Archaeoastronomy and the Maya Gerardo Aldana y Villalobos, Edwin L. Barnhart, 2014-05-30 Archaeoastronomy and the Maya illustrates archaeoastronomical approaches to ancient Mayan cultural production The book is contextualized through a history of archaeoastronomical investigations into Mayan sites originating in the 19th century discovery of astronomical tables within hieroglyphic books Early 20th century archaeological excavations revealed inscriptions carved into stone that also preserved astronomical records along with architecture that was built to reflect astronomical orientations These materials provided the basis of a growing professionalized archaeoastronomy blossoming in the 1970s and expanding into recent years The chapters here exemplify the advances made in the field during the early 21st century as well as the on going diversity of approaches presenting new perspectives and discoveries in ancient Mayan astronomy that result from recent studies of architectural alignments codices epigraphy iconography ethnography and calendrics More than just investigations of esoteric ancient sciences studies of ancient Mayan astronomy have profoundly aided our understanding of Mayan worldviews Concepts of time and space meanings encoded in religious art intentions underlying architectural alignments and even methods of political legitimization are all illuminated through the study of Mayan astronomy

Ancient Maya Life in the Far West Bajo Julie L. Kunen,2022-05-10 Human activity during centuries of occupation significantly altered the landscape inhabited by the ancient Maya of northwestern Belize In response the Maya developed new techniques to harvest the natural resources of their surroundings investing increased labor and raw materials into maintaining and even improving their ways of life In this lively story of life in the wetlands on the outskirts of the major site of La Milpa Julie Kunen documents a hitherto unrecognized form of intensive agriculture in the Maya lowlands one that relied on the construction of terraces and berms to trap soil and moisture around the margins of low lying depressions called bajos She traces the intertwined histories of residential settlements on nearby hills and ridges and agricultural terraces and other farming related features around the margins of the bajo as they developed from the Late Preclassic period 400 BC AD 250 until the area's abandonment in the Terminal Classic period about AD 850 Kunen examines the organization of three bajo communities with respect to the use and management of resources critical to agricultural production She argues that differences in access to spatially variable natural resources resulted in highly patterned settlement remains and that community founders and their descendants who had acquired the best quality and most diverse set of resources maintained an elevated status in the society The thorough integration of three lines of evidence the settlement system the agricultural system and the ancient environment breaks new ground in landscape research and in the study of Maya non elite domestic organization Kunen reports on the history of settlement and farming in a small corner of the Maya world but demonstrates that for any study of human environment interactions landscape history consists equally of ecological and cultural strands of influence Bulletin of the New York Public Library ,1909 Includes its Report 1896 1945 The Real Business of
