Population Problems And Prospects In The Arab World:

Population in the Arab World Abdel R. Omran, 1980      Future Demographic Challenges in the Arab World Anne Goujon, Bilal Barakat, 2010-02-18

The Arab region is often perceived in terms of its negatives rather than its achievements. The cradle of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam is nowadays mostly discussed in the context of problems related to rising religious fundamentalism, political instability due in part to the Arab-Israeli conflict, or the persistent low status of women. The first Arab Human Development Report listed three deficits impeding human advancement in Arab countries: these were knowledge acquisition and effective utilization, human rights, freedom, and good governance, and women's empowerment. The demographic perspective on the Arab region again has tended to focus on the negative, with most studies ranging from uncontrollable immigration to untamable high fertility. Our perspective will first of all examine the differences in terms of demographic paths existing in the 22 countries that make up the Arab world, as well as any convergence occurring at different levels. While the notion that there is a unique and unchanging demographic pattern that is specifically Arab—one of universally high fertility that does not decline—is no longer tenable, the countries in the region are sufficiently similar to each other and distinct from their neighbors to be meaningfully discussed together. This is not to lose sight of the fact that modernity, cultural openness, the relations between men and women, the effects of economic crisis, and of development all vary from one sub-population to another in North Africa and the Middle East, as elsewhere in the world. The population projections by the United Nations Population Division essentially assume that fertility will steadily decline in the Arab region, as it has elsewhere in the world. In the medium term, despite secular trends in declining fertility and mortality, there will in some respects be even greater demographic heterogeneity in the Arab region than is currently the case. As a result of this heterogeneity, the challenges posed by demographic change in the Arab region are more diverse than the attention to youth bulges suggests. It should not distract from the fact that a large number of Arab countries in the GCC area, the Mashreq, and North Africa will within one generation already enter a phase characterized by progressive population ageing. Because of the rapid future growth in the number of elderly, the overall dependency ratio in the GCC area and Arab North Africa, as a whole, will despite falling fertility not drop much below current levels. This throws an underappreciated light on the problem of very low participation rates in the labor market. Increasing economic opportunities for today's youth are not just imperative to meet their own current needs for transitioning to productive and fully adult members of society, but also to ensure future sustainability.

Minorities in the Middle East Mordechai Nisan, 2015-10-02

The struggle for independence by minorities in the Middle East—those people who are non-Arab or non-Muslim—is affecting the political climate around the world. War and terrorism are threatening the safety of many minority communities, and repression of minorities still remains standard state policy in some countries. This updated and revised edition of the 1991 original provides a wealth of historical and political detail for all the indigenous peoples of the Middle East. Pressed to persist in a threatening environment, these minorities

Kurds Berbers Baluchi Druzes Alawites Armenians Assyrians Maronites Sudanese Christians Jews Egyptian Copts and others share similar experiences and have been known to cooperate for shared goals Important events and new trends regarding the welfare of these groups are covered and numerous oral histories add to the new edition Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Administration and Development in the Arab World Jamil Jreisat,Zaki R. Ghosheh,2016-03-22 This book first published in 1986 examines the literature on administration human resources and development in the Arab world It emphasizes contemporary societies and their internal dynamics the least known and most critical aspects of Arabic studies Population Problems and Prospects in the Arab World Abdel-Rahim Omran,1984 Urban Development in the Muslim World Hooshang Amirahmadi,2017-09-08 War and revolution have focused the world s attention on the Middle East Despite the headlines the editors of this book state the economic political and cultural aspects of urban life in the Muslim world are hardly known to us Contributors to this volume explore urban problems urban development and the practice of urban planning in the Muslim world In both comprehensive analyses and detailed case studies the contributors address the basic dilemma of development planning how to integrate the force of tradition with the demands of modernity Specifically some of the topics covered include the examination of the idea of a uniquely Islamic city the influence of Islam on the medinas of Tunisia and Morocco and on the development of Mecca and Delhi and reconciling tradition and modernism in Tehran Also covered are the comparative development of Sana a and Cairo the influence of oil on urbanization in the Persian Gulf urban growth in Syria and an overview of urban planning in the Arab world This compendium is essential for specialists and students of the region for international planning and development practitioners and for those seeking insight into the complexities of this important but arguably least understood region of the world Demographic and Human Development in the Middle East and North Africa Henriette Engelhardt,Florian Schulz,Zafer Büyükkececi,2018-03-01 Unlocking the Employment Potential in the Middle East and North Africa World Bank,2003 Islam and Social Policy Stephen P. Heyneman,2004 At a time when more nuanced understandings of Muslim countries and their legal and social practices are urgently needed in the West the appearance of this collection is especially welcome In these illuminating and accessible essays the contributors explain how Islam sees itself in terms of social policy how it treats women and how it encourages charity education and general social welfare The essays encompass many regional cultures and draw on court records and legal debates field work on government ministries and an extensive reading of Islamic law In his overview of waqf similar to the Western idea of a foundation in which an endowment is set aside in perpetuity for specified purposes Ahmad Dallal explains how charity a central organizing principle in Islam is itself organized and how waqf traditionally a source of revenue for charitable purposes can also become a source of tension and conflict Donna Lee Bowen in her essay on the position of women in Islamic law points out the crucial differences between the Islamic principles of family equity and the Western notion of individual equality In a subsequent essay Bowen addresses the problems surrounding family planning and the dilemmas that have arisen within the Muslim world over differing ideas about birth control. The two final essays look at specific instances of how the modern state has treated Islamic social policy. Gail Richardson examines zakat, an Islamic tax used to assist the poor and its administration in Pakistan. Carol Underwood meanwhile explores public health policy in Iran both before and after the Islamic revolution that deposed the Shah. Addressing some of the most profound misunderstandings between Islamic and Western societies, Islam and Social Policy will be of vital interest not only to scholars and policymakers but to anyone concerned with Islam's critical place in the modern world.

Population Problems and Prospects in the Arab Countries of the Middle East Carolina Population Center, 1972     Mobilizing Human Resources in the Arab World (RLE Economy of Middle East) R. Paul Shaw, 2015-05-15 R. Paul Shaw has travelled widely in the Arab world obtaining data and gathering impressions first hand from national and local planners. In this book he identifies population and manpower problems that are likely to become more serious and more difficult to solve if they are neglected at this early stage of Arab development. He focuses on five broad areas which are directly or indirectly related to mobilizing human resources and his book will be of special interest to all those who are concerned with such issues as population migration, employment inequality, the emancipation of women, construction and agriculture. Dr Shaw proposes policy directives which are sensitive to the problems as they are seen by the Arab governments themselves and sets out practical guidelines which can be used by Arab planners and policy makers. An important feature of the book with respect to current literature on Arab development is that it moves away from a preoccupation with growth related investments to a concentration on development related population, manpower and employment issues. By bringing together such comprehensive empirical and bibliographic information it will also be invaluable as a reference source for some twenty Arab countries. First published in 1983.

Education in the Arab Gulf States and the Arab World Nagat El-Sanabary, 1992. This annotated guide of English language material on education in the Arab world includes books, journal articles, national and international reports and documents and Ph.D. dissertations. The author opens with an introductory essay on the development of education in the Arab Gulf states and an analysis of current issues in educational research. Chapters cover the social context of education, educational systems and structures, country reports on educational developments between 1950 and 1980, religion and education, education at the pre-college level and higher education with special attention to systems and institutions, curriculum and evaluation, management, students in national and foreign universities, research, sciences and technology. The book also examines women's education, teachers and teacher education, educational planning, manpower and education, educational guidance and counseling, special education, literacy and adult education and educational media and instructional technology. Family Planning in the Legacy of Islam Abdel-Rahim Omran, 2012-09-10. How has the Islamic view of marriage, family formation and child rearing developed and adapted over the centuries? Is contraception just permitted or actively encouraged? The family is the
