The population problem of southern Italy Robert Eric Dickinson,1976 The Population Problem of Southern Italy Robert Eric Dickinson,1976 Regional Problems and Policies in Italy and France Kevin Allen,M. C. MacLennan,2024-11-01 First published in 1970 Regional Problems and Policies in Italy and France examines the problem of regional imbalance in two important countries of Western Europe and emphasizes that policies aimed at promoting regional development must form an integral part of national economic policies The book is divided into three parts Part I Regional Problems and Policies in Italy part II Regional Problems and Policies in France and part III Regional Policy Three Issues Part I and II analyze how regional policy in France and Italy has moved away from the public assistance type of intervention into new broader approaches which require reorganization of traditional procedures change in economic structures introduction of new products and methods of production movement of workers between areas and occupations and shifts in geographical distribution of population and employment Part III explores regional planning and growth centres or growth areas in the light of French and Italian experiences It further analyses the regional effects of the EEC and gives a brief account of how British regional problems and policies would be affected by the membership of Community This volume is an essential reading for students of Western European governmental policy and the European Economic Community Growth and Structure in the Economy of Modern Italy George Herbert Hildebrand,1965 Study of postwar economic growth and economic structure of Italy comprises 3 parts on 1 economic development monetary policy price stabilisation incomes labour productivity etc 2 human resources and labour force population growth migration the occupational structure unemployment underemployment wage policy social policy wages etc and 3 the dual character of the economy and industrialization Statistical tables bibliography and references Geographers T. W. Freeman,2016-01-28 An annual collection of studies of individuals who have made major contributions to the development of geography and geographical thought Subjects are drawn from all periods and from all parts of the world and include famous names as well as those less well known explorers independent thinkers and scholars Each paper describes the geographer's education life and work and discusses their influence and spread of academic ideas Each study includes a select bibliography and brief chronology The work includes a general index and a cumulative index of geographers listed in volumes published to date The More Developed Realm Glenn T. Trewartha,2016-06-06 The More Developed Realm Routledge Revivals: Regional Development in Western Europe (1975) Hugh Clout,2017-11-22 First published in 1975 this book provides a straightforward examination of regional differences and regional development in the countries of Western Europe Professor Clout divides this into two parts The first examines a series of themes with reference to the whole of Western Europe and the second part discusses regional development in individual countries or groups of countries Contributions by experts from the UK and from mainland Europe present an essentially geographic approach combining thematic and country by country discussions Backward Areas in

Regional Problem Stuart Holland,1976-01-01 Unravelling desertification M. Juntti,2023-08-28 This book analyses processes of desertification from a social science perspective and unravels the policy related to drivers of desertification Desertification is addressed both as a concept surrounded by a multitude of different discourses and as a tangible unsustainable process that is connected to a complex set of policies and changing land management practices The focus is on Southern Europe where desertification has been a long standing problem in many areas and where in some places the loss of productive capacity has worsened considerably over the last few decades By focusing on four specific case study areas in Portugal Spain Italy and Greece the scope of the book will cover the human dimension of desertification exploring in particular how the framework of existing policies has affected land management decisions and desertification processes The emphasis will be on how policies may have contributed to desertification alleviation and mitigation as well as to a worsening of desertification processes By using an actor network approach the book specifically investigates the importance of networks of actors that shape the nature and direction of policies that affect desertification processes In this sense this book aims at providing a first glance into the complex policy economic and socio cultural networks that operate at the local regional and national levels in areas of Southern Europe affected by desertification and to analyse how these networks hinder or promote the implementation of policies aimed at alleviating the threat of desertification With its broad remit this exciting book will appeal to many different audiences not only including academics and students of various disciplines but also practitioners at the local regional Mediterranean and international e g EU spatial levels in a variety of fields such as environmental and agricultural policy making agricultural extension services farming organisations environmental NGOs media representatives and many other environmental stakeholder groups

The Journal of the Manchester Geographical Society ,1927 Rural migrants in urban setting G. Beijer,2012-12-06 The migration of country dwellers towards the urban areas has been a most important factor in the development of the West European society in which we live today Therefore those engaged in research and policy making in the social field must acquire a better understanding of this form of migration if they are to deal effectively with a number of the problems confronting them This is particularly true since the schemes for European integration which are going ahead so rapidly are sure to produce new patterns of migration At a meeting of the F A O Working Group on Rural Sociology held in Oslo in 1960 it was suggested that an inventory should be made of all available data and studies on the subject of migration in Europe This suggestion was taken up by the European Society for Rural Sociology and the Netherlands Ministry of Social Work which after deliberating together decided to ask the Dutch expert Dr G Beijer to draw up such an inventory under their joint auspices As secretary of the Research Group for European Migration Problems R E M P Dr Beijer has been engaged for many years in an intensive study of the phenomenon of migration Economic Development in Southern Italy, 1950-1960
