Dialect, Diction, and Style in Greek Literary and Inscribed Epigram Evina Sistakou, Antonios Rengakos, 2016-10-24
Language and style of epigram is a topic scarcely discussed in the related bibliography. This edition aspires to fill the gap by offering an in-depth study of dialect, diction, and style in Greek literary and inscribed epigram in a collection of twenty-one contributions authored by international scholars. The authors explore the epigrammatic Kunstsprache and matters of dialectical variation, the interchange between poetic and colloquial vocabulary, the employment of hapax legomena, the formalistic uses of the epigrammatic discourse, meter, syntactical patterns, arrangement of words, riddles, the various categories of style in sepulchral, philosophical, and pastoral contexts of literary epigrams, and the idiosyncratic diction of inscriptions. This is a book intended for classicists who want to review the connection between the stylistic features of epigram and its interpretation, as well as for scholars keen to understand how rhetoric and linguistics can be used as a heuristic tool for the study of literature.

Essai on a Punic Inscription Found on the Island of Malta William Drummond (Rt. Hon. Sir.), 1810
David the Invincible Commentary on Porphyry's Isagoge Gohar Muradyan, 2014-11-27
The Armenian version of David the Invincible's Commentary on Porphyry's Isagoge, although extremely literal, is shorter by a quarter than the Greek original and contains revised passages. The Greek text reproduces Busse's edition of 1904, but sometimes preference is given to readings in the apparatus corroborated by the Armenian version. The Armenian text is based on Arev Atyan's edition of 1976, but seven more manuscripts have been consulted, and some varia lectiones confirmed by the Greek original have been included in the text. The English translation is from the Armenian version. The passages of the Greek text without Armenian equivalent are translated into English as well. Also, the book contains Armenian marginal scholia.

The Commonwealth of Nature: Art and Poetic Community in the Age of Dante, Signing the Body Katherine Dauge-Roth, 2019-11-14
The first major scholarly investigation into the rich history of the marked body in the early modern period, this interdisciplinary study examines multiple forms, uses, and meanings of corporeal inscription and impression in France and the French Atlantic from the late sixteenth through early eighteenth centuries. Placing into dialogue a broad range of textual and visual sources drawn from areas as diverse as demonology, jurisprudence, mysticism, medicine, pilgrimage, commerce, travel, and colonial conquest that have formerly been examined largely in isolation, Katherine Dauge-Roth demonstrates that emerging theories and practices of signing the body must be understood in relationship to each other and to the development of other material marking practices that rose to prominence in the early modern period. While each chapter brings to light the particular histories and meanings of a distinct set of cutaneous marks—devil's marks on witches, demon's marks upon the possessed, devotional wounds, Amerindian and Holy Land pilgrim tattoos, and criminal brands—each also reveals connections between these various types of stigmata, links that were obvious to the early modern thinkers who theorized and deployed them. Moreover, the five chapters bring to the fore ways in which corporeal marking of all kinds interacted dynamically with practices of writing on imprinting and engraving paper parchment fabric and metal that flourished in the period together signaling important changes taking place in early modern society Examining the marked body as a material object replete with varied meanings and uses Signing the Body Marks on Skin in Early Modern France shows how the skin itself became the register of the profound cultural and social transformations that characterized this era
