A Rice Village Saga Yujiro Hayami, Masao Kikuchi, 1999-12-29 The rice belt of Laguna Province Philippines popularly known as the heartland of the Green Revolution for its early adoption of modern rice varieties has experienced dramatic economic and social changes in the last quarter of the twentieth century Besides the major advances in new rice technology four major forces have prompted change increasing population pressure on limited land implementation of land reform programs developments in infrastructure such as irrigation and roads and penetration of urban economic activities A unique data set generated from many surveys during the period 1966-97 in a typical village in Laguna as put together in this book illustrates a pattern of socio economic change shared by many irrigated rice areas in the Philippines as well as in other Asian economies

A Rice Village Saga Y. Hayami, M. Kikuchi, 2000 Waves of modernizing forces such as the commercialisation of new technology have been pressing major change upon rural communities in the Third World But has modernization created greater poverty and inequality A unique data set generated from eleven surveys during 1966-87 in a typical rice village in the Philippines illustrates a pattern of socio economic change shared by many lowland rice areas in the Philippines as well as in other Asian economies The authors present the lessons drawn from thirty years of detailed empirical research

An African Green Revolution Keijiro Otsuka, Donald F. Larson, 2012-12-22 This volume explores the usefulness of the Asian model of agricultural development for Africa where even before the recent world food crisis half the population lived on less than on dollar a day and a staggering one in three people and one third of all children were undernourished Africa has abundant natural resources agriculture provides most of its jobs a third of national income and a larger portion of total export earnings However the levels of land and labor productivity rank among the worst in the world The book explains Africa's productivity gap and proposes ways to close it by examining recent experience in Africa and by drawing on lessons from Asia
