Rhetoric Of Church And State

Jeffrey S. Librett

Rhetoric Of Church And State:

The Rhetoric of Church and State Frederick Mark Gedicks, 1995 During the middle of the twentieth century the religiously informed communitarianism that had guided the Supreme Court's decisions regarding the relationship between church and state was partially displaced by a new secular individualist discourse In The Rhetoric of Church and State Frederick Mark Gedicks argues that this partial and incomplete shift is the key to understanding why the Court has failed and continues today to fail to provide a coherent doctrine on church state separation Gedicks suggests that the Supreme Court's inconsistent decisions mirror a divergence in American society between an increasingly secular public culture and the primarily devout private lives of the majority of Americans He notes that while the Court is committed to principles of secular individualism it has repeatedly endorsed government actions that violate those principles actions that would be far more justifiable under the discourse of religious communitarianism The impossibility of reconciling the two discourses leaves the Court no choice but to efface often implausibly the religious nature of practices it deems permissible Gedicks concludes that the road to a coherent religion clause doctrine lies neither in a return to religious communitarianism nor in its complete displacement by secular individualism but in a yet to be identified discourse that would attract popular support while protecting a meaningful measure of religious freedom

The Rhetoric of Cultural Dialogue Jeffrey S. Librett, 2000 In this groundbreaking work the author effects the first extended rhetorical philosophical reading of the historically problematic relationship between Jews and Germans based on an analysis of texts from the Enlightenment through Modernism by Moses Mendelssohn Friedrich and Dorothea Schlegel Karl Marx Richard Wagner Friedrich Nietzsche and Sigmund Freud The theoretical underpinning of the work lies in the author's rereading in terms of contemporary rhetorical theory of the medieval tradition known as figural representation which defines the Jewish Christian relation as that between the dead prefigural letter and the living fulfilled spirit After arguing that the German Enlightenment ultimately plays out the historical phantasm of a necessary Judaization of Protestant rationality the author shows that German Early Romanticism consists fundamentally in the attempt to solve the aporias raised by this impossible confrontation between Protestant spirit and Jewish letter In readings of Dorothea Schlegel Mendelssohn's daughter and her husband Friedrich Schlegel the author provides a new interpretation of the Neo Catholic turn of later German Romanticism Further he situates the proleptic end and reversal of the project of Jewish emancipation in the two extreme versions of late nineteenth century anti Judaism those of Marx and Wagner here viewed as binary concretizations of a specifically post Romantic paganized Protestantism Finally the author argues that twentieth century Modernism as represented by Nietzsche and Freud renews if in a multiply ironic displacement the secret Judaizing tendencies of the Enlightenment Fascism and Communism both denigrate this Modernism which affirms the letter of language as quasi synonymous with the force of temporality or anticipatory repetition that disrupts all claims to the full presence of spirit The book ends with a note on recent debates about Holocaust memory rhetoric of the new political documentary with the films typically having been shot with relatively low budgets in video and using interviews and stock footage rather than observation of uncontrolled behavior The quality was often good enough and interest was sufficiently intense that the films were shown in theaters and on television which provided legitimacy and visibility before they were released soon afterwards on DVD and VHS and marketed on the Internet The volume reviews such films as Michael Moore's Fahrenheit 9/11 two refutations of Moore's film Fahrenheit 9/11 and Celsius 41.11 Unprecedented The 2000 Presidential Election and George W Bush Faith in the White House films that experimented with a variety of angles and rhetorics from a mix of comic disparagement and earnest confrontation to various emulations of traditional news and documentary voices The Rhetoric of the New Political Documentary represents the continued transformation of American political discourse in a partisan and contentious time and showcases the independent voices and the political power brokers that struggled to find new ways to debate the status quo and employ surrogate independents to create a counterrhetoric

Humanism and the Rhetoric of Toleration Gary Remer, 2010-11-01 Religious toleration is much discussed these days But where did the Western notion of toleration come from In this thought provoking book Gary Remer traces arguments for religious toleration back to the Renaissance demonstrating how humanist thinkers initiated an intellectual tradition that has persisted even to our present day Although toleration has long been recognized as an important theme in Renaissance humanist thinking many scholars have mistakenly portrayed the humanists as proto Enlightenment rationalists and nascent liberals Remer however offers the surprising conclusion that humanist thinking on toleration was actually founded on the classical tradition of rhetoric It was the rhetorician's commitment to decorum the ability to argue both sides of an issue and the search for an acceptable epistemological standard in probability and consensus that grounded humanist arguments for toleration Remer also finds that the primary humanist model for a full fledged theory of toleration was the Ciceronian rhetorical category of sermo conversatio The historical scope of this book is wide ranging Remer begins by focusing on the works of four humanists Desiderius Erasmus Jacobus Acontius William Chillingworth and Jean Bodin Then he considers the challenge posed to the humanist defense of toleration by Thomas Hobbes and Pierre Bayle Finally he shows how humanist ideas have continued to influence arguments for toleration even after the passing of humanism from John Locke to contemporary American discussions of freedom of speech

Separating Church and State Steven K. Green, 2022-03-15 Steven K Green renowned for his scholarship on the separation of church and state charts the career of the concept and helps us understand how it has fallen into disfavor with many Americans In 1802 President Thomas Jefferson distilled a leading idea in the early American republic and wrote of a wall of separation between church and state That metaphor has come down from Jefferson to twenty first century Americans through a long history of jurisprudence political contestation and cultural influence This book traces the development of the concept of separation of church and state and the Supreme Court's application of it in the law Green finds that conservative criticisms of a separation of church and state overlook the strong historical and jurisprudential pedigree of the idea Yet arguing with liberal advocates of the doctrine he notes that the idea remains fundamentally vague and thus open to loose interpretation in the courts As such the history of a wall of separation is more a variable index of American attitudes toward the forces of religion and state Indeed Green argues that the Supreme Court's use of the wall metaphor has never been essential to its rulings The contemporary battle over the idea of a wall of separation has thus been a distraction from the real jurisprudential issues animating the contemporary courts

Rethinking Church, State, and Modernity David Lyon, Marguerite Van Die, 2000-01-01 The contributors consider how Canada's religious experience is distinctive in the modern world somewhere between the largely secularized Europe and the relatively religious United States

The Religious Rhetoric of U.S. Presidential Candidates Arnaud Vincent, 2019-08-21 Drawing on corpus linguistic methods of analysis this book critically examines the rhetorical God gap in American political discourse between the Democratic and Republican parties The volume investigates the claims which have often not been substantiated by quantitative data in the literature and have tended to focus on particular genres of political discourse that there is a correlation between a higher degree of religiosity in Republican political discourse and voting preferences for the party and that Democratic politicians should engage in similar discourse toward closing the gap The book adopts a keyword approach using such techniques as collocation analyses concordance reading and Bible specific N gram identification toward the study of a corpus of general campaign speeches over a 50 year period and links findings from this data with social and cultural contextual factors to provide a more informed understanding of rhetorical patterns in religiously laden political language The volume showcases the value of corpus linguistic methods in interrogating claims around political language and their broader applicability in linguistic research making this key reading for students and scholars in corpus linguistics critical discourse analysis American politics and religious studies

Masking Hegemony Craig Martin, 2016-04-29 Masking Hegemony presents a critical evaluation of the language used in liberal political thought tracing liberalism's use of two key binary concepts public private and religion state from the Protestant Reformation to the present Whilst appearing to separate religion from state and public from private this language actually masks the influence of religious institutions on state policies and the inevitable circulation of power from the private to the public sphere in a liberal democracy Masking Hegemony uses the work of Gramsci Foucault and Bourdieu to offer a fresh approach to liberal ideology that will be of interest to students and scholars of both politics and religion

Thomas Jefferson and the Wall of Separation Between Church and State Daniel Dreisbach, 2003-10 No phrase in American letters than Thomas Jefferson's phrase wall of separation between church and state has had a more profound influence on church state law policy and discourse and few metaphors have provoked more passionate debate Introduced in an 1802 letter to the Danbury Connecticut Baptist Association Jefferson's wall is accepted by many Americans as a concise description of the U S Constitution's church state arrangement and conceived as a virtual rule of constitutional law Dreisbach offers an in depth examination of the origins controversial uses and competing interpretations of this powerful metaphor in law and public policy from publisher information

Presidential Campaign Rhetoric in an Age of Confessional Politics Brian T. Kaylor, 2010-12-28 When a Bible quoting Sunday School teacher Jimmy Carter won the 1976 presidential election it marked the start of a new era of presidential campaign discourse The successful candidates since then have followed Carter's lead in publicly testifying about their personal religious beliefs and invoking God to justify their public policy positions and their political visions With this new confessional political style the candidates have repudiated the former perspective of a civil religious contract that kept political leaders from being too religious and religious leaders from being too political Presidential Campaign Rhetoric in the Age of Confessional Politics analyzes the religious political discourse used by presidential nominees from 1976 2008 and then describes key characteristics of their confessional rhetoric that represent a substantial shift from the tenets of the civil religious contract This new confessional political style is characterized by religious political rhetoric that is testimonial partisan sectarian and liturgical in nature In order to understand why candidates have radically adjusted their God talk on the campaign trail important religious political shifts in American society since the 1950s are examined which demonstrate the rhetorical demands evangelical religious leaders have placed upon our would be national leaders Brian T Kaylor utilizes Michel Foucault's work on the confession with theoretical adjustments to critique the significant problems of the confessional political era With clear analyses and unsettling relevance Kaylor's critique of contemporary political discourse will rouse the interest and concern of engaged citizens everywhere

monarch's power To what extent were these disputes present in Shakespeare's work In her compelling reassessment of Shakespeare's historicity Donna Hamilton rejects the notion that the official censorship of the day prevented the stage from representing contemporary debates concerning the relations among church state and individual She argues instead that throughout his career Shakespeare positioned his writing politically and ideologically in relation to the ongoing and changing church state controversies and in ways that have much in common with the shifts on these issues identified with the Leicester Sidney Essex Southampton Pembroke group In her readings of King John Comedy of Errors Twelfth Night Measure for Measure Cymbeline and Henry VIII Hamilton finds Shakespeare reappropriating a wide range of idioms from church state discourse particularly those of anti catholicism and nonconformity And she uses this language to broach some of the broad social and political issues involving obedience privacy property and conscience matters that were often the focus of church state disputes and that provided this historical period with its central rhetorics of subjectivity In this first full scale study of Shakespeare and church politics Hamilton also provides an important reassessment of censorship practices of the means by which dissident views circulated of the centrality of anti catholic discourse for all church state debates and of the overwhelming significance of church state issues as an agent for print and stage
