramped across the landscape foraging for food shelter and fuel Wild plants and animals formed barriers for armies and carried disease yet also provided medicine and raw materials necessary to implement war greatly influencing the day to day life of soldiers and civilians Of the thousands of books written about the Civil War few mention the environment and none address the topic as a principal theme In Flora and Fauna of the Civil War Kelby Ouchley blends traditional and natural history to create a unique text that explores both the impact of the Civil War on the surrounding environment and the reciprocal influence of plants and animals on the war effort The war generated an abundance of letters diaries and journals in which soldiers and civilians penned descriptions of plants and animals sometimes as a brief comment in passing and other times as part of a noteworthy event in their lives Ouchley collects and organizes these first person accounts of the Civil War environment adding expert analysis and commentary in order to offer an array of fascinating insights on the natural history of the era After discussing the physical setting of the war and exploring humans attitudes toward nature during the Civil War period Ouchley presents the flora and fauna by individual species or closely related group in the words of the participants themselves From ash trees to willows from alligators to white tailed deer the excerpts provide glimpses of personal encounters with the natural world during the war revealing how soldiers and civilians thought about and interacted with wild flora and fauna in a time of epic historical events Collectively no better sources exist to reveal human attitudes toward the environment in the Civil War era This one of a kind reference book will spark widespread interest among Civil War scholars writers and enthusiasts as well as environmental historians
