away in wilderness areas that is until they are gone Scientists predict that many of these treasures will disappear not only in our lifetimes but in the near future A feat of aviation Mr Fisher gets up close and personal with glaciers glued to the sides of rocky summits flying as high as 15 000 feet while getting buffeted by strong winds and extreme cold all the while hoping the propeller would keep spinning as many of these mountain ranges were in wilderness bear country His airplane lacks heat weighs less than 800 pounds and produces 100 horsepower on a good day Containing 177 aerial images the book is organized by mountain range with detailed maps identifying the location of each photograph With images ranging from scenic landscapes to detailed zooms of glacial texture the work appeals to hikers scientists or anyone who loves the great outdoors
