Agnew, 2020-11-25 There is little doubt that Aristotle s Rhetoric has made a major impact on rhetoric and composition studies This impact has not only been chronicled throughout the history of rhetoric but has more recently been contested as contemporary rhetoricians reexamine Aristotelian

The Contemporary Reception of Classical Rhetoric Kathleen E. Welch, 2013-11-05 Responding to the reassertion of orality in the twentieth century in the form of electronic media such as the telegraph film video computers and television this unique volume traces the roots of classical rhetoric in the modern world Welch begins by changing the current view of classical rhetoric by reinterpreting the existing texts into fluid language contexts a change that requires relinquishing the formulaic tradition acquiring an awareness of translation issues and constructing a classical rhetoric beginning with the Fifth Century B C She continues with a discussion of the adaptability of this material to new language situations including political cultural and linguistic change providing it with much of its power as well as its longevity The book concludes that classical rhetoric can readily address any situation since it focuses not only on critical stances toward discourse that already exists but also presents elaborate theories for the production of new discourse

Modern Dogma and the Rhetoric of Assent Wayne C. Booth, 1974-10-15 When should I change my mind What can I believe and what must I doubt In this new philosophy of good reasons Wayne C Booth exposes five dogmas of modernism that have too often inhibited efforts to answer these questions Modern dogmas teach that you cannot reason about values and that the job of thought is to doubt whatever can be doubted and they leave those who accept them crippled in their efforts to think and talk together about whatever concerns them most They have willed upon us a befouled rhetorical climate in which people are driven to two self destructive extremes defenders of reason becoming confined to ever narrower notions of logical or experimental proof and defenders of values becoming more and more irresponsible in trying to defend the heart the gut or the gonads Booth traces the consequences of modernist assumptions through a wide range of inquiry and action in politics art music literature and in personal efforts to find identity or a self In casting doubt on systematic doubt the author finds that the dogmas are being questioned in almost every modern discipline Suggesting that they be replaced with a rhetoric of systematic assent Booth discovers a vast neglected reservoir of good reasons many of them known to classical students of rhetoric some still to be explored These good reasons are here restored to intellectual respectability suggesting the possibility of widespread new inquiry in all fields into the question When should I change my mind

Perspectives on Rhetorical Invention Janet Atwill, Janice M. Seduction, Sophistry, and the Woman with the Rhetorical Figure Michelle Ballif, 2001 Ballif questions why the profession wants to retain these beliefs in the face of vociferous arguments from new rhetorics that the discipline no longer posits a foundational self or truth and in the face of the poststructuralist critique which has demonstrated that founding truth is always accomplished by first positing and then negating an other As an alternative to this negative and violent rhetorical process Ballif suggests a turn to sophistry as embodied in the figure of Woman one with the power to seduce us literally to lead astray from our truth and our demand for it
