Reshaping Probation And Prisons:

Reshaping Probation and Prisons Hough, Mike, Allen, Rob, Una Padel, 2006-01-11 This text takes a look at the different aspects of the National Offender Management Service NOMS proposals It identifies the risks attached to NOMS assesses the prospects of success and more It is useful for politicians civil servants criminal justice managers and senior probation and prison staff

Handbook on Prisons Yvonne Jewkes, 2012-08-21 This is the most comprehensive and ambitious book on prisons to have been published a key text for anybody studying the subject and an essential work of reference for practitioners working in prisons and other parts of the criminal justice system It is especially timely in view of the many changes and debates about the role of prisons and their future organisation and management as part of the National Offender Management Service A key aim of the book is to explore a wide range of historical and contemporary issues relating to prisons imprisonment and prison management and to chart likely future trends Chapters in the book are written by leading scholars in the field and reflect the range and depth of prison research and scholarship Like the Handbook of Policing and Handbook of Crime Prevention and Community Safety the Handbook on Prisons will be the essential book on the subject

Handbook of Probation Loraine Gelsthorpe, Rod Morgan, 2013-05-13 This Handbook provides a comprehensive authoritative and up to date source of information and analysis about all aspects of the work of the Probation Service It takes full account of the many changes that the Probation Service has undergone over the last few years and is currently undergoing as probation becomes part of the broader National Offender Management Service Contributors to the book are drawn from leading academics and practitioners in the field drawing upon the best expertise available Running through the book is a concern with a range of key current issues such as addressing the diversity of offenders and creating effective links with other criminal justice agencies and it includes perspectives from both probation service staff and from offenders and victims This book is an essential text for practitioners trainees and students of probation and those studying it as part of a wider criminology or criminal justice course

Probation and Privatisation Philip Bean, 2018-10-10 Privatisation was introduced into the probation service on the 1st June 2014 whereby work with medium and low risk offenders went to a number of private and voluntary bodies work with high risk offenders remained with the State The National Probation Service NPS covered State work whilst the 35 existing Probation Trusts were replaced by 21 Community Rehabilitation Companies CRCs Staff were allocated to either side of the divide but all remained as probation officers The effect was that the existing probation service lost control of all but 30 000 of the most high risk cases with the other 220 000 low to medium risk offenders being farmed out to private firms Privatisation was justified as the only available way of achieving important policy objectives of extending post release supervision to offenders on short sentences a group who are the most prolific offenders with high reconviction rates yet who receive no statutory support This book describes the process by which the probation service became privatised assessing its impact on the probation service itself and on the criminal justice system generally It considers both the justifications for privatisation as well as the criticisms of it and asks to what extent the probation service can survive such changes and what future it has as a service dedicated to the welfare of offenders It demonstrates how the privatisation of probation can be seen as a trend away from traditional public service in criminal justice towards an emphasis on efficiency and cost effectiveness This book is essential reading for criminology students engaged with criminal justice social policy probation punishment and working with offenders It will also be key reading for practitioners and policy makers in jurisdictions where there is an interest in extending their own privatisation practice

Tackling prison overcrowding Hough, Mike, Allen, Rob, 2008-10-22 Tackling prison overcrowding is a response to controversial proposals for prisons and sentencing set out in by Lord Patrick Carter's Review of Prisons published in 2007 The Carter review proposed the construction of vast Titan prisons to deal with the immediate problem of prison overcrowding the establishment of a Sentencing Commission as a mechanism for keeping judicial demand for prison places in line with supply along with further use of the private sector including private sector management methods Tackling prison overcrowding comprises nine chapters by leading academic experts who expose these proposals to critical scrutiny They take the Carter Report to task for construing the problems too narrowly in terms of efficiency and economy and for failing to understand the wider issues of justice that need addressing They argue that the crisis of prison overcrowding is first and foremost a political problem arising from penal populism for which political solutions need to be found This accessible report will be of interest to policy makers probation practitioners academics and other commentators on criminal policy

Release from Prison Nicola Padfield, Dirk Van Zyl Smit, Frieder Dünkel, 2013-01-11 Release from prison is matter of increasing interest throughout Europe On the one hand arguments about the need to reduce prison numbers as well the consistent findings that prisoners can be integrated into society more effectively if they are subject to a period of supervision in the community have made early release policies attractive to governments and to academic commentators On the other hand there are concerns that early release may not be applied fairly to all prisoners This book aims to meet the need for comparative information on release from prison across Europe and explores some of the key themes and issues The body of the book focuses on country perspectives providing an invaluable survey of the situation in a number of European countries The introductory and concluding chapters place the comparative material in a broader perspective They explain how release policy is related to wider questions about justice and fairness in prison related decision making and the changing place of imprisonment in European society

Where Next for Criminal Justice? David Faulkner, Ros Burnett, 2012 Where next for criminal justice considers the criminal justice policies which should be adopted how they should be formed and the principles and values which should be used

Developments in Social Work with Offenders Gill McIvor, Peter Raynor, 2007 Explains the organisational and legislative changes that have occurred in social work and probation across the UK in the past 10 years

What Else Works? Jo Brayford, Francis B Cowe, John Deering, 2013-05-13 What Else Works has developed out of a growing awareness amongst practitioners that centralized notions of what works and one size fits all approaches to work with offenders and other groups is inevitably limited in its scope and effectiveness The book seeks to dispel the view of probation service users as offenders and socially excluded people as problems to be managed and treated and instead considers more creative alternatives to reduce both re offending and social exclusion These include working separately with women black and minority ethnic groups local community focussed projects in education and nature and conservation programmes The reader is encouraged to think about past and current policy practice and the relationship between practitioners and offenders or other socially excluded people Questions are raised as to whether and how practice could be different and contributors explore the theme of creative and change focussed practice or focus on a particular approach to a practice This book will appeal to students on criminal justice criminology and social work courses professionals operating in these fields as well as the wider audience of professionals and academics who may engage with these service users from a range of policy and practice perspectives the penal system Building on the strengths of the third edition The Penal System remains the most comprehensive analysis of theory research and policy in the area Praise for previous editions There are few must buy books for students of criminology and criminal justice but since its first edition in 1992 The Penal System An Introduction has been one of them For accuracy and scope as well as its remarkable combination of scholarly rigour and readability the book has no equal and it has only got better through successive editions David Smith Professor of Criminology Lancaster University For more than ten years Cavadino and Dignan have provided by far the best policy relevant and theoretically informed account of the British penal system This new edition has only the high standards of its predecessors to beat Cavadino and Dignan may not have managed to change the penal system for the better with their book but no one has delivered a more accessible or intelligent account of why it is so hard to reform Mike Nellis Professor of Criminal and Community Justice University of Strathclyde

Technologies of InSecurity Katja Franko Aas, Helene Oppen Gundhus, Heidi Mork Lomell, 2008-08-21 Technologies of Insecurity examines how general social and political concerns about terrorism crime migration and globalization are translated into concrete practices of securitisation of everyday life Who are we afraid of in a globalizing world How are issues of safety and security constructed and addressed by various local actors and embodied in a variety of surveillance systems Examining how various forms of contemporary insecurity are translated into and reduced to issues of surveillance and social control this book explores a variety of practical and cultural aspects of technological control as well as the discourses about safety and security surrounding them In security is a politically and socially constructed phenomenon with a variety of meanings and modalities And exploring the inherent duality and dialectics between our striving for security and the simultaneous production of insecurity Technologies of Insecurity considers how mundane objects and activities are becoming bearers of risks which need to be neutralised As ordinary arenas such as the workplace the city centre the football stadium the airport and the internet are imbued with various notions of risk and danger and subject to changing public attitudes and sensibilities the critical deconstruction of the nexus between everyday surveillance and in security pursued here provides important new insights about how broader political issues are translated into concrete and local practices of social control and exclusion

Why Punish? Rob Canton, 2017-09-16 Why do we punish Is it because only punishment can achieve justice for victims and right the wrong of a crime Or is it justified because it reduces crime by deterring potential offenders offering rehabilitative treatment to others and incapacitating the most dangerous The complex answers to this enduring question vary across time and place and are directly linked to people s personal cultural social religious and ethical commitments and even their sense of identity This unique introduction to the philosophy of punishment provides a systematic analysis of the themes of retribution deterrence rehabilitation incapacitation and restorative justice Integrating philosophical sociological political and ethical perspectives it provides a thorough and wide ranging discussion of the purposes meanings and justifications of punishment for crime and the extent to which punishment does could or should live up to what it claims to achieve Why Punish challenges criminology and criminal justice students as well as policy makers judges magistrates and criminal justice practitioners to think more critically about the role of punishment and the moral principles that underpin it Bridging abstract theory with the realities of practice Rob Canton asks what better punishment would look like and how it can be achieved

Changing Contours of Criminal Justice Mary Bosworth, Carolyn Hoyle, Lucia Zedner, 2016-11-17 Celebrating the 50th Anniversary of the Oxford Centre for Criminology this edited collection of essays seeks to explore the changing contours of criminal justice over the past half century and to consider possible shifts over the next few decades The question of how social science disciplines develop and change does not invite any easy answer with the task made all the more difficult given the highly politicised nature of some subjects and the volatile evolving status of its institutions and practices A case in point is criminal justice at once fairly parochial much criminal justice scholarship is now global in its reach and subject areas that are now accepted as central to its study victims restorative justice security privatization terrorism citizenship and migration to name just a few were topics unknown to the discipline half a century ago Indeed most criminologists would have once stoutly denied that they had anything to do with it Likewise some central topics of past criminological attention like probation have largely receded from academic attention and some central criminal justice institutions like Borstal and corporal punishment have at least in Europe been abolished Although the rapidity and radical nature of this change make it quite impossible to predict what criminal justice will look like in fifty years time reflection on such developments may assist in understanding how it arrived at its current form and hint at what the future holds The contributors to this volume have been invited to reflect on the impact Oxford criminology has had on the discipline providing a unique and critical discussion about the current state of criminal justice around the world and the origins and future implications of contemporary practice All are leading internationally renowned criminologists whose work has defined and often re defined our understanding of criminal justice policy and literature

Probation Rob Canton, Jane Dominey, 2017-12-14 This book provides a comprehensive and accessible introduction to probation It brings together themes of policy theory and practice to help students and practitioners better understand the work of probation its limitations its potential but above all its value Setting probation in the context of the criminal justice system the book explores its history purposes and contemporary significance It explains what probation is and the practical realities of working with offenders in the community The book also covers the governance of probation and how policy and practice are responding to contemporary concerns about crime and community safety This book encourages readers to appreciate the practical and theoretical strengths and shortcomings of contemporary probation practice This revised and updated new edition includes a full description and discussion of recent reforms in the probation service and the Transforming Rehabilitation policy agenda It also offers further discussion of international perspectives on probation including international developments and collaborative efforts between countries This book is essential reading for trainee probation officers and students taking courses on probation offender management treatment and rehabilitation working with offenders and community justice

Desistance Transitions and the Impact of Probation Sam King, 2013-10-01 Moving away from criminal behaviour can be fraught with difficulties Often it can involve leaving behind old habits customs and even friends while at the same time adopting a new way of life How do individuals go about making a decision to give up crime How do they plan to sustain this decision And in what ways does probation help This book explores these questions Based on in depth interviews with a group of men under probation supervision Sam King investigates the factors associated with making a decision to desist from crime The book examines strategies for desistance and explores the factors that individuals consider when they are thinking about how they will desist In doing so the book sheds new light on existing understandings of desistance from crime and helps to develop our understandings of the role that individuals play in constructing their own desistance journeys This book also highlights the role of probation in this process offering a timely and critical review of the nature of probation under the New Labour government in the UK between 1997 2010 The findings indicate that we should allow Probation Officers greater autonomy and discretion within their roles and that we should free them from the bureaucracy of risk assessment and targets Moreover the book warns against the potential fragmentation of community supervision As such the book will be of interest to criminology students researchers academics policymakers and practitioners particularly those who work with ex offenders in the community
