All the News That's Fit to Sell James T. Hamilton, 2011-10-23 That market forces drive the news is not news Whether a story appears in print on television or on the Internet depends on who is interested its value to advertisers the costs of assembling the details and competitors products But in All the News That's Fit to Sell economist James Hamilton shows just how this happens Furthermore many complaints about journalism media bias soft news and pundits as celebrities arise from the impact of this economic logic on news judgments This is the first book to develop an economic theory of news analyze evidence across a wide range of media markets on how incentives affect news content and offer policy conclusions Media bias for instance was long a staple of the news Hamilton's analysis of newspapers from 1870 to 1900 reveals how nonpartisan reporting became the norm A hundred years later some partisan elements reemerged as for example evening news broadcasts tried to retain young female viewers with stories aimed at their Democratic political interests Examination of story selection on the network evening news programs from 1969 to 1998 shows how cable competition deregulation and ownership changes encouraged a shift from hard news about politics toward more soft news about entertainers Hamilton concludes by calling for lower costs of access to government information a greater role for nonprofits in funding journalism the development of norms that stress hard news reporting and the defining of digital and Internet property rights to encourage the flow of news Ultimately this book shows that by more fully understanding the economics behind the news we will be better positioned to ensure that the news serves the public good

Television Toby Miller, 2003 Bringing together the most important writings on television in theoretical historical empirical and political terms from the USA and Europe with significant coverage of other international works this collection demonstrates television's global significance as a field of study to disciplines across both the humanities and social sciences

Psychology of Fear, Crime and the Media Derek Chadee, 2015-12-07 The media continue to have a significant persuasive influence on the public perception of crime even when the information presented is not reflective of the crime rate or actual crime itself There have been numerous theoretical studies on fear of crime in the media but few have considered this from a social psychological perspective As new media outlets emerge and public dependence on them increases the need for such awareness has never been greater This volume lays the foundation for understanding fear of crime from a social psychological perspective in a way that has not yet been systematically presented to the academic world This volume brings together an international team of experts and scholars to assess the role of fear and the media in everyday life Chapters take a multidisciplinary approach to psychology sociology and criminology and explore such topics as dual process theory construal level theory public fascination with gangs and other contemporary issues

Television and the Exceptional Child Joyce Sprafkin, Kenneth D. Gadow, Robert Abelman, 2013-10-23 The question of what types of children are most influenced by or can best benefit from television is a recurrent theme in the scientific literature as well as a frequently raised issue for pediatric associations educators and parent citizen groups concerned about the welfare and advancement of young children To effectively address this question this book focuses on a wide variety of children with highly divergent cognitive abilities social skills and educational capacities that is those labeled as emotionally disturbed learning disabled mentally retarded and intellectually gifted These children not only possess characteristics that place them at the greatest risk with regard to television s negative impact but also in a position to most benefit from the purposeful use of the medium at home and in the classroom Combining literature from the fields of mass communication developmental psychology and special education the authors present a comprehensive analysis of television and its forgotten audience Practical implications and applications in the home and school are also extracted from research findings making this volume a valuable resource for students educators and researchers in the fields of communication and special education and for the parents and teachers of exceptional children

Visual Rhetoric Lester C. Olson, Cara A. Finnegan, Diane S. Hope, 2008-03-20 Visual Rhetoric A Reader in Communication and American Culture is the first collection of its kind essays rich in concepts from the diverse history of rhetoric are featured in their relationship to visual experiences in one or another medium or various media Images are symbols with meaning how these images are seen and the messages they communicate are the study of visual rhetoric Today s society is increasingly inundated with visual images symbols and messages The seminal essays in this collection reveal the workings the research and the effects of how what we see establishes and influences our perceptions our actions and our communication

Media and Communication in Europe Agnieszka Stepinska, 2014 This timely book explores how the media shape the Europeanization of the public sphere within the European Union EU Bringing together a range of international scholars in media studies and journalism and covering both traditional and online media it argues that Europeanization is not just an idea it is a real ongoing process that we are experiencing every day Assessing a wide range of actors and processes and acknowledging the diverse relationships between media and politics the chapters edited by Agnieszka Stepinska reflect contemporary conceptualizations of Europeanization and unravel the complex mediatization of European politics It covers topics as diverse as children s socialization within the European Union via kid s TV programmes the impact of the Euroblogosphere on policy decisions and international broadcasting as one of the key elements to understanding new public diplomacy in Europe Using the Polish EU presidency of 2011 as an extensive case study the book s latter part shows what impact Poland s presidency had on its representation both domestically and abroad and questions the Presidency s actual power of attracting media attention Media and Communication in Europe is a valuable resource for any student and researcher interested in the complex relationship between the media and the EU

Image Bite Politics Maria Elizabeth Grabe, Erik Page Bucy, 2009-03-02 Image Bite Politics is the first book to systematically assess the visual presentation of presidential candidates in network news coverage of elections and to connect these visual images with shifts in public opinion Presenting the results of a comprehensive visual analysis of general election news from 1992-2004 encompassing four presidential campaigns the authors highlight the remarkably potent influence of television images when it comes to evaluating leaders The book draws from a variety of disciplines including political science behavioral biology cognitive neuroscience and media studies to investigate the visual framing of elections in an incisive fresh and interdisciplinary fashion Moreover the book presents findings that are counterintuitive and challenge widely held assumptions yet are supported by systematic data For example Republicans receive consistently more favorable visual treatment than Democrats countering the conventional wisdom of a liberal media bias and image bites are more prevalent and in some elections more potent in shaping voter opinions of candidates than sound bites Finally the authors provide a foundation for promoting visual literacy among news audiences and bring the importance of visual analysis to the forefront of research

Tales of Terror Bethami A. Dobkin, 1992-04-20 Conventional research suggests that news coverage of terrorism is a tool of the terrorist to gain public support and recognition Based on an analysis of more than 200 evening newscasts aired during the first six years of the Reagan administration Tales of Terror offers a detailed account of the ways in which news media escalate public panic about terrorism and encourage support for specific U S policy objectives rather than build sympathy for terrorists Bethami Dobkin explores similarities between news media and government portrayals of terrorism combining textual criticism with an interpretation of official U S policy statements and argues that government depictions and news presentations of terrorism reproduce an ideology that supports military strength and intervention Dobkin examines several specific features of news coverage the dramatic format of television news and the political interests that this format serves the narrative construction of enemies by television journalists and public officials and the political significance of the terrorist label the use and significance of testimony particularly that of people affected by crisis the mutual exploitation of political crisis by both television news producers and public officials the function of journalism in shaping the conduct of public diplomacy and public perceptions of foreign conflict and the creation of consensus about the need for military responses to political violence This revealing study will be of particular interest to scholars of communications and political science

Journalism in the Digital Age John Herbert, 1999-11-03 Provides the practical techniques and theoretical knowledge that underpin the fundamental skills of a journalist It also takes a highly modern approach as the convergence of broadcast print and online media require the learning of new skills and methods The book is written from an international perspective with examples from around the world in recognition of the global marketplace for today's media This is an essential text for students on journalism courses and professionals looking for a reference that covers the skill technology and knowledge required for a digital and converged media age The book's essence lies in the way essential theories such as ethics and law are woven into practical newsgathering and reporting techniques as well as advice on management skills for journalists providing the wide intellectual foundation which gives credibility to reporting

News Analysis Teun A. van Dijk, 2013-08-21 First Published in 1987 This book presents a series of case studies that illustrate the structures of national and international news in the press It first summarizes our discourse analytical theory of the processes and structures of news reports as it has been developed in the last five years      The SAGE Handbook of Political Communication Holli A Semetko, Margaret

Scammell, 2012-05-17 This authoritative and comprehensive survey of political communication draws together a team of the world's leading scholars to provide a state of the art review that sets the agenda for future study It is divided into five sections Part One explores the macro level influences on political communication such as the media industry new media technology and political systems Part Two takes a grassroots perspective of the influences of social networks real and online on political communication Part Three discusses methodological advances in political communication research Part Four focuses on power and how it is conceptualized in political communication Part Five provides an international regional and comparative understanding of political communication in its various contexts The SAGE Handbook of Political Communication is an essential benchmark publication for advanced students researchers and practitioners in the fields of politics media and communication sociology and research methods      McQuail's Mass Communication Theory Denis

McQuail, 2005-04-30 This fully revised and updated edition provides a comprehensive non technical introduction to the range of approaches to understanding mass communication      Social Semiotics of Arabic Satellite Television Ali

Darwish, 2009 Arabic satellite television is a phenomenon that has swept the Arab world in less than two decades and is said to have dramatically changed the Arab region It has created a world of contrasts and contradictions between tradition and liberalism and a polarization of views and opinions all vying for dominance and control This book examines the social semiotics of Arabic satellite television and studies the multimodal representations of Arab social and cultural values and their implied meanings in a communication medium that heavily relies on imported western models      Media Psychology David

Giles, 2003-04-02 This text tackles the traditional topics of media psychology sex violence advertising along with developmental aspects of media influence and the psychology of the audience It examines specific media genres news sports soaps audience participation media the internet and asks what light psychology can shed on the popularity of these genres and the response of their audiences      Media Culture & Environ. Co-P Alison Anderson, 2019-07-12 First Published in 1997

This book is intended for final year undergraduates and postgraduates in cultural and media studies as well as postgraduate and academic researchers Courses on culture and the media within sociology environmental studies human geography and politics      News As Discourse Teun A. van Dijk, 2013-10-28 First Published in 1990 This book presents a new interdisciplinary theory of news in the press Against the background of developments in discourse analysis it is argued that news should be studied primarily as a form of public discourse Whereas in much mass communication research the economic social or cultural dimensions of news and news media are addressed the present study emphasizes the importance of an explicit structural analysis of news reports Such an analysis should provide a qualitative alternative to traditional methods of content analysis Also attention is paid to processes of news production by journalists and news comprehension by readers in terms of the social cognitions of news participants In this way news structures can also be explicitly linked to social practices and ideologies of news making and indirectly to the institutional and macro sociological contexts of the news media
