Population Development in Tibet and Related Issues Tianlu Zhang, 1997 Demography and National Security
Myron Weiner, Sharon Stanton Russell, 2001-08 Political scientists demographers legal scholars and historians have come together in this volume under the direction of the late Myron Weiner one of the leading scholars in this field to address three of the major sets of questions in the field of political demography How changes in demographic variables population size growth distribution and composition influence threats real or perceived to a country's political stability and security how governments respond to demographic trends and how governments attempt to change demographic variables in order to enhance national security Contemporary Tibet Barry Sautman, June Teufel Dreyer, 2017-03-02 The subject of Tibet is highly controversial and Tibet as a political entity is defined differently from source to source and audience to audience The editors of this path breaking multidisciplinary study have gathered some of the leading scholars in Tibetan and ethnic studies to provide a comprehensive analysis of the Tibet question Contemporary Tibet explores essential themes and issues concerning modern Tibet It presents fresh material from various political viewpoints and data from original surveys and field research The contributors consider such topics as representations and sovereignty economic development and political conditions the exile movement and human rights historical legacies and international politics identity issues and the local society The individual chapters provide historical background as well as a general framework to examine Tibet's present situation in world politics the relationship with China and the West and prospects for the future Education and Social Change in China: Inequality in a Market Economy Gerard A. Postiglione, 2015-01-28 Market reform financial decentralization and economic globalization have greatly accentuated China's social and regional inequalities Education is expected to address these inequalities in a context of rapid social change including the rise of an urban middle class changed status of women resurgence of ethnic identities growing rural to urban migration and lingering poverty in remote areas But some argue that state policies have not sufficiently addressed inequitable practices and that schools actually perpetuate and reproduce inequities giving rise to a new system of social stratification driven more by market forces than socialist principles Featuring all original previously unpublished material this volume examines this argument through analysis of selected aspects of educational stratification in China during the reform era Chapters focus on the new urban middle class poor rural residents the migrant population in urban areas rural girls and ethnic minorities The contributors are established scholars in the field and they build a conceptual framework for assessing the degree to which China's educational reforms are inclusive equitable and integrative across social categories and groups On the Margins of Tibet Ashild Kolas, Monika P Thowsen, 2005 The state of Tibetan culture within contemporary China is a highly politicized topic on which reliable information is rare Based on fieldwork and interviews conducted between 1998 and 2000 in China's Tibetan Autonomous Prefectures this book investigates the present conditions of Tibetan cultural life and cultural expression The

Disempowered Development of Tibet in China Andrew Martin Fischer, 2013-12-20 Series Studies in Modern Tibetan Culture Lexington Books Weatherhead East Asian Institute Columbia University Since the central government of China started major campaigns for western development in the mid 1990s the economies of the Tibetan areas in Western China have grown rapidly and living standards have improved However grievances and protests have also intensified as dramatically evidenced by the protests that spread across most Tibetan areas in spring 2008 and by the more recent wave of self immolation protests that started in 2011 This book offers a detailed and careful exploration of this synergy between development and conflict in Tibet from the mid 1990s onwards when rapid economic growth has occurred in tandem with a particularly assimilationist approach of integrating Tibet into China Fischer argues that the intensified economic integration of Tibet into regional and national development strategies on these assimilationist terms within a context of continued political disempowerment and through the massive channeling of subsidies through Han Chinese dominated entities based outside the Tibetan areas has accentuated various dynamics of subordination and marginalization faced by Tibetans of all social strata Whether or not these dynamics are intended to be discriminatory they effectively accentuate the discriminatory assimilationist and disempowering characteristics of development even while producing considerable improvements in the material consumption of local Tibetans In particular strong cultural linguistic and political biases intensify ethnically exclusionary dynamics among middle and upper strata of the Tibetan labor force which is problematic considering the rapid shift of Tibetans out of agriculture and towards the highly subsidy dependent sectors of the economy especially in urban areas The combination of these disempowering dynamics with the sheer speed of dislocating and disembedding social change provides important insights into recent tensions given that it has accentuated insecurity while restricting the ability of Tibetan communities to adapt in autonomous and self determined ways The study represents one of the only macro level and systemic analyses of its kind in the scholarship on Tibet based on accessible economic analysis and extensive interdisciplinary fieldwork It also carries much interest for those interested in China and in the interactions between development inequality exclusion and conflict more generally rapid state led growth The urban rural divide plays an important role in this polarized dynamic but alone only partially explains differences with other Chinese regions all of which generally exhibit strong spatial inequalities This book therefore focuses on several further factors that determine the ethnically exclusionary character of current peripheral growth in the Tibetan areas These include processes of urbanization immigration employment and education as key factors underlying structural economic change
