Technology and the Future of Work Paul S. Adler, 1992 This book brings together a set of essays exploring the implications of new technologies in the workplace The common premise of the contributions is that the effective implementation of automation in manufacturing and engineering operations will typically require a workforce with a higher skill profile Examining the experience of countries in Europe Australia Asia and the U S the book analyzes four themes the new competencies required for effective implementation of new technologies how firms can develop these new competencies the implications of these changes for industrial relations and how firms can weave together business strategy technology strategy and personnel strategy to build competitive advantage with greater rather than lesser skills This argument contradicts the conventional assumption that automation will not only reduce the number of workers required to produce a given product but also require less skilled workers to do so Biotechnology Summit United States. Something Borrowed, Something Blue? Part One David Finegold, Laurel McFarland, William Richardson, 1993-01-01 For Part Two please see https://play.google.com/store/books/details/David_Finegold_Something_Borrowed_Something_Blue_P?id=CvXCgAAQBAJ A distinct pattern emerged in the British education and training reform process in the latter half of the 1980s A government minister or a team of policy experts paid a brief study visit to the United States a short time later a new initiative was announced which bore a close resemblance to a US programme More recently the flow of policy ideas across the Atlantic appears to have reversed direction This book develops a three tiered approach to the analysis of policy borrowing The first section draws on a number of different literatures relevant to this area to create an analytical framework for the study of policy borrowing Section Two examines the specific context in which these borrowing episodes occurred asking Why did Britain look to America for policy inspiration in the latter half of the 1980s The final section examines individual cases of policy borrowing at the local and national levels attempting to distill lessons about the borrowing process Personnel Management Abstracts ,1997 Modern Manors Sanford M.
