Richard Flusser And The After Dinner Opera Company:

Richard Flusser Michael Lydon, 2000 Richard Flusser and the After Dinner Opera Company tells the tale of a little opera company that could An opera lover since childhood Richard Flusser founded the After Dinner Opera Company in 1950 Through the thick and thin of fifty years and always on a shoestring he and his wife Beth with dozens of talented singers have produced hundreds of American comic operas many of them historic debuts in 1956 the ADO became the first American company to take American operas to Europe While coping with backstage crises and two growing kids in their East Village home the Flussers stuck to their dream of bringing American opera to audiences in New York across the country and around the world In doing so they have championed countless composers and librettists including Ned Rorem Seymour Barab and Gertrude Stein The book's appendix listing the seventy seven American operas produced by the ADO gives a measure of the Flusser's lasting contribution to American musical theater A heart warming and humorous book Richard Flusser and the After Dinner Opera Company will make inspiring reading for anyone who knows the joys and pains of life devoted to the creative arts Michael Lydon a writer and musician is the author of Richard Flusser and the After Dinner Opera Company and three other books on American music Rock Folk Boogie Lightning and Ray Charles Man and Music Richard Hall a noted writer on opera wrote the introduction to Richard Flusser and the After Dinner Opera Company His insights into the ADO's half century of achievement and the fun the Flussers have had along the way provide an excellent summary of this informative and enjoyable book From Richard Hall's introduction to Richard Flusser and the After Dinner Opera Company We haven't learned to lose money yet The closest we came was in our 1950 season when we lost 2 50 I guess we'll have to do better than that if we're going to get a subsidy Richard Flusser's black eyes were bright with laughter as he delivered these sentiments Founder producer and director of the After Dinner Opera Company Flusser has built his group into the oldest permanent floating chamber opera group in the country no mean trick for a troupe without a home theater and with a taste for contemporary music The After Dinner Opera owes its success to its style which is both exotic and delicate rather like a banana soufflé and to its material which could be described as modestly madcap The ADO specializes in instant operatic fun in works that are quaintly mythological pseudo folkish cheerfully sexy One critic has described its output as opera of the absurd and the name suits In a single evening the company may bounce through as many as seven short works each zanier than the one before none lasting more than twenty minutes If you think of Harpo Marx in A Night at the Opera swinging through the air on ropes and dropping the wrong sets behind the tenor you'll get some idea of the mayhem involved For all its friskiness however the ADO has serious musical ambitions to provide a testing ground for young composers and help them master their art Therein lies the chief paradox of its existence Are we musical comedy or opera Flusser has lived with the paradox for years and cheerfully admits its insolubility We manage to offend almost everyone he says Encyclopedia of American Opera Ken Wlaschin, 2024-10-16 This encyclopedia lists describes and cross references everything to do with American opera works both operas and operettas composers librettists singers and source authors along with relevant recordings The approximately 1 750 entries range from ballad operas and composers of the 18th century to modern minimalists and video opera artists Each opera entry consists of plot history premiere and cast followed by a chronological listing of recordings movies and videos

From Johnson's Kids to Lemonade Opera Victoria Etnier Villamil, 2004 American baritone Lawrence Tibbett created an overnight sensation at the Metropolitan Opera in 1925 when the audience stopped the performance of Falstaff to honor their compatriot for his exceptional talent Tibbett's now legendary curtain call foreshadowed a startling new era for classically trained native singers who rarely received the public recognition or respect given to their European colleagues In this absorbing work Victoria Etnier Villamil chronicles the extraordinary time from 1935 to 1950 when American artists who felt intensely inferior to foreign performers journeyed from being unappreciated in their own country to standing without apology on stages at home and abroad Drawing on exhaustive primary research and extensive interviews Villamil tells the remarkable story of a generation of American opera singers whose profession image and art were forever altered by the upheavals of World War II as well as sweeping cultural and technological changes The author's in depth look at these breakthrough years explores such defining factors as Edward Johnson's drive to Americanize the Met in his first seasons as general manager the impact of the microphone on singers and singing styles and the importance of radio and motion pictures in introducing classical music voices to wider audiences Villamil also considers how travel restrictions imposed on European artists during the war unlocked opportunities for American artists and the role of political and Jewish refugees in enriching music education and training in this country In addition the author discusses thoroughly the founding of the New York City Opera the rise of regional and smaller opera companies including the enterprising and popular Lemonade Opera and advancements for African American classical singers Brimming with entertaining anecdotes and colorful figures both famous and little remembered the fascinating book concludes with an examination of this crucial period's legacy for the American classical music scene in the 1950s and beyond From Johnson's Kids to Lemonade Opera contains an invaluable appendix that provides biographical sketches of the over 250 opera and radio singers as well as art song specialists featured in this illuminating study      Mama Dada Sarah Bay-Cheng,2004-06 Sarah Bay Cheng offers an examination of Gertrude Stein s drama within the history of the theatrical and cinematic avant gardes

My Road to Radio and The Vocal Scene George Jellinek, 2015-01-09 Born in Ujpest Hungary in 1919 George Jellinek began his musical career playing violin with gypsies in the family s garden restaurant He spent his adolescence doing much the same honing his talent and enriching his own musical education with frequent trips to the Hungarian Royal Opera House But when Hitler and Chamberlain signed the Munich Pact in 1938 Jellinek s quiet life was shattered How the exiled teenager survived World War II worked his way up from a poor Hungarian immigrant in Cuba and became one of the most important and influential musical administrators in New York is an unconventional but truly American success story This memoir documents the inspiring life of George Jellinek beginning with his childhood in his beloved Hungary The crisis of World War II soon invaded his life and leaving behind his family and homeland he fled west Having been finally allowed to enter the United States he was drafted into the U S Army in 1942 obligated to bear arms against the country of his birth This ironic turn of events culminated in his firsthand role in the capture of Ferenc Szalasi the leader of Hungary s Hitlerite faction The latter half of the book reveals how music helped Jellinek piece back together his broken life in America After rising to the post of musical director for radio station WQXR he went on to become the producer and host of The Vocal Scene His 36 years with that program established it as a revered fixture of New York s opera life The epilogue documents the day on which Hungary s president bestowed upon Jellinek the Knight s Cross of the Order of Merit of the Republic of Hungary
