subject areas however constitute less than thirty percent of the teacher workforce in a district. Comparatively little has been written about the measurement of achievement in the other grades and subjects. This volume seeks to remedy this imbalance by focusing on the assessment of student achievement in a broad range of grade levels and subject areas with particular attention to their use in the evaluation of teachers and schools in all. It addresses traditional end of course tests as well as alternative measures such as portfolios, exhibitions and student learning objectives. In each case issues related to design and development, psychometric considerations and validity challenges are covered from both a generic and a content specific perspective. The NCME Applications of Educational Measurement and Assessment series includes edited volumes designed to inform research based applications of educational measurement and assessment. Edited by leading experts, these books are comprehensive and practical resources on the latest developments in the field. The New Handbook of Research on Music Teaching and Learning Richard Colwell, Carol Richardson, 2002-04-18. Featuring chapters by the world's foremost scholars in music education and cognition, this handbook is a convenient collection of current research on music teaching and learning. This comprehensive work includes sections on arts advocacy, music and medicine, teacher education and studio instruction among other subjects, making it an essential reference for music education programs. The original Handbook of Research on Music Teaching and Learning published in 1992 with the sponsorship of the Music Educators National Conference (MENC) was hailed as a welcome addition to the literature on music education because it serves to provide definition and unity to a broad and complex field. This new companion volume, again with the sponsorship of MENC, explores the significant changes in music and arts education that have taken place in the last decade. Notably, several chapters now incorporate insights from other fields to shed light on multicultural music education, gender issues in music education and non-musical outcomes of music education. Other chapters offer practical information on maintaining musicians' health, training music teachers and evaluating music education programs. Philosophical issues such as musical cognition, the philosophy of research, theory, curriculum and educating musically are also explored in relationship to policy issues. In addition to surveying the literature, each chapter considers the significance of the research and provides suggestions for future study. Covering a broad range of topics and addressing the issues of music education at all age levels from early childhood to motivation and self-regulation, this handbook is an invaluable resource for music teachers, researchers and scholars.

Budget of the United States Government United States. Office of Management and Budget, 2007 Integrating Information Technology into the Teacher Education Curriculum Nancy Wentworth, Rodney Earle, Michael Connell, 2013-01-11

As teaching evolves teacher education must keep up. This book examines systemic reforms that incorporate new technology to improve any teacher education program. While there are books that address the integration of technology into teaching curricula, very few address the process for teacher education faculty and the systemic reform of a teacher education program. Integrating Information Technology into the Teacher Education Curriculum: Process and Products of Change provides practical examples and suggestions for teacher education departments striving to integrate new technologies into their curriculum. It will help in the effort to motivate faculty to make utilizing new technology a natural strategy for the teachers they are educating. It describes the creation of Design Teams at Brigham Young University's McKay School of Education funded by a PT3 grant and how these teams worked to successfully reconfigure the school's teacher preparation curricula. Integrating Information Technology into the Teacher Education Curriculum examines how to compose and create a curriculum design team including both teacher education and content-specific methods instructors training and collaboration opportunities that focus on the infusion of technology, how to facilitate alignment among a university-cooperating school districts, the State Office of Education, and other available teacher preparation programs. Specific case examples of the redevelopment of teacher education courses by the instructors who teach them, the process of changing a technology course required by the teacher education program, the process of extending grant activities to the university's partner school districts, and the State Office of Education. From the editors: Preparing tomorrow's teachers to use technology in schools is a complex endeavor requiring the infusion of technology into curriculum and instructional practices at all levels of the pre-service program. In many early teacher education programs, prospective teachers took a computer literacy class separate from content methods classes and rarely engaged in real collaboration on how schoolteachers could integrate technology into authentic learning experiences. By focusing merely on how to use computers, technology training failed by not addressing how to teach students more effectively using a variety of technological tools. What teachers need to know most is how to teach content more effectively Technology integration should cause teachers to develop different perspectives through rethinking teaching and learning Teaching with technology causes teachers to confront their established beliefs about instruction and their traditional roles as classroom teachers Graduate Programs in Business, Education, Information Studies, Law & Social Work 2015 (Grad 6) Peterson's,2014-12-30 Graduate Programs in Business Education Information Studies Law Social Work 2015 contains helpful facts and figures on more than 11 000 graduate programs The comprehensive directory includes more than 1 850 institutions and their programs in all of the relevant disciplines such as accounting and finance business management education law library and information sciences marketing social work and many more Informative data profiles feature facts and figures on accreditation degree requirements application deadlines contact information financial support faculty and student body profiles Two page in depth descriptions written by featured institutions offer complete details on specific graduate program school or department as well as information on faculty research Comprehensive directories list programs in this volume as well as others in the graduate series El-Hi Textbooks & Serials in Print, 2000 ,2000
