Kennedy, Harold Alderman, 1987 Introduction Food subsidy measures and their nutritional impact a conceptual overview Typology of nutrition interventions Targeting Cost and administrative concerns of food transfer programs Other issues related to food subsidies Comparative analysis of selected nutrition interventions Conclusions National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), Parents' Cultural Belief Systems Sara Harkness, Charles M. Super, 1996-01-01 This illuminating new volume offers a multifaceted view of parenting cultural belief systems their origins in culturally constructed parental experience their expressions in parental practices and their consequences for children s well being and growth Discussing issues with implications beyond the study of parenthood the book shows how the analysis of child outcomes which relate to parents cultural belief systems or parental ethnotheories can provide valuable insights into the nature and meaning of family and self in society and in some cases a basis for culturally sensitive therapeutic interventions Illuminating the powerful influence of parents cultural belief systems on the health and development of children this volume will be welcomed by a broad audience Anthropologists and psychologists interested in cultural theory and the interface of self and society will find a rich source of ideas and information Parent educators family therapists pediatricians and others who deal with ethnically diverse populations will discover invaluable information on what makes parents think and act the way they do The book can be used as a primary text for courses in cognitive anthropology and cultural psychology and as an auxiliary text for culturally oriented courses in lifespan development education health and human services Famine B. Currey, G. Hugo, 2012-12-06 The Biological Standard Of Living On Three Continents John Komlos, 2019-07-11 The effort of anthropometric historians to unearth the broad patterns of human biological well being has led to the examination of nearly forgotten centuries old records from dusty archives in practically all the continents of the globe French historians in the Annales tradition were among the first to adopt methods from physical anthropology and from the biological sciences but the real expansion of the field dates from the pathbreaking work of Richard Steckel and Robert Fogel which launched the discipline of anthropometric history on American soil Research has confirmed that physical stature is related to nutritional status and therefore to real family income and thus to the general standard of living Historians and development economists will find this line of research useful as it informs us about the standard of living of members of society for whom data on wages are seldom available women children aristocrats farmers and slaves In addition this research has shown that the biological standard of living may diverge from conventional indicators of welfare during the early stages of industrialization Thus per capita income is an ambiguous measure of welfare during some phases of growth and it must be supplemented with data from other indicators such as physical stature The essays in this volume broaden our knowledge of the human effects of the momentous economic changes of the last two centuries extending analysis to regions for which such information has been lacking including Russia Canada Indonesia Italy and Spain Famine in East Africa Ronald E. Seavoy, 1989-09-27 Efforts to commercialize agriculture in peasant societies through investments in technology and various pricing strategies have failed to create the food surpluses needed to forestall famine and support industrialization in East Africa Seavoy explores this problem basing his study on the case of Tanzania a country that experiences recurrent peacetime famines associated with failures in subsistence agriculture Providing an analysis of East African subsistence culture he investigates the failures of national agricultural policies and defines strategies for inducing subsistence farmers to shift to commercial production Seavoy looks at various development initiatives involving technological inputs political pressure taxation and land tenure provisions and their effects on the political economy of subsistence agriculture He presents a detailed survey of subsistence culture its agricultural and pastoral practices and such variables as labor topography rainfall and population density The shaping of the East African political economy under colonial rule is discussed together with the economic social and political legacy that has persisted to the present day Seavoy examines Tanzanian agricultural policy which has aimed at facilitating the transition to commercial agriculture He finds that the country is a long way from achieving the assured food surpluses that would enable the nation to support an urban industrial workforce Among the underlying causes he notes the continuing population explosion the farmers objections to commercialized agriculture and deficiencies in the physical infrastructure trained personnel and political institutions He argues that surpluses will not be created until political leaders use the power of national government to enforce the shift to commercial production A noteworthy and original contribution to development literature this work is relevant to studies in modern political economy Third World development agricultural economy and related disciplines A Glimpse into Medieval Living: Unveiling the Enchanting World of the Middle Ages Pasquale De Marco, 2025-03-03 Step into the captivating world of medieval life with

The Demographic Transition and Development in Africa Charles Teller, Assefa Hailemariam, 2011-03-04 The heated Malthusian Bosrupian debates still rage over consequences of high population growth rapid urbanization dense rural populations and young age structures in the face of drought poverty food insecurity environmental degradation climate change instability and the global economic crisis However while facile generalizations about the lack of demographic change and lack of progress in meeting the MDGs in sub Saharan Africa are commonplace they are often misleading and belie the socio cultural change that is occurring among a vanguard of more educated youth Even within Ethiopia the second largest country at the Crossroads of Africa and the Middle East different narratives emerge from analysis of longitudinal micro level analysis as to how demographic change and responses are occurring some more rapidly than others The book compares Ethiopia with other Africa countries and demonstrates the uniqueness of an African type demographic transition a combination of poverty related negative factors unemployment disease food insecurity along with positive education health and higher age of marriage trends that are pushing this ruggedly rural and land locked population to accelerate the demographic transition and stay on track to meet most of the MDGs This book takes great care with the challenges of inadequate data and weak analytical capacity to research this incipient transition trying to unravel some of the complexities in this vulnerable Horn of Africa country A slowly declining population growth rates with rapidly declining child mortality very high chronic under nutrition already low urban fertility but still very high rural fertility and high population resource pressure along with rapidly growing small urban places
