

*Because I could not stop for Death – He kindly stopped for me;
The carriage held but just our two – And beautifully we slowly drove.
He knew no loneliness, that I had not answered. After labor and pain, he said to me, 'My love, he passed the school where children played. Their heads were scarce done; We passed the setting sun. The pasture bays the woods that seemed all waiting at the mound. The roof was scarcely visible, The corner but a mound. Since then the centuries; but each thick cluster than the day I first perceived the rouser heads from beneath eternity.*

Journey to Enlightenment - Seasons Soy Criada, 2007-08 Here is a book of poetry that covers a wide variety of topics: love, nature, cultural, social, political, and spiritual issues of the Jamaican people. The book is entitled Seasons, named off one of the poems that reflects on the different seasonal changes in nature and likens life to them. Just as how nature accepts the various seasons gracefully, this poem explains to individuals how to recognize and accept life seasons willingly. If we recognize and accept these, there will be no regret; life will be full of joy because this is the order of the universe. This book in its introduction gives a clear-cut description of eight basic styles of poetry writing and sites examples of each in the book. It's an excellent book to introduce young minds to different styles in poetry writing. The greater part of this book is written in Standard English with one chapter written in Jamaican dialect. Humour is not left out; the poem Mi lass and Weh di man dem are classic examples and put you right into the center of the Jamaican way of life. There is also a glossary which gives the meaning for most of Jamaican dialect used in the book. Seasons is unique as all the poems are dated and foot

Through Four Seasons Edith Patch, Dear Girls and Boys You are the same children all through the year but you do not look just the same in winter and in summer Your January clothes are different from those you wear in July Perhaps the color of your skin is changed too It will be a few shades darker during the season of brightest sunshine if you are outdoors as much as you should be You may have more freckles in summer and perhaps your hair will be bleached by the sun to a little different shade People do not do exactly the same things in spring as they do in the fall Farmers plant seeds in the ground in the spring In the fall they harvest food for winter use Storekeepers show different things in their shop windows in summer and winter Fashions change in games as well as in work You like to play some games in summer that would not be nearly so pleasant in winter People may be happy at any time in the year and yet there is some difference in the kinds of happiness The joy you have in looking at the first pussy willow or bluet or violet or other spring flower is not quite the same as that you feel in the jolly fall when the chattering squirrel gathers his acorns and the trees let their gay leaves go fluttering down If people do not look and act and feel just the same at different times of the year what about the rest of the world Well a bobolink is the same bird in the fall as he is in the spring although he does not look and act the same In the spring he wears a suit of white and black and yellow but in the fall his feathers show mostly olive and brown colors He does not act the same either In the spring he sings a joyous bubbling song of many lovely lively notes In the fall he repeats over and over again one call that sounds as if he were answering the rest of the bobolinks who are all making the same sociable sound You will understand that there is not room in one book to tell about more than a few of the wonderful things in the world for a book is small and the world itself is very large There are indeed more interesting things in the world than have ever been described in all the books that have been printed So suppose that you read the chapters in this book and think about them in a special way Think about them as samples of what the world has to show Then collection and synthesis of key research studies since the program's inception over three decades ago serves as a marker of the significant role that Sesame Street plays in the education and socialization of young children. Editors Shalom M. Fisch and Rosemarie T. Truglio have included contributions from both academics and researchers directly associated with Sesame Street, creating a resource that describes the processes by which educational content and research are integrated into production reviews, major studies on the impact of Sesame Street on children, and examines the extension of Sesame Street into other cultures and media. In the course of this discussion, the volume also explores broader topics including methodological issues in conducting media-based research with young children, the longitudinal impact of preschoolers' viewing of educational versus non-educational television, and cross-cultural differences in the treatment of educational content. As the first substantive book on Sesame Street research in more than two decades, G is for Growing provides insight into the research process that has informed the development of the program and offers valuable guidelines for the integration of research into future educational endeavors. Intended for readers in media studies, children and the media, developmental studies, and education, this work is an exceptional chronicle of the growth and processes behind what is arguably the most influential program in children's educational television.
