Ride East, Ride West Anne Powers, 1978 Computing in Cause-Effect Structures Ludwik Czaja, 2021-11-27 This book focuses on numerous examples of tasks represented by c e structure Cause effect c e structures are dynamic objects devised for algebraic and graphic description of realistic tasks They constitute a formal system providing means to specify or implement depending on degree of description generality the tasks They can be transformed thus come under simplification in accordance with rules axioms of their algebra Also their properties can be inferred from the axioms One objective of this book is presentation by many realistic examples of computing capability of c e structures without entering into mathematical details of their algebra In particular how computing with natural numbers and in propositional calculus can be performed by c e structures and how to specify behavior of data structures But also demonstration of many other tasks taken from the area of parallel processing specified as c e structures Another objective is modelling or simulation by means of c e structures of other descriptive systems devised for tasks from various fields Also without formalizing by usage of functions between the systems This concerns formalisms such as reaction systems rough sets Petri nets and CSP like languages Also on such where temporal interdependence between actions matters The presentation of examples is prevalently graphic in the form of peculiar nets but accompanied by their algebraic and set theoretic expressions A fairly complete exposition of concepts and properties of the algebra of cause effect structures is in the previous book appeared in the Lecture Notes in Networks and Systems series But basic notions of c e structures are here provided for understanding the examples Mountain Biking Las Vegas and Southern Nevada Paul W.
