Reading Portrait Photographs in Proust, Kafka and Woolf Marit Grotta,2024-03-05 Portrait photography increased in popularity during the modernist period and offered new ways of seeing and understanding the human face This book examines how portrait photographs appeared as literary motifs in the works of three modernist writers with personal experience of the medium Marcel Proust Franz Kafka and Virginia Woolf Combining perspectives from literary visual and media studies Marit Grotta discusses these writers ambivalent views on portrait photographs and the uncertain status of technical images in the early twentieth century more generally In reconsidering the attention paid to analogue photographs in literature this book throws light on both modernist reactions to portrait photography and on our relationships to photographs today

Opera Acts Karen Henson,2015-01-15 Opera Acts explores a wealth of new historical material about singers in the late nineteenth century and challenges the idea that this was a period of decline for the opera singer In detailed case studies of four figures the late Verdi baritone Victor Maurel Bizet s first Carmen C lestine Galli Mari Massenet s muse of the 1880s and 1890s Sibyl Sanderson and the early Wagner star Jean de Reszke Karen Henson argues that singers in the late nineteenth century continued to be important but in ways that were not conventionally vocal Instead they enjoyed a freedom and creativity based on their ability to express text act and communicate physically and exploit the era's media. By these and other means singers played a crucial role in the creation of opera up to the end of the nineteenth century.

Francesca Woodman Nora Burnett Abrams, Drew Sawyer, 2019-09-10. Never before published work by an iconic woman artist from the very start of her career. Francesca Woodman took her first photograph at the age of thirteen. From the time she was a teenager until her death at twenty-two, she produced a fascinating body of work exploring gender representation and sexuality by photographing her own body and those of her friends. Featuring approximately forty unique vintage prints as well as notes, letters, postcards, and other ephemera related to the artist's burgeoning career, the volume which accompanies an exhibition of the same name at MCA Denver details both Woodman's creative and personal coming of age during the years 1975-1979. Francesca Woodman: Portrait of a Reputation considers how the artist came into her creative voice and her singular approach to photography at a notably young age. Ranging from portraits in her studio apartment in college to self-portraits in the bucolic Colorado landscape in which she was raised, these works capture Woodman's hallmark approach to art making: enigmatic, rigorous, and poignant. The volume also includes select photographs of Woodman taken by friend and RISD classmate George Lange during this period. Taken together, they present a nuanced and in-depth study of this formative period in the development of this groundbreaking artist.
