

Mapped Montreal

Urban Mapping, Multimedia

The following piece is a regional map of Montreal using textures from the piano. This piece shows how society has adapted to live in certain areas of a city and how the infrastructure has evolved to accommodate these demands. The wood textures were used to describe the suburbs of the city, while the metal textures mapped out areas of industrial infrastructure. Downtown was mapped using a golden texture, as it is typically seen as the hub of any city.

These textured regions were then layed out to show the individual regions of the city. As seen in the chart, the city of Montreal is approximately 60% residential suburbs and the remaining 30% is industrial/commercial infrastructure.

a. In early centuries, cities were densely populated due to the limitations of transportation.

b. As engineering developed, cities were able to expand - at first using the bones of city street grids or rivers.

c. Urban layouts also grew as transportation developed with the production of cars and roads, cities were no restricted in city boundaries.

d. Many regions where a city were developed using infrastructure from each other and creating larger neighbourhoods within the space.

Portfolio An Architecture Students Handbook:

The Portfolio Lesley Lokko, Katerina Ruedi Ray, Igor Marjanovic, 2007-06-07 The portfolio is the single most important part of every architectural student's education. This book provides a complete guide to preparing, compiling and presenting this crucial element of the architecture course. The experienced author team gives practical advice for the creation of the portfolio covering issues of size, storage, layout and order. They go on to guide the student through the various forms a portfolio can take: the Electronic Portfolio, the Academic Portfolio and the Professional Portfolio, suggesting different approaches and different media to use in order to create the strongest portfolio possible. The team also presents the best examples from international student portfolios to show the reader their recommendations in practice. The book has a companion website where full colour representations of the best examples of portfolio work can be accessed. Also in the Seriously Useful Guides series: The Dissertation, The Crit, Practical Experience. The Portfolio Igor Marjanović, Katerina Rüedi, Lesley Naa Norle Lokko, 2005 The Architecture Student's Handbook of Professional Practice American Institute of Architects, 2011-09-26 Written by The American Institute of Architects, this is the definitive textbook on practice issues written specifically for architecture students. Specifically written for emerging architects, this is the first unabridged guide specifically for architecture students about to begin their careers. It is required reading in a professional practice course that architecture students must take within their final two years of school. The Portfolio Lesley Lokko, Katerina Ruedi Ray, Igor Marjanovic, 2007-06-07 The portfolio is the single most important part of every architectural student's education.
