Ngos Civil Society The State:

NGOs, Civil Society and Structural Changes Acar Kutay, 2021-06-22 This book suggests that our notions of civil society have undergone radical changes including structural changes in the nature of Civil Society Organizations CSOs and Non Governmental Organizations NGOs Such massive structural changes greatly problematize the older liberal view of a simple split between state and civil society actors which nonetheless remains dominant in much of social and political sciences The author argues that the naturalist and behaviorist approaches to civil society occlude the fact that citizens increasingly live within a particular and highly contestable way of imagining and constructing civil society The book shows that changes in how civil society is conceptualized and organized around new practices might mark radically new conceptions of the state that are ideologically neo liberal and subtle in the ways they disempower ordinary citizens NGOs, Civil Society, and the State Andrew Clayton, 1996-01 Support for civil society has become a major concern for development agencies However there has been confusion about the role of non governmental development organizations NGOs in civil society Sometimes the funding of NGOs has simply been re phased as support for civil society Yet NGOs form only one group of organizations within civil society Often they are funded from external sources and lack local legitimacy and accountability This book contains papers by practitioners and researchers that examine the role of NGOs in civil society It includes general thematic papers on civil society case studies from Africa Asia and Latin America and Eastern Europe and papers that analyze initiatives undertaken by Northern NGOs and donors in democratization programmes in the South The stimulus for this book was an INTRAC workshop to reflect on the implications of the new civil society policy agenda for NGOs especially for countries undergoing major political transition NGOs, Civil Society, and the Public Sphere Sabine Lang, 2013 This book investigates how nongovernmental organizations can become stronger advocates for citizens and better representatives of their interests Sabine Lang analyzes the choices that NGOs face in their work for policy change between working in institutional settings and practicing public advocacy that incorporates constituents voices Sovereignty, Democracy, and Global Civil Society Elisabeth Jay Friedman, Kathryn Hochstetler, Ann Marie Clark, 2005-01-01 Examines the growing power of nongovernmental organizations by looking at UN World Conferences NGOs and Governance in the Arab World Sarah Ben Néfissa, Carlos Milani, 2005 Most non governmental organizations NGOs in the Arab world have traditionally been active in the areas of social work and charity often within a religious or communal framework But recently many of these organizations have become the forum for conflicts between different political trends while others tackle political problems such as human rights or democratic issues Facing the rejuvenated NGO scene in the Arab world public authorities remain torn between support for the concerns of civil society and the traditional mode of management which does not delegate consult or decentralize Can NGOs in the Arab world be considered full fledged actors of governance and of national and local development Is the relationship between NGOs and public authorities at the national and local level one of partnership or opposition and competition Are NGOs perceived to be palliatives to the shortcomings of the public authorities How is the relationship between NGOs and society to be defined Do Arab NGOs highlight the issues that remain undetected by the classical methods of action of the public authorities The studies in this collection arising out of the Conference on NGOs and Governance in the Arab World held in Cairo in March 2000 attempt to answer these and other areas of concern Contributors Sylvia Chiffolleau Dina Craissati Guilain Denoeux Mona Fawaz Vivian Fouad Sari Hanafi Karam Karam Samir Marcos Nicola Pratt Nadia Refat Pierre Jean Roca Muhamad Al Sayyid Said Salma Aown Shawa Abd Al Ghaffar Shukr

Civil Society in Bangladesh Farhat Tasnim, 2021-02-13 This book is the first of its kind to offer an understanding analysis and prediction of the state of civil society in Bangladesh in relation to development and democracy It is a research attempt to reveal the paradox found in developing countries like Bangladesh where there are numerous and active civil society organizations CSOs that have had almost no influence in consolidating democracy This book however also qualifies the normative assumption on the positive relationship between civil society and democracy asserted by the mainstream neo Tocquevillean School that has a profound influence on donor policies Readers are introduced to civil society in Bangladesh from a broad perspective Rather than confining the analysis to NGOs chapters explore the origin nature and function of both modern and conventional CSOs which helps to provide a more authentic understanding of the genuine state of civil society in relation to other actors in the political system Combining survey data analyses and empirical observations with carefully chosen case studies the book reveals that CSOs participate very actively in social services This research also reveals that these highly active CSOs in the field of social development lack the necessary attributes for ensuring participation proper interest articulation and monitoring of the state Through systematic analysis the book shows that political structures and for Bangladesh particularly political parties along with vertical social relationships such as clientelism patronage nepotism and corruption have contributed to a non vigilant civil society in Bangladesh although it often is spoken of in different terms This book is highly recommended for researchers students and development practitioners interested in South Asia as well as in understanding the potentials and limitations of civil society in relation to development and democracy Farhat Tasnim's book is a comprehensive treatment of civil society in Bangladesh It will serve as a useful resource for future researchers in this field for a long time to come Harry Blair Yale University USA Farhat Tasnim provides in this book a new perspective on one of the essential cases of civil society study Bangladesh Her penetrating analysis of the relationship of civil society organizations and democracy in Bangladesh should attract a wide readership This is an important book not only for students of Bangladesh but for scholars and practitioners interested in the relationship of civil society organizations and democracy Robert J Pekkanen University of Washington USA Civil Society by Design Kendall Stiles, 2002-06-30 Drawing on years of research and direct experience in Bangladesh Stiles pulls together theoretical strands from economics sociology and anthropology to help explain an emerging social structure in the Third World These structures which he calls intermestic development circles bring together international donor agencies with various domestic community and private organizations. In Bangladesh, not-for-profit agencies are dramatically transforming their operation and organizational cultures while, in turn, Western NGOs are themselves changing in subtle ways. Scholars of development will find Stiles's intriguing account of the reciprocating effects of extensive interaction, cooperation, and tensions between international donors and domestic recipients informative and provocative. Moving through three discernable phases, each one explainable by resort to different theories, these development circles grow from mere trading arrangements to a coherent social structure separate from the rest of civil society in Bangladesh. While in the process of the not-for-profits receiving assistance, they become wealthier and more effective, they lose much of their local identity and become part of a transnational network. At the same time, donors must recast themselves in order to work effectively with these agencies, which often creates tension between local and home offices. The book closes with some recommendations that might attenuate some of the more troubling effects of this transformation.

The Spirit of Development Erica Bornstein, 2005. This book is an examination of the connections between modern economic practices, globalization, and contemporary Christian religious belief based on an ethnographic study of NGOs in Zimbabwe. It addresses issues crucial for those interested in the strengths and weaknesses of development theory and practice as well as in Protestant Christianity as a transnational religion.

NGOs and Civil Society in Thailand Theerapat Ungsuchaval, 2022-09-28. NGOs and Civil Society in Thailand critically examines the relationships of civil society to nongovernmental organisations in Thailand and examines the NGOisation of civil society: how NGOs are funded and governed and in what way the NGOs have been shaped to work with the funder. NGOisation is a phenomenon by which the funded organisations are impelled to transform to suit their funder as reliable partners. Focusing on Thailand, an Asian country where NGOs have been heavily relied on by the public sector for funding, the book analyses the relations between NGOs and their significant funder, the Thailand Health Promotion Foundation (THPF), one of the biggest and most influential players in the NGO sector. As the NGO-funded organisations are impelled to transform and adapt to become more professionalised, institutionalised, bureaucratised, and depoliticised to suit their funder as reliable partners, their characteristics and relations with the state are complex and interactive. Engaging with key stakeholders in the field of NGO and public governance in Thailand, the book demonstrates how THPF changed the NGO landscape by integrating them and innovatively coordinating non-state initiatives into the public governance system. A novel contribution to the study of NGOs and the state, the book also addresses NGO transformation, politics, and governance. It will be of interest to academics working on Asian Politics, civil society, public policy, and public management.

Civil Society in Asia Wayne Hudson, 2024-11-01. In East and Southeast Asia, the creation of civil society is a crucial yet most difficult issue. Europeans have had the luxury of centuries in a slow-moving world characterised by weak governments in which the foundation, institutions, norms, and values of civil society could ferment and develop. Asia, however, faces this task when a nation's currency can devalue in seconds, destabilising its government and when states have far more effective means of surveillance suppression and terror This book examines these issues and shows that a better understanding of civil society in the Asian context is central to promoting contemporary political social and economic reform in Asia It will appeal to students and teachers of politics law and sociology because it provides new perspectives on how to understand civil society drawing on Asian examples as well as indications for rethinking what civil society means in Asia Individual chapters combine theoretical and empirical issues in a way which fills a major gap in the literature Henceforth works about civil society will need to take more account of the Asian evidence and Asianists will need to have a clear idea of what civil society in Asia means

Organizing for Democracy G. Sidney Silliman, Lela Garner Noble, 1998-05-01 The number variety and political prominence of non governmental organization in the Philippines present a unique opportunity to study citizen activism Nearly 60 000 in number by some estimates grassroots and support organizations promote the interests of farmers the urban poor women and indigenous peoples They provide an avenue for political participation and a mechanism unequaled elsewhere in Southeast Asia for redressing the inequities of society Organizing for Democracy brings together the most recent research on these organizations and their programs in the first book addressing the political significance of NGOs in the Philippines

Civil Society and Citizenship in India and Bangladesh, 2021-07-30 The sort of critical awareness necessary to actually enrich discussions of civil society rather than contribute to its elusiveness pervades through the book Professor VEDI R Hadiz Asia Institute University of Melbourne Australia introduces readers to the dynamics shaping the complex relationship between CSOs and the state in today s India and Bangladesh Professor Sarah Ansari Royal Holloway University of London This volume should be a compulsory read for everyone who is interested in contemporary contests in the civil society space in South Asia Professor Amit Prakash Centre for the Study of Law and Governance Jawaharlal Nehru University New Delhi This edited anthology is a timely and an important contribution to the scholarship on civil society and citizenship particularly in South Asia Associate Professor Mohammad Salehin Centre for Peace Studies The Arctic University of Norway Norway Civil Society and Citizenship in India and Bangladesh presents new multidisciplinary research exploring the opportunities and challenges facing civil society in today s India and Bangladesh It informs contemporary understanding of citizenship gender rights and social identities and is published at a time of increased global uncertainties related to changing civic space political tensions a downturn in the world economy and the rise of populism India and Bangladesh are key contexts not the least because of rapid and uneven economic and social development but their contrasting experiences of democracy and discrimination and inequality faced by different groups and communities This new multidisciplinary title presents new research findings that also contribute to theory building on the form functioning and democratic role of civil society in the 21st century

Society under Authoritarianism Jessica C. Teets, 2014-06-09 Despite the dominant narrative of the repression of civil society in China Civil Society under Authoritarianism The China Model argues that interactions between local officials and civil society facilitate a learning process whereby each actor learns about the intentions and work processes of the other Over the past two decades often facilitated by foreign donors and problems within the general social framework these interactions generated a process in which officials learned the benefits and disadvantages of civil society Civil society supports local officials efforts to provide social services and improve public policies yet it also engages in protest and other activities that challenge social stability and development This duality motivates local officials in China to construct a social management system known as consultative authoritarianism to encourage the beneficial aspects and discourage the dangerous ones

Civil Society in the Philippines Gerard Clarke, 2012 Using the case study of the Philippines this book provides a path breaking account of civil society Critically engaging with theoretical methodological and policy debates on the analysis of civil society in the development studies political science and sociology literature it offers a comprehensive multi disciplinary empirically based and national level portrait of civil society In challenging the widespread belief that civil society is an institutional arena in which the poor and marginalized can challenge and reverse their social economic and political disempowerment the book argues that civil society is characterised by structural inequalities that echo spatial and income inequalities It thus compounds poverty and primarily empowers urban based professionals and their families Focusing on the Philippines a country renowned for a vibrant civil society which first emerged under American colonial rule 1898 1946 and which re emerged from 1986 after 14 years of authoritarian rule the book traces the reasons for this extensive civil society and its social political economic and social implications and draws comparison to other developing countries Supplied by publisher

The Myth about Global Civil Society D. Tepe, 2011-12-02 In order to help the understanding of international campaigning activities of Non Governmental Organisations Tepe analyses the domestic politics of the International Campaign to Ban Landmines and provides a theoretical framework through which to access these

Civil Society Organisations and State-Owned Enterprises in South Africa Julieth Gudo, 2024-06-03 This book examines the important role which civil society organisations in South Africa play in challenging poor corporate governance in state owned enterprises and demanding better government accountability transparency and citizen participation The book provides a powerful examination of the shortcomings in corporate governance in South Africa s state owned enterprises highlighting how civil society organisations as citizen representatives can push for change It examines the legal provisions used by civil society organisations in South Africa to advance good corporate governance and accountability in state owned enterprises The book demonstrates the need for an enabling legal environment for civil society organisations to challenge poor governance in state owned enterprises Also critical is enforcing laws so those responsible for poor corporate governance in SOEs are held accountable The book will be useful to policy advisors public servants and social justice activists as well as to postgraduate students and researchers who are interested in African governance and accountability

Women's Empowerment in South Asia Pranab Panday, 2016-04-28 Economic development in the poorest countries often makes better progress when women become involved in and take a lead in development projects Encouraging women's involvement however is often a major difficulty in societies where traditionally women's status has been inferior and where women are expected to be domestic and passive This book based on extensive original research considers major projects undertaken by non governmental organisations in Bangladesh to encourage women's participation The book identifies the factors which motivated women to be active discusses how women achieved the level of capacity and knowledge to enable them to serve their communities appropriately assesses the major difficulties and recommends how empowerment projects can be improved in future The book concludes that established institutions and traditional customs are often the greatest barrier to women's participation

Handbook of Civil Society and Social Movements in Small States Lino Briguglio, Michael Briguglio, Sheila Bunwaree, Claire Slatter, 2023-02-22 This volume is unique because of its focus on small states There are many studies on civil society and social movements but none that specifically deal with this category of countries As is well known small states have particular characteristics including a limited ability to reap the benefits of economies of scale a high degree of exposure to forces outside their control and the proximity of politicians to the voters often leading to clientelistic relationships and patronage networks The small island developing states have the additional problem of high environmental vulnerability with some also dealing with disproportionate ecological footprints These factors have a bearing on the organization and performance of civil society organizations and social movements as explained in several chapters of this book The volume is organized in three parts dealing with aspects of civil society and social movements in small states in the political social and environmental spheres respectively Various definitions of civil society are proposed in the chapters but most authors associate the term with organized groups operating in the interest of citizens independently of government and commercial business including various forms of non governmental organizations NGOs Civil society also encompasses social movements which are considered to be loosely organized collective campaigns in pursuit of social goals These two terms are sometimes used interchangeably however some authors argue that social movements tend to engage in contentious politics including protests while NGOs engage through more organized and institutional routes

NGOs, Political Protest, and Civil Society Carew Boulding, 2014-06-23 This book argues that non governmental organizations NGOs have an important effect on political participation in the developing world Contrary to popular belief they promote moderate political participation through formal mechanisms such as voting only in democracies where institutions are working well This is a radical departure from the bulk of the literature on civil society that sees NGOs and other associations as playing a role in strengthening democracy wherever they operate Instead Carew Boulding shows that where democratic institutions are weak NGOs encourage much more contentious political participation including demonstrations riots and protests Except in extreme cases of poorly functioning democratic institutions however the political protest that results from NGO activity is not generally anti system or incompatible with democracy again as long as democracy is functioning above a minimal level
