Population And Development In The Third World Methuen Introductions To Development:

Population and Development in the Third World Allan M. Findlay, 1987 Population and Development in the Third World Allan M. Findlay, Anne Findlay, 2008-01-28 Allan and Anne Findlay argue that a nation's human population is a vital resource in the development process. Changes in its composition increased life expectancy combined with a falling birth rate for example can have profound effects upon a society. Warfare and mass migration of male workers also have long reaching effects on those left behind. The rapid growth of Third World populations has often incorrectly been identified as the major force preventing more rapid economic development. Population pressure has been known to generate technological breakthroughs. Their final chapter examines family planning programmes and concludes by asking who benefits most from population policies and questioning the right of developed countries to advocate family planning programmes for Third World nations. Population and Development in the Third World Allan M. Findlay, A. M. Findlay, 1987 Looks at how and why populations change not only in level but also in composition. Economic and cultural factors are discussed and questions such as how populations respond to geographical imbalances in natural resources are raised. Third World Planning Review, 1987 Bibliographie Internationale de Sociologie 1987 British Library of Political and Economic Science, 1991 IBSS is the essential tool for librarians university departments research institutions and any public or private institution whose work requires access to up to date and comprehensive knowledge on the social sciences. Journal of Social Development in Africa, 1988 Geographical Perspectives, 1985 A Geography of the Third World C.G Clarke, Dr J P Dickenson, J.P Dickenson, W.T.S Gould, S Mather, Sandra Mather, Prof R Mansell Prothero, R.M Prothero, D.J Siddle, C.T Smith, Mr C T Smith, E. Thomas-Hope, 2013-04-15 The label of Third World covers half the land surface and three quarters of the population of the planet. The problems and potential of this region and its peoples are attracting increasing concern and interest. Fully revised and updated this edition includes a wealth of photographic and line illustrations boxed case studies chapter summaries guides to further reading. Issues of increasing concern at the end of the twentieth century are fully addressed for example the widening gap in economic performance between countries in the Third world and the assertion of national cultures in the face of globalisation. New material on gender issues and the environmental impact of development has been included. A London Bibliography of the Social Sciences, 1931 Vols 1-4 include material to June 1 1929 An Introduction to Development Planning in the Third World Diana Conyers, Peter J. ## Refugee and Labour

Movements in Sub-Saharan Africa Jonathan Baker, Roger Zetter, 1995 This report is the second of a series on emergencies and disaster relief published by the Swedish International Development Authority and the Nordic Africa Institute It contains two papers that focus on some longer term impacts of refugee and migrant worker flows which have implications for the way humanitarian relief is conceptualised and planned The first is an overview of migrant worker and refugee flows in Sub Saharan Africa It suggests that the negative impact of exporting male workers from rural households has been overemphasised While there is psychological stress from family separations and the spread of Aids is associated with labour migration such movements can also be viewed as a capital accumulation strategy which financially benefits the sending households without necessarily leading to a drop in their agricultural production and as vital foreign exchange for the sending country through incoming remittances It also suggests that the presence of refugees is not necessarily an economic burden for the host country Refugees may as a labour source and as consumers contribute to development The second paper reviews the literature on shelter and settlement strategies for refugees It advocates a conceptual approach which is developmental rather than relief oriented an approach which integrates refugees and hosts needs and puts emphasis on tackling the long term consequences of mass forced migration Current practice is critically appraised to draw out the lessons of best practice and find alternatives to encampment style shelter The author does not believe that the integrated planning and durable housing which he advocates would dissuade refugees from repatriating
