Aging, Society and the Life Course Leslie A. Morgan, 2007 As our aging population grows ever larger it is increasingly important to understand how adults age and what we can do to provide up to date care to ensure their well being as an integral part of society. Leslie Morgan and Suzanne Kunkel understand that this phenomenon is about much more than just the physical or biological aspects of growing older and have put together a comprehensive text on the impact of society and sociology on the aging process. Use this text to explore the diversity of the aging population and dispel the major stereotypes surrounding the elderly. Learn about aging through all the layers of social context from family life to politics and economics. And through this approach come to see how aging is more than just an individual process; it is a process that effects the direction of our society as a whole. For the Student: Web sites of interest and key terms defined at the end of each chapter. Real life stories and essays on love, sex, music, medicine and crime. For the Professor: Assignment ready reading in a One Chapter a Week format. Questions for discussion and review at each chapter end. Applying Theory sections place the lesson of each chapter in a clear real world setting. Instructor's Guide Now Available. An Instructor's Manual for this textbook is available for those professors who have adopted Aging Society and the Life Course Third Edition and can verify a bookstore order of 7 or more copies. Managing to Care Ann E. P. Dill, The point of departure for Managing to Care is widespread concern that the present delivery of health and social welfare services is fragmented uncoordinated inefficient costly wasteful and ultimately detrimental to clients health and wellbeing Dill traces the evolution of case management from its start as a tool for integrating services on the level of the individual client to its current role as a force behind the most significant trends in health care Those trends include the entrenchment of bureaucracy the challenges of once dominant professions and the rise of corporate control The author's purpose in adopting this analysis is to invite further scrutiny of the case management profession and at the same time to identify new possibilities for its application This volume brings together thoughts developed over many years of observing and participating in case management programs It provides a multilayered perspective of case management showing linkages among its social and historical contexts and the ways it is practiced today in diverse service settings The author emerged convinced about the essential need for care coordination and that present ways of providing care can work against our highest objectives in doing so The paradoxes and contraindications embedded in case management practice became a major theme of the book Managing to Care is highly critical of the ways case management has come to absorb and reflect the organizational flaws of the very service systems it was intended to reform Too often management of the case comes to dominate care The author does not call for a rejection of professional systems in favor of a resurrected informal community While much can and should be done to strengthen our ties to one another there will always be people whose problems require more expert help Dill argues here that case management can provide such help and provide it well but only if it is grounded in the human dimension of a caring relationship Ann E P Dill associate professor of sociology and gender studies at Brown University is a medical sociologist and social gerontologist Her research examines issues affecting the long term provision of health care and social services both in the United States and in countries formerly part of Yugoslavia

Psychotherapy and Counseling With Older Women Claire M. Brody, PhD, Frances K. Trotman, PhD, 2001-12-28 Trotman and Brody along with expert contributors view older women through a feminist lens and examine social constructs concerning aspects of aging caregiving elders relationships with family health body image and sexuality concerns The authors define issues that are important to older women and their emotional health and bring into sharp relief some of the painful issues professionals must confront in counseling older women Minorities, Aging and Health Kyriakos S. Markides, Manuel R. Miranda, 1997-09-22 Ethnic minorities represent a growing percentage of the elderly population in the United States Yet the impact of aging on minority groups and subgroups has only been partially studied Minorities Aging and Health fills the gap and opens the debate on how to provide for the specific needs of an increasingly elderly population Specific issues covered in this volume include mortality and life expectancy the incidence of chronic disease and disabilities diet and nutrition mental health access to health services and long term care and public health care policy
