Rangelands: A Resource Under Siege P. J. Joss, P. W. Lynch, O. B. Williams, 1986 This volume comprises the proceedings of the Second International Rangelands Congress held in Adelaide Australia in May 1984 and includes some 350 contributions drawn from 43 different countries The Congress addressed the problem of the conflict between land users and the degradation of this valuable resource Some 40% of the Earth s land surface is and or alpine and therefore unsuitable for agricultural cultivation Collectively these lands are known as rangelands and in their natural state they constitute a habitat for grazing animals both domestic and wild Despite their low productivity rangelands have been used for thousands of years as a source of food and fibre but other uses such as mining tourism recreation and conservation are exerting increasing demands The result is often conflict between land users and degradation of the resource

African Ecology Clive Alfred Spina, 2012-01-28 In view of the rapidly changing ecology of Africa this work provides benchmarks for some of the major and more neglected aspects with an accent on historical data to enable habitats to be seen in relation to their previous state forming a background reference work to understanding how the ecology of Africa has been shaped by its past Reviewing historical data wherever possible it adopts an holistic view treating man as well as animals with accent on diseases both human and animal which have been a potent force in shaping Africa's ecology a role neglected in ecological studies Rural Resources and Local Livelihoods in Africa NA NA, 2016-09-27 Top scholars examine issues which lead readers to better understand environmental change in the African continent and its effects on rural African livelihoods Each of the studies in this book concerns four main issues conservation biodiversity and environment land use and livelihoods environmental change and policies for conservation and development The volume looks closely at the details of rural resource use access and control the social institutions which shape this and the effects on African environments It is not possible to understand livelihoods in Africa a central issue for all social and economic questions without grasping the interplay between environmental change and the sustainability of rural livelihoods The volume is groundbreaking in its detailed examination of this interplay and its importance in grasping the roots of poverty and potential for its alleviation and for its unique combination of natural and social science methods Applied Ecology Abstracts ,1979 South African Journal of Wildlife Research ,1985 Wildlife Abstracts ,1976 Reticulate Evolution and Humans Michael L. Ecology and Natural Resource Development in the Western Highlands of Cameroon. Issues in Natural Resource Management Cornelius Mbifung Lambi,Emmanuel Neba Ndenecho,2010 The densely populated Bamenda Highlands of Cameroon remains one of the regions with the greatest land degradation problems in the country Factors responsible for this include climate change the hilly nature or topographic layout of the land and human interference through overgrazing destructive agricultural practices and the impact of deforestation This detailed study of resource management and its ecological challenges in the Bamenda Highlands stresses an important link between falling food output and soil deterioration While most areas in this predominantly agricultural region enjoy food abundance the inhabitants of high density infertile rugged mountainous areas are forced to resort to double cropping and intensified land exploitation that leave little room for soil regeneration The population problem in relation to land degradation is infinitely more complicated than the region s sheer ability to produce enough food supply The authors make a strong case for a delicate balance between human agency and environmental protection in this highly populated and physically challenging region where land is a precious resource and land conflicts are common American Book Publishing Record Cumulative, 1950-1977: Title index R.R. Bowker Company. Department of Bibliography,1978
