Rhyfel Y Degwm:

Land Agent Lowri Ann Rees, 2018-06-08 This book brings together leading researchers of British and Irish rural history to consider the role of the land agent or estate manager in the modern period Land agents were an influential and powerful cadre of men who managed both the day to day running and the overall policy direction of landed estates As such they occupy a controversial place in academic historiography as well as popular memory in rural Britain and Ireland Reviled in social history narratives and fictional accounts the land agent was one of the most powerful tools in the armoury of the British and Irish landed classes and their territorial political and social dominance By unpacking the nature and processes of their power The Land Agent explores who these men were and what was the wider significance of their roles thus uncovering a neglected history of British rural society Catalogue of Printed Literature in the Welsh Department John Ballinger, James Ifano Jones, 1898 Y Traethodydd, 1851 Transactions Caernarvonshire Historical Society, 2006

Field, 2019-10-31 Moving beyond the now somewhat tired debates about secularization as paradigm theory or master narrative Periodizing Secularization focuses upon the empirical evidence for secularization viewed in its descriptive sense as the waning social influence of religion in Britain Particular emphasis is attached to the two key performance indicators of religious allegiance and churchgoing each subsuming several sub indicators between 1880 and 1945 including the first substantive account of secularization during the fin de siècle A wide range of primary sources is deployed many of them relatively or entirely unknown and with due regard to their methodological and interpretative challenges On the back of them a cross cutting statistical measure of active church adherence is devised which clearly shows how secularization has been a reality and a gradual not revolutionary process The most likely causes of secularization were an incremental demise of a Sabbatarian culture coupled with the associated emergence of new leisure opportunities and transport links and of religious socialization in the church at home and in the school The analysis is also extended backwards to include a summary of developments during the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries and laterally to incorporate a preliminary evaluation of a six dimensional model of diffusive religion demonstrating that these alternative performance indicators have hitherto failed to prove that secularization has not occurred The book is designed as a prequel to the author's previous volumes on the
