Villages and Market Towns in Hong Kong Patrick H. Hase, 2024-11-18 Most histories of Hong Kong begin with the arrival of the British and only incidentally mention the pre colonial eras In this book Patrick Hase one of the leaders in the field provides an important addition to the history of Hong Kong and the Pearl River Delta region covering topics such as Chinese ethnicity commerce port towns and squatting It is a truly excellent work that will interest historians anthropologists and social scientists James L. Watson Fairbank Professor of Chinese Society and Anthropology Emeritus Harvard University This book an historical and archaeological portrayal of Hong Kong market villages across the territory depicts how Hong Kong evolved not through chronicles of emperors and governors but through the ups and downs of different centres of rural life over the centuries It belongs beyond the bookshelves of historians and archaeologists anyone wandering the streets of Hong Kong neighbourhoods today wondering how did this place get to be here will find this book well worth reading After reading this book I will never again look at Tsim Sha Tsui in quite the same way Gordon Mathews Research Professor and Emeritus Professor of Anthropology The Chinese University of Hong Kong How have places in Hong Kong evolved since well before the 19th century Villages and Market Towns in Hong Kong is a vital book showing us how its various suburban settlements came into being Such is a history of immense interest as well as unending fascination Since arriving at Hong Kong more than half a century ago Patrick Hase has been researching its local history with a particular focus on the market towns and villages in the New Territories Due to a lack of written documentation for the study of these communities much of his research was conducted through oral interviews with village elders in the 1980s and 1990s Hase sought their memories of the villages in their youth as well as their grandparents accounts of the communities prior to the age of high technology urbanization and modernization

Contemporary problems of economic and social change have obliged social scientists from different fields to learn much about each others work as well as about the specific problems they are together seeking to solve The bearing of economic conditions on the character of a social system has become more apparent to anthropologists and similarly economists have become more aware of the relevance of social factors to economic decisions This pioneering book is at the point of contact between these two disciplines presenting detailed studies from many societies of the interaction between social and economic relationships The studies in this volume all by social anthropologists focus on the formation and management of capital since this process is central to the economic functioning and growth of all societies With this central theme the essays cover a very wide geographic range and an equally wide range of social and economic structures The book begins with an essay by Firth who provides an extended outline discussion of the main problems and issues to be covered and ends with an essay by Yamey who provides summarizing comments and queries The volume will be especially useful to those concerned with the problems and prospects of economic and social change in underdeveloped areas in addition to economists and anthropologists concerned with what each can learn from the other The 1964 Far East, Communist China, Oceania Agricultural Situation
