Popular A History Of Americas Liter:

Do the Americas Have a Common Literature? Gustavo Pérez Firmat, 1990 This volume takes an important step toward the discovery of a common critical heritage that joins the diverse literatures of North America and Latin America. Traditionally literary criticism has treated the literature of the Americas as New World literature examining it in relation to its Old World usually European counterparts. This collection of essays redirects the Eurocentric focus of earlier scholarship and identifies a distinctive pan American consciousness. The essays here place the literature of the Americas in a hemispheric context by drawing on approaches derived from various schools of contemporary critical thought: Marxism, feminism, culture studies, semiotics, reception, aesthetics, and poststructuralism. As part of their search for a distinctly New World literary idiom, the contributors engage not only the major North American and Spanish American writers but also such marginal or minor literatures as Chicano, African American, Brazilian, and Quechua. In identifying areas of agreement and confluence, this work lays the groundwork for finding historical, ideological, and cultural homogeneity in the imaginative writing of the Americas. Contributors: Lois Parkinson Zamora, David T. Haberer, José David Saldívar, Antonio Benítez Rojo, José Piedra, Doris Sommer, Enrico Mario Sant'Eduardo, González John Irwin, Wendy B. Faris, Ren Prieto, Jonathan Monroe, Gustavo Pérez Firmat. Asian American Women's Popular Literature Pamela Thoma, 2013-12 Popular genre fiction written by Asian American women and featuring Asian American characters gained a market presence in the late twentieth and early twenty-first centuries. These crossover books, mother-daughter narratives, chick lit, detective fiction, and food writing attempt to bridge ethnic audiences and a broader reading public. In Asian American Women's Popular Literature, Pamela Thoma considers how these books both depict contemporary Americanness and contribute critically to public dialogue about national belonging. Novels such as Michelle Yu and Blossom Kan's China Dolls and Sonia Singh's Goddess for Hire or mysteries including Sujata Massey's Girl in a Box and Suki Kim's The Interpreter reveal Asian American women's ambivalence about the trappings and prescriptions of mainstream American society. Thoma shows how these writers' works address the various pressures on women to manage their roles in relation to family and finances, reconciling the demands of work, consumer culture, and motherhood in a neoliberal society. A volume in the American Literatures Initiative. The Bibliographer and Reference List, 1888 The Profession of Bookselling Adolf Growoll, 1893 Timelines of American Literature Cody Marrs, Christopher Hager, 2019-01-29 A collection of engaging essays that seeks to uniquely reperiodize American literature. It is all but inevitable for literary history to be divided into periods: Early American, antebellum, modern, post-1945. Such designations organize our knowledge of the past and shape the ways we discuss that past today. These periods tend to align with the watershed moments in American history, even as the field has shifted its perspective away from the nation-state. It is high time we rethink these defining periods of American literary history, as the drawing of literary timelines is a necessary, even illuminating practice. In these short, spirited, and imaginative essays, 23 leading Americanists gamely fashion new, unorthodox literary periods from 600 B C E to the present from the Age of Van Buren to the Age of Microeconomics They bring to light literary and cultural histories that have been obscured by traditional timelines and raise provocative questions What is our definition of modernism if we imagine it stretching from 1865 to 1965 instead of 1890 to 1945 How does the captivity narrative change when we consider it as a contemporary not just a colonial genre What does the course of American literature look like set against the backdrop of federal denials of Native sovereignty or housing policies that exacerbated segregation Filled with challenges to scholars inspirations for teachers anchored by an appendix of syllabi and entry points for students Timelines of American Literature gathers some of the most exciting new work in the field to showcase the revelatory potential of fresh thinking about how we organize the literary past

Morel, 2014-07-11 An important new collection of original essays that examine how Ellison's landmark novel Invisible Man 1952 addresses the social cultural political economic and racial contradictions of America Commenting on the significance of Mark Twain's writings Ralph Ellison wrote that a novel could be fashioned as a raft of hope perception and entertainment that might help keep us afloat as we tried to negotiate the snags and whirlpools that mark our nation's vacillating course toward and away from the democratic ideal Ellison believed it was the contradiction between America's noble ideals and the actualities of our conduct that inspired the most profound literature the American novel at its best Drawing from the fields of literature politics law and history the contributors make visible the political and ethical terms of Invisible Man while also illuminating Ellison's understanding of democracy and art Ellison hoped that his novel by providing a tragicomic look at American ideals and mores would make better citizens of his readers The contributors also explain Ellison's distinctive views on the political tasks and responsibilities of the novelist an especially relevant topic as contemporary writers continue to confront the American incongruity between democratic faith and practice Ralph Ellison and the Raft of Hope uniquely demonstrates why Invisible Man stands as a premier literary meditation on American
