Rhetoric in the Rest of the West Shane Borrowman, Marcia Kmetz, Robert L. Lively, 2010-04-16 While the study of the history of rhetoric has expanded to include an ever growing range of rhetorical traditions lesser known figures and under and un studied texts it has continued to exist in the hermetically sealed binary of West and Rest Rhetorical scholars have begun uncovering the many marginalized rhetorical traditions silenced by the homogenous nature of our histories themselves reading and writing new histories of the rhetorical tradition through frames from gender to geography Despite these substantial challenges to the traditionally received history of rhetoric many voices are still silenced and many spaces are still excluded voices speaking within the spaces of the less than monolithic West itself This silencing and excluding continues perhaps because of assumptions that no texts exist from these marginalized voices or that substantial rhetorical activity was not conducted in these marginalized spaces regardless of already extant evidence of rhetorical activity as diverse as rural civic ethos in Classical Greece and Etruscan influences on Roman rhetoric or long standing passive knowledge of scholarly activity in Medieval Andalusia and Ireland Rhetoric in the Rest of the West attempts to expand the conversation in those gaps in the history of rhetoric by examining the traditions that lost the cultural competition and have been shrouded in the shadow of the rhetorical tradition Difficult Empathy and

Rhetorical Encounters Eric Leake, 2023-08-04 Difficult Empathy takes up the question of empathy as fundamentally a rhetorical concern focusing on the ways we encounter and understand one another in what we read and write hear and say The book centres around the argument that empathy as a rhetorical event occurs not simply in the minds of individuals but as a product of the rhetorical situations practices cultures and values in which we engage Rather than identifying empathy as a cure all or jettisoning the concept altogether the author acknowledges empathy's potential as well as its limitations by focusing on what makes empathy a hard and ultimately worthwhile practice This nuanced and original study will interest scholars working at the intersection of rhetoric and composition with empathy as well as those studying empathy in fields such as critical and cultural theory politics media analysis social psychology and the cognitive humanities Sacred

Rhetoric Debora K. Shuger, 2014-07-14 There are no studies of a sacred grand style in the English Renaissance writes Debora Shuger because even according to its practitioners it was not supposed to exist Yet the grand style forms the unacknowledged center of traditional rhetorical theory In this first history of the grand style Professor Shuger explores the growth of a Christian aesthetic out of the Classical grand style showing its development from Isocrates to the sacred rhetorics of the Renaissance These rhetorics advocate a Christian grand style neither pedantically mimetic nor playfully sophistic whose models include Tacitus and the Bible as well as Cicero and whose theoretical sources embrace not only Cicero and Quintilian but Hermogenes and Longinus This style dominates the best and most scholarly rhetorics of the period texts written in Latin and while ignored by most recent scholars extensively used in England throughout the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries These works are the first attempts since Augustine's pioneering revision of Ciceronian rhetoric to reground ancient rhetorical theory on Christian epistemology and theology According to Professor Shuger the Christian grand style is passionate vivid dramatic metaphoric yet this emotional energy and sensuousness is shaped and legitimated by Renaissance religious culture Thus sacred rhetoric cannot be considered apart from contemporary theories of cognition emotion selfhood and signification It mediates between word and world Moreover these texts suggest the almost forgotten centrality of neo Latin scholarship during these years and provide a crucial theoretical context for England's great flowering

Transforming the Disciplines Renee P Prys, Mary Jane Cherry, Susan Popham, Elizabeth L Macnabb, 2013-10-31 A jargon free non technical and easily accessible introduction to women s studies All too many students enter academia with the hazy idea that the field of women s studies is restricted to housework birth control and Susan B Anthony Their first encounter with a women s studies textbook is likely to focus on the history and sociology of women s lives While these topics are important the emphasis on them has led to neglect of equally important issues Transforming the Disciplines A Women s Studies Primer is one of the first women s studies textbooks to show feminist scholarship as an active force changing the way we study such diverse fields as architecture bioethics history mathematics religion and sports studies Although this text was designed as an introduction to women s studies it is also rewarding for upper level or graduate students who want to understand the pervasive effects of feminist theory Most chapters provide a bibliography or list of further reading of significant works Its clear jargon free prose makes feminist thought accessible to general readers without sacrificing the revolutionary power of its ideas In almost thirty essays covering a broad range of subjects from anthropology to chemistry to rhetoric Transforming the Disciplines exemplifies the changes achieved by feminist thought Transforming the Disciplines combines a high standard of writing and scholarship with personal insight includes both traditional academic arguments and alternative non agonistic forms of discussion embraces an international scope challenges traditional assumptions models and methodologies offers an inter and multidisciplinary approach strengthens readers understanding of the big picture not only for women but for all disempowered groups critiques feminism as well as patriarchal society Feminist theory is grounded in a questioning of traditional assumptions about what is right natural and self evident not just about the roles and nature of men and women but about how we think what we teach whose experience matters and what is important Transforming the Disciplines is the first textbook to show the consequences of those questions not the answers themselves but the consequences of the willingness to ask and the transformations that have occurred when the right answers changed

Considering Pragma-Dialectics Peter Houtlosser, Agnes van Rees, 2014-04-04 Considering Pragma Dialectics honors the monumental contributions of one of the foremost international figures in current argumentation scholarship Frans van Eemeren The volume presents the research efforts of his colleagues and addresses how their work relates to the pragma dialectical theory of argumentation with which van Eemeren's name is so intimately connected. This tribute serves to highlight the varied approaches to the study of argumentation and is destined to inspire researchers to advance scholarship in the field far into the future. Replete with contributions from highly esteemed academics in argumentation study, chapters in this volume address such topics as Pragma dialectic versus epistemic theories of arguing and arguments, Pragma dialectics and self-advocacy in physician-patient interactions, The pragma dialectical analysis of the ad hominem fallacy, Rhetoric dialectic and the functions of argument, and The semantics of reasonableness. As an exceptional volume and a fitting tribute, this work will be of interest to all argumentation scholars considering the astute insights and scholarly legacy of Frans van Eemeren.

Christology and Metaphysics in the Seventeenth Century Richard Cross, 2022. Richard Cross explores the largely uncharted territory of seventeenth-century Christology, paying close attention to its metaphysical and semantic presuppositions and consequences. He shows that theologians of all stripes develop and expand theories that are associated respectively with the medieval theologians Thomas Aquinas and Duns Scotus. Italian and French Dominicans follow Aquinas closely, read through the lens of Cardinal Cajetan. But most Iberian Dominicans incorporate Suarez's theory of modes into their account, and Suarez whose account is a modification of Scotus's, is in turn followed by his fellow Jesuits. Lutherans use Cajetan's account to fill explanatory gaps in their own accounts, and Reformed theologians by and large adapt the position associated with Scotus. The study ends with an account of Leibniz's Christology in its historical and conceptual context.

Reinventing (with) Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies Andrea Alden, Kendall Gerdes, Judy Holiday, Ryan Skinnell, 2019-10-21. Reinventing with Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies collects original scholarship that takes up and extends the practices of inventive theorizing that characterize Sharon Crowley's body of work. Including sixteen chapters by established and emerging scholars and an interview with Crowley, the book shows that doing theory is a contingent and continual rhetorical process that is indispensable for understanding situations and their potential significance and for discovering the available means of persuasion. For Crowley, theory is a basic building block of rhetoric produced by and within specific times and locations as a means of opening other ways of believing or acting. Doing theory in this sense is the practice of surveying the common sense of the community doxa and discovering the available means of persuasion. Invention. The ultimate goal of doing theory is not to prescribe certain actions but to ascertain what options exist for rhetors to see the world differently, to discover new possibilities for thought and action, and thereby to effect change in the world. The scholarship collected in Reinventing with Theory in Rhetoric and Writing Studies takes Crowley's notion of theory as an invitation to develop new avenues for believing and acting. By reinventing the understanding of theory and its role in the field, this collection makes an important contribution to scholarship in rhetorical studies and writing studies. It will be valuable to scholars, teachers, and students interested in diverse theoretical directions in rhetoric and writing studies as well as in race
